THE CONFESSION OF PROBST IN FULL.

A HISTORY OF THE MURDERER.

Horrible Details of the Butchery.

In the BULLETIN of yesterday the main points of the confession of Anton Probst, the murderer of the Deering family, were published. In the afternoon Chief Detective Franklin and a number of reporters visited the cell of Probst, for the purpose of obtain-ing the confession in full. Probst was found sitting on his bed on the floor, and as Mr. Franklin entered he recognized him and greeted him familiarly. There is little perceptible change in his appearance, his face still having the flush that was so noticeable during his attendance at Court. He was in nowise abashed by the appearance of his visitors, and, in response to Mr. Franklin's questions, gave his answers promptly and without hesitation. During the time he was detailing the facts connected with the butchery, he never once appeared to recognize that he was telling a story calculated to curdle the blood of the most callous, but in all his speech he was quiet and subdued varying the recital with a smile whenever anything was said by himself appealing to his sense of the ridiculous.

Mr. Franklin introduced the conversation by remarking: 'So, Probst, you have con-cluded at last to tell the whole story of the murder?" "Yes," said the prisoner.

Q. You thought over the murder for some time, didn't you?" A. Oh, yes.
Q. You had seen Mr. Deering count money? A. Yes.

Q. You made up your mind to kill him?
A. Yes, at the first chance. Q. Were you ever in the road, waiting for him? A. No.
Q. Did you say anything to Carey about

Q. Did you say anything to Carey about the money in the house? A. No. Q. Did you have any conversation at all on the subject with Carey? A. No.

Q. When did you come to this country? A. In 1863. I landed at Castle Garden. Came on the ship Columbus. I am from Bremen, and am 25 years old; was in New York two hours before I enlisted; I landed on the 9th of May and went into the 12th New York Cavalry, stayed in camp five weeks and then went to Washington; after that I deserted and went to Baltimore, and from there to Philadelphia and to New York; next I enlisted in the 41st New York Regiment, infantry and was sent to South Carolina, and served on Folly Island; stayed there nine months and got orders to come to Washington; there I took my musket and everything and left. [Smiling.]

Q. You deserted again? A. Yes, I was stopped, but I told them I was not a soldier, and was going to work; was arrested at Baltimore, and taken to the Provost Marshal's office and kept for five days; they asked me what regiment I belonged to, and I told them I was not a soldier; they let me go, and I came to Philadelphia, and stopped in Carpenter street, below Broad; stayed there a couple of times, and then went to Chris. Moore's, in Front street; he took me to West Chester, and I enlisted in the 5th Pennsylvania Cavalry; was discharged on the 28th of May, 1865, at Richmond; came to Fortress Monroe, then to Baltimore and then to Philadelphia, and went to Chris. Moore's and got my bounty; I spent that money in about fourteen days, I spent that money in about fourteen days and then went to New York; went to Green wich street; was there in June, 1865.

Q. Your name is registered there on the 6th of June. What name did you giveyour right name? A. Yes, I suppose so. Q. Where did you go then? A. I went to Hoboken, to New street, and got work; after that I came to Philadelphia, and went again to Chris. Moore, and stayed there two or three days; I looked for work, and got it at a sugar factory in St. John street. Q. Did you give your right name then, or that of Jacob Ganter? A. I gave my right name.

Q. Was it not at Lovering's? A. I don't Was it near a church? A. Yes.

Q. Was it near a courcus. A. 100. Mr. Franklin—Yes, your name is there on Q. The work was too hot for you? A.Yes, I was there about eight weeks; left there, and for some time had a room with another man at Third and Brown streets, never went to any other sugar factory; never worked at Gillespie's; I went to an employ-ment office, and they sent me to Maryland to pick peaches, and I stayed there two weeks and got sick with the fever; came back to Philadelphia, and went to the Soldiers' Home in Christian street; stayed there fifteen days, and when I got well, I went to Chris. Moore's, and then went to

Q. Did you get work in New Jersey? A Q. When did you come back? A. In November; went to Chris. Moore's, and stayed there six or eight days, and got sick. Q. How did you spend all your money your bounty? A. [smiling] Drinking beer, Q. Any other way—with females? Probst merely smiled in answer to this question. and continued: As my money was out, I thought the best thing I could do, was to go to the Almshouse; got a ticket at Third and Brown; left the Almshouse about the first of December: I worked in the kitchen. Q. I want you to come to the first time you got to Mr. Deering's. A. Oh, I forgot that. After I got back from Maryland, I traveled around the country, and was sick and came to Chris. Moore's, and looked around for work, and came across Mr. Deering. Q. Mr. Deering didn't look for you? A.

