CAPE USHANT. A BALLAD.

Our ship, the stout Bellerophon, Off Rochefort Harbor lay; We took a passenger on board,
And slowly sailed away.
Seven days and nights with baffling winds, We strove to fetch Tor Bay.

The eighth day, with the rising sun,
A morning in July,
French land upon our starboard bow,
We plainly could descry.

When I. a little middy, (It's fifty years ago)
Came up to take my watch on deck, Into the early glow.

Magnificently rose the sun
Above the hills of France,
And spread his splendor on the sea,
And through the sky's expanse.

Meanwhile upon the poop, alone,
Our passenger stood there,
And viewed the gently gliding land
In clearest morning air,—
The cliffs of Ushant, and the slopes
Of shedowy. Finisters Of shadowy Finisterre.

"Yes, Sire." Whereon he raised His little pocket-telescope, And gazed, and ever gazed. For hours and hours he hardly moved;

"Ushant?" he asked,—and I replied,

And if his eyes grew dim, We never saw it; there he stood, And none went near to him Till with a faint and fickle wind

We drew from off the coast, And in a noontide haze of heat France faded and was lost. Napoleon's thoughts in that last look

It were but vain to seek; Enough he had to think upon, If he had gazed a week. And sometimes from his rock, perhaps,

He saw, amid the shine Of lonely waves, Cape Ushant's ghost
Upon the dim sea-line.

Schr B H Wainwright, Mo SENATE.—The morning hour having expired the Postoffice Appropriation bill was taken up, the pending question being on Mr. Trumbull's amendment in regard to After a speech by Mr. Howard (Mich.), arguing that President Johnson's policy was not that of Mr. Lincoln, and one by

Mr. Cowan in reply,
The question was taken up on the following amendment: That no person exercising or performing or undertaking to exercise or perform any duties of any office which, by law, is required to be filled by the advice and consent of the Senate, shall, before conand consent of the Senate, shall, before confirmation, receive any compensation for his services unless commissioned by the President to fill a vacancy occasioned by the death, resignation, or expiration of term, during the recess of the Senate, and since its last adjournment. The vote was as follows:

YEAS-Messrs, Anthony, Chandler, Clark, Haines, Henderson, Howard, Howe, Lane (Ind.), Morrill, Nye, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sprague, Sumner, Trumbull and Wade—

NAYS—Messrs. Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Edmunds, Fessenden, Foster, Guthrie, Johnson, Lane (Kansas), McDougall, Morgan, Nesmith, Norton, Poland, Riddle, Saulsbury, Sherman, Stewart, Yan Winkle, Willey and Wilson—23,
ABSENT OR NOT VOTING—Messrs. Brown,

Conness, Cragin, Cresswell, Grimes, Hendricks, Kirkwood, Williams, Wright and So the amendment was disagreed to.

The bill was then passed, and the Senate, at 41 P. M., went into Executive session, and soon after adjourned.

THE CHICAGO TELESCOPE.—The Chicago Tribune describes the new telescope purchased for the observatory in that city. The lens is eighteen and a half inches in diameter, so accurately formed as that a ray of light striking every point on its surface is accurately refracted through a length of accurately retracted through a length of twenty-three feet to meet at the same focal point. The Tribune adds: "We saw the telescope a few days ago turned upon Sirius in broad daylight. The outlined form was clear, distinct, broken only by a slight tremor, due to an atmospheric wave. In this fact we have a sample of the powers of the instrument. Sirius and his companion are so near together (apparently) that the angle between them is but about ten seconds angle between them is but about the seconds of arc, a value so small that its tangent is but .00004848135 when the radius is one; or, in other words, placing the apex of the angle in the eye, at the distance of a mile the sides would have receded from each other but a small fraction over three inches, and but about the one-hundredth part of an inch at the distance of six yards. Yet it is known to astronomers that the two are not necessarily related. The 'companion' may be, and probably is, millions and billions of miles more distant than Sirius, and the rays of light from the two so nearly coincident solely in consequence of our accidental position nearly in the prolongation of the line joining their centres."

Useful Hives.—A foreign correspondent of the Boston Advertiser gives the following hints of general application for American travelers in Europe: In addressing letters they must remember that the initials U.S., and even the name United States, are not everywhere as familiar or as significant as with us at home. In French or Italian the abbreviation would be E. U. or S. U., neither of which, nor U. S., is likely to be understood by a foreign post-office clerk. It is best, therefore, to assume in these matters the grand national name which all the world accords us; a letter addressed "American Consul," will often find its destination when "U.S. Consul" would stick by the way. And so in addressing letters, posted in Europe for home, "America," plainly written, should form a part of the address, in pre-ference to two or three initials, perhaps not very legible at best. Anybody who is too modest to say "America," may use the full phrase. "United States of America." To the use of abbreviations in the address of sending letters home, and to appending "Esq." to the names of persons abroad for whom letters are sent from home—which causes a wonderfull collection in the pigeor holes of foreign post-offices, under the name of E-s-Q may be attributed the larger part of miscarriages of letters of which American travelers complain. The European post-offices are generally carefully managed.

LUMBER IN MICHIGAN.—As an illustration of the amount of lumbering done in Michigan it is said that Tittabawassee river, ranging from seven to ten rods in width, is filled with logs for ten miles; Chippewa river, from six to nine rods wide, is filled for seven miles; and Pine river, ranging from five to seven rods in width, is filled for eleven miles. And these streams water only a small portion of the State.

WHEAT IN MICHIGAN,-The Detroit Tribune, after a thorough investigation of the condition of wheat in that State, is compelled to conclude that the aggregate crop for 1866 will fall below the average yield of past seasons. The salaby sadject