Q. What did he say to you? A. I got there in the morning about eight o'clock, and he was not there, and his woman was alone, and I asked her if she wanted a man to work. She told me yes, but her husband was not in, and would be in the evening; I went back to the city, and went down again in the evening, about half-past five o'clock, and he (Deering) was there, and he said yes he wanted one, and he promised me $15 a month. I stayed there about three weeks; it was three or four days before the month was

Q. How did you come to leave? A. It rained very hard one day, and he sent me out in the field, and I didn't want to go, and I said, "You pay me off and I'll go away;" and he said, "All right."

Q. During all the time you were there you Q. During all the time you were there you saw him counting a great deal of money? A. Yes. When I left I got on the cart and rode up to the city with Cornelius; then went to Chris. Moore's and stayed there three or four days, and then went to the country into West Chester; came back and went to Chris. Moore's and stayed there country into west enester; came back and went to Chris. Moore's and stayed there ten or fourteen days; attended his horse and wagon; then went to the Almshouse and worked in the cook house until the 14th of February; gave my right name there; got a ticket to leave and didn't go back; stayed two days at Chris. Moore's, and one stayed two days at Chris. Moore's, and one day at Leckfeld's, and left a carpet bag there with a couple of shirts, a pair of pants, and a pair of boots and a neck tie, stayed at his house one day and then went to Mr. Deering's; it was Friday evening in February. Q. What did you tell them?

A. I told them I had no work and no money, and I wanted some work. Q. Did you tell them, any thing about your being to stayed two days at Chris. Moore's, and one day at Leckfeld's, and left a carpet bag there with a couple of shirts, a pair of pants, and a pair of boots and a neck tie; stayed at his house one day and then went you tell them anything about your being to and the said myself and put Mr. D.'s clothes Germany? A. Yes, I told them I had been on; then I ate some bread and butter, and there, and I told them I had walked all the there, and I told them I had walked all the way from New York. Q. You made up your mind when you went back, to get some of Deering's money? A. Yes. Q. Did you ever go to the Drove Yard with Deering? A. Yes. Q. How often? A. Four times. Q. Did you make any acquaintances there? A. Oh, I guess so. Q. Who? A. Some men who wanted me to go to work. O. When you went hack you made up your Q. When you went back you made up your mind to get the money? A. Yes. Q. How did you plan this thing? A. I planned it a good many times—whenever I got a chance. Q. Did you think of the murder? A. Never thought of that until the morning before.

Q. Did you try any way to get this money efore? A. No.

Mr. Perkins, who was present—You told me something about eight days before the murder, what was that—you thought of murdering the man? A. About eight days before I did think of killing the whole family. Q. What was your first plan? A. I thought I would kill them, as I could get the money in that way. Mr. Perkins—you thought or killing them in the morning? A. Yes, as they came down stairs. Q. Did you have an axe there at any time? A. Yes. Q. How was it you did not do it then? A. My heart failed me and I could not do it. Q. Was Deering always at home in the evening? A. Yes. Q. How about this morning? A. It was dark and raining and Correlius and revent at heart of the second revent at the second revent revent at the second revent ing, and Cornelius and me went to the meadow; Mr. Deering had gone to the city; then I made up my mind to do this. Q. Had you made up your mind to kill Deering when he came home? A. Yes. Q. Was the money in the house? A. I didn't know: Cornelius and I went to work about 8 o'clock: Mr. Deering went away before that, and said he would be back about 1 o'clock; Carey and me went to work in the meadow, about 100 yards from the haystack; we took the horse and cart. Q. What did you take to kill him? A. The big axe to cut roots. Q. Were you down in the ditch or on the bank? A. Under the big tree; he was sitting down under that tree and I stood behind him, and I got the axe; he was talking about work; I could not do it, and I drew back two or three times before I could do it, and then I struck him on the left side. Q. Did he halloo? A. No; after he fell I gave him two or three more blows, and then I cut his throat, Q. Did he bleed much? A. Yes; then I put him in the cart. Q. Did he have that strap around him then? A. Yes, he had that all the time. Q. Was this not in view of Mr. Wild's house? A. Yes. Q. Were way not offered the first house? Were you not afraid of them seeing it? A. Oh, I looked over there first; I took the cart and hauled him to the hay rick and covered him up. Q. Was there blood in the cart?

A. Yes, but I took some hay and wiped it off. Q. What next? A. I then went to the house with the horse and cart; this was after ten o'clock; I put a little wood on the eart when I drove to the house, and I left the cart standing there, and went over to the stable and got the other axe and hammer, and put them in the corner near the door, and then came over to the house again. Q. Had you any blood on you then? A. A little; but I took a little hay and wiped it off; when I got to the house Mrs. Deering was at the ditch with a bucket, getting water, but I told Johnny (the oldest boy) to come to the stable to help me: well, he comes, and I took him inside the door he comes, and I took him inside the doo and got the little axe, and, as soon as he got in, I knocked him down, and he fell inside. Q. Did he halloo? A. No; after he fell I gave him one er two more blows, and cut his throat. Q. What did you do with him?

A. Hid him there with hay, and took a little hay and wiped the blood up. I then took the axe and put it in its place in the corner, and came out and told Mrs. Deering there was something the matter with the little horse—that he was loose, and I could not tie him myself; she came in 2 or 3 minutes. Q. What aid she say? A. Nothing; she came inside the stable; I was inside, and I hit her on the head, and she fell into the stable.
Q. Did she cry out? A. No. Q. What did you do with her? A. Pulled her in the little barn; I got in first and pulled her by the sheatless than I am and pulled in the little barn; I got in first and pulled her by the shoulders; then I went to get the other boy (Thomas). Q. What did you tell him? A. I told him his mother wanted to see him; he came right along; I walked ahead of him, and when he got in I knocked him on the head. Q. Did he cry out? A. No. Q. How many times did you hit him? A. Well,I hit him once, and after that I hit him again; then I left the axe in the same place, and I went to the house and took Annie, and told her her mother wanted to see her; at the same time I took the baby on see her; at the same time I took the baby on my arm, and Annie walked alongside of me my arm, and Annie walked alongside of me to the stable; I put the baby on the floor, on the hay, and took Annie inside; Annie looked around for her mother. Q. Did she ask for her mother? A. [Smiling.] I was too much in a hurry. [Meaning, no doubt, that he did not give her time to ask.] Q. Well, what did you do? A. I knocked her down and cut her throat, and then I took the baby and cut it; then I took the axe and put it on the bench under the north and put it on the bench under the porch, where it was always kept; then I went to the house and took the horse from the cart and put him in the stable, and then went book the horse from the cart. back to the house and staid there waiting for Mr. Deering. Q. You did not search the house then? A. No; Mr. Deering came about half-past one o'clock; I saw him coming from the window down stairs, and saw Miss Dolan with him. Q. Then you were worried? A. Yes; I went outside and waited until they came; when he stepped out of the wagon I told him that the steer was sick in the stable and I wanted him to come and look at it. Q. What became of Miss Dolan? A. She went into the house; then I went into the stable and he came, and I took the axe right behind him and hit him in the middle of the stable and knocked him down on his face; used the small axe; when he was down I turned him over and gave him one or two more hits and then cut his throat. Q. Did he make any noise? A. No; he said nothing except when I first spoke to him; he said the steer didn't look so bad in the morning. Q. Well, what next? A. I put a little hay over him, and I came out and left him in the same place behind the door. Miss. Details same place behind the door; Miss Dolan called me, and said that the horse could not stand, and she said—"Anton, take the horse out." I told her that Mr. Deering wanted to see her over in the stable; she came and she asked me where Mrs. she came and she asked me where Mrs. Deering and the children were; I told her they were in the stable; she walked into the stable, and I took the hammer with my left hand, about five or six feet inside the door, and I hit her once on the head, and she fell right on his (Deering's) face; then I took the little axe and chopped her neck; then I shut the stable door, and took the watch and big pecket-book from Deering, and I took the little purse from Miss Dolan; then I took Mr. Deering and put him where you found him, and then Miss Dolan, and I covered them with hay; I then came out and shut the door and brought the horse and shut the door and brought the horse over to the stable and gave him plenty of hay, and I gave the same to all the horses, as much as I could, and then I shut the door, and went to the house and shut the door, and festened it, and I looked ground. door and fastened it, and I looked around; door and fastened it, and I looked around; I took out the pocket book to see what money I had; the big book you found in the house had $10 in greenbacks and two $2 notes, counterfeits, and one $3: that was all the money. Then I looked at Miss Dolan's purse, and saw nothing but the postere stamps. O' Are voll certain of the postage stamps. Q. Are you certain of that? A. Yes, I would not lie now. I left the watch and pocket book on the table, and went up stairs and I found went up stairs again and looked all around again, but could find nothing; then I put everything in the carpet bag and made ready to go away. When Miss Dolan went it is de she took off her furs and put them on the bed. Q. How late did you stay? A. Until about half-past six o'clock. Q. Did anybody come then? A. No; I didn't see any one. Q. What had you in the house in case anybody came? A. Nothing. Q. When you left which way did you go? A. By the Point House road; I left the door of the barn of en, so that the cattle could get hay.

Mr. Perkins—Before you left you gave

Mr. Perkins—Before you left you gave the chickens feed? A. Yes. Mr. Franklin—What about the water for Mr. Frankin—what about the water for the horses; you forgot that? A. Yes. Q. Well, go on? A. When I left, one or the dogs went with me. Q. Did he follow you of his own accord, or did you coax him? A. No. Q. Did any of the dogs follow you around the barn when you were doing all this? A. No. Q. How did you get up town? A. Came up in a Third street car, and that is the way got rid of the dog; I got out of the car at Callowhill street, and went to Leckfeld's; I had the valise with me, and an umbrella.

Probst then gave his wanderings around Front street, exactly as the witnesses detailed on the stand during the trial. He then continued: On Thursday night I went then continued: On Thursday night I went out Market street. Q. What for? A. To go to the country. Q. What for? A. I was going through the whole country. Q. Why—did you feel bad? A. Yes. Q. Had you seen the news in the papers? A. Yes. Q. Did you look at the paper every day to see? A. Yes. Q. When did you see it first? A. On Thursday morning, in the German papers. Q. Did you expect to be arrested? A. Yes; when I passed the three officers at Twenty-third and Market I heard them say "That is the man." [smilling] but I welled. "That is the man," [smiling] but I walked pretty sharp. I didn't care whether they got me or not; I had no money, and I didn't leel right. Q. Felt sorry for what you had done? A. Yes.

Mr. Perkins—Anton, you said that after Mr. Ferkins—Anton, you said that after you killed the first boy you would have gone threugh with it if there had been a hundred men there. A. Yes, that is so. Q. They always treated you well? A. I can't say that. Q. Before you came to this country, did you ever do anything wrong? A. No; I have a father and mother and a heather and the country and the same and the sam brother and sister living; my father is a carpenter: I used to work for him. Q. What brought you to this country ?-did you have any trouble there? A. No. sir. Mr. Perkins-He says he thought this was the best country. Probst—Yes, that is so.

Q. Wby did you say there was another man in this? A. I was afraid.
Mr. Perkins—He says he was afraid the mob would be too strong for the police.

Probst—That is it.
Q. You are satisfied that you had a fair trial? A. Yes. Q. What did you do with the silver watch? A. I told you that I sold it at Second and Poplar. Q. We went there but couldn't find it? A. I can't help that; I sold it there and got two dollars for it. Q. What also besides what was feared watch. What else besides what was found with you did you get? A. Nothing. Q. When did you take the boots off of Mr. Deering? A. Before I pulled him up to the crib. Q. Bediana hilled Mr. Delana. fore you killed Mrs. Dolan? A. Yes, and hid them in the hay. Q. Why did you take them off? A. I thought he had something in them. Q. Money? A. Yes. Q. None of these people hallooed? A. None. Q. Didn't the little boy throw up his arms to save himself? A. No. Wrs. Dolan there. save himself? A. No: Mrs. Dolan threw up her hands. Q. Didn't she say something—didn't she say "Oh"? A. No. Q. Did the baby cry? A. No. Q. Why did you kill the baby? A. Because I was afraid it would cry and make a noise. Q. But the baby was cut more than the others. A. Well baby was cut more than the others. A. Well, Daby was cut more than theorners. A. Well, I was in a hurry, and I didn't look where I cut her. Q. All the time you were in the army were you ever in a fight? A. Yes; on James' Island. Q. You lost your thumb by your own musket? A. Yee; I was dozing on picket and fell and my thumb was over the muzzle when the gun went off.

After a few more remarks, in the course of confession, the party left him. During the day he was visited by a number of Catholic clergymen, and at the time he was telling his story, he was twirling the rosary around his fingers. He reclined partly on his bed and gave all his answers promptly and without any apparent desire to gloss over any part of the transaction.
