

XXXIXTH CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.

[CLOSE OF YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.]

SENATE.—A resolution of the House was read as follows:

Resolved, That the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President be and he hereby is authorized to make and carry into effect such orders and regulations of quarantine as in his opinion may be deemed necessary and proper in aid of State or municipal authorities, to guard against the introduction of cholera or yellow fever, and to provide for the proper care and treatment of patients; and such an amount of money as may be necessary to carry into effect this quarantine act, as hereinafter provided, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Mr. Chandler said the above was a monstrous proposition. It gave unlimited power to the President, in cases of pestilence, to strip down a man in whom he had confidence to three Secretaries. This proposed to give unlimited power to one man, in whom he had no confidence.

Mr. McDougall (Cal.) said he had great confidence in the gentleman referred to by Mr. Chandler, but he believed that pending a bill to be unwieldy and unnecessary.

Mr. Henderson (Mo.) moved to amend by striking out the words "the President," and inserting in lieu thereof the words "the Secretary of the Treasury;" and by striking out all after the words "and the President is further authorized," down to the words "and health laws as may seem necessary."

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Edmunds (Vt.) moved the following as an amendment to the bill:

Provided, That all authority hereby granted shall expire on the first day of January, 1887.

Mr. Edmunds then moved the resolution a third time, carrying the amendments.

Mr. Johnson (Md.) called for the yeas and nays.

It resulted in yeas 67, yeas and 12 nays.

Mr. Vanwick (W. V.) introduced a bill to appropriate the currency to the several States and Territories, and to the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

It authorizes and directs the Comptroller of the Currency to apportion the issue as follows:

First. One-half of one hundred and fifty millions shall be apportioned in proportion to population.

Second. The remaining one hundred and fifty millions shall be apportioned in proportion to the value of the annual production of agriculture and the value of the mining industry of each State and Territory, which value shall be determined by census exhibits, if practicable; if otherwise, the estimate of the Secretary of State and the best obtainable information.

If any State shall have an excess above the maximum allowed to each State, provision is made for the reduction of the award.

A deficiency may be brought up to the maximum, but a reduction shall take effect only as its circulating notes are returned to the treasury to be canceled on account of mutilation.

It also provides that in the organization of additional banks, the preference shall be given, far as practicable, to existing banks in good repute and in operation.

The bill to prevent smuggling, which was pending yesterday, was taken up, discussed, and passed.

The consular appropriation bill was taken up and made the special order for to-morrow.

Mr. McDougall (Cal.) called for the reading of the veto message.

He recited the message, which was read into executive session.

Mr. McDougall said it was a matter of course to the President to read the message, and should have been read some hours since.

Mr. Fessenden said there was no discrepancy whatever to the President in this motion.

He merely wished to call attention to the reading of the message until to-morrow morning, when there would be a full Senate.

Mr. McDougall said this was the first time in a long time that he had heard of a reading for so long. He could not but regard it as a vindictive assault upon the President.

The Senate went into Executive session and subsequently adjourned.

HOUSE.—The two bills reported from the Committee on Reconstruction came up in their order as special orders, and were, after considerable debate, which was participated in by Mr. Tilden and Mr. McKim, in favor of postponement, and by Mr. Bingham and Mr. Price, against it, postponed till the 20th and 21st of May, and were made the special orders for those days.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of business reported from the Committee on Education.

The bill to amend the organic acts of the Territories of Nebraska, Colorado, Dakota, Montana, Washington, Idaho, Arizona, Utah, and New Mexico, came up first for consideration. The bill prohibits the legislative assemblies from passing special acts conferring corporate powers, but authorizes them to pass general laws for the purpose. It declares null and void all special laws heretofore granted by any of the legislative assemblies. The sixth section provides that no person, appointed by the President to any office in the Territories, shall receive any compensation until he shall have entered on the discharge of his official duties.

The bill to amend the organic acts of the Territories aforesaid there shall be no denial of the elective franchise to citizens of the United States because of race or color, and all persons shall be equal before the law; and all acts or parts of acts of either Congress or of the legislative assemblies of the Territories aforesaid inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby declared null and void.

The tenth section entitles a Territorial Secretary, who performs the duties of acting Governor in the absence of the Governor, to receive as much salary as the Governor's salary.

Mr. Le Blond (Ohio) moved to amend by striking out the ninth section, and addressed the House in support of his amendment.

He said that Congress had the power to control citizens in the Territories in regard to the right of suffrage. Referring to the attempts to shift responsibility for the passage of the Governor's salary amendment, from the Republican party to the Democratic party, he said it would be found a very difficult matter to make the people believe that thirty Democrats controlled the action of the House on important measures. He called for the yeas and nays on his amendment.

The vote was taken, and the amendment was rejected—yeas 36, nays 75.

The bill was then passed by a vote of 79 yeas to 49 nays.

Mr. Hart (N. Y.) presented a petition of the banks and bankers of Rochester, N. Y., asking for an extension of the time fixed by law for the circulation of ten per cent, on the circulation of State banks.

Mr. Conkling (N. Y.) presented a petition of manufacturers of printing and Paris whites, asking for an increase of tax. Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, Mr. Dawes in the chair, and resumed the consideration of the tax bill, commencing on page 25, amending the twenty-sixth section of the present internal revenue bill.

A number of verbal or unimportant amendments were made. The exemptions from distraint for taxes were made to conform to school-boards amending the law necessary for the family, arms for personal use, one cow, two hogs, five sheep and the wool thereof. Provided, The aggregate market value of the sheep shall not exceed twenty dollars, nor an amount not exceeding twenty-five dollars, provisions not to exceed fifty dollars in value, household furniture not exceeding the value of one hundred dollars, books, tools, or implements of trade or profession not greater than one hundred dollars.

Mr. Niblack (Ind.) suggested the adding of a proviso that there should be no distraint made in the sheep on account of race or color, but the proviso was not inserted.

He then introduced the thirteen section of the present law, as amended by reduction of the rate of interest in cases where property sold for taxes is redeemed from twenty to ten per cent.

On motion of Mr. Garfield (Ohio) a new clause was inserted, amending section forty-four of the present law by adding to it a proviso, that where a second assessment was made on the same property, the first assessment was false or fraudulent, such assessments shall not be remitted, nor shall taxes or duties collected under such assessment be recovered, refunded or paid back, unless the statement or return was not false or fraudulent, and did not contain any understatement or under-valuation.

The committee progressed in the bill as far as page 44.

The Speaker presented three messages from the President in reference to the following subjects:

Transmitting a report from the Secretary of State in answer to the House resolutions of the 7th of May, in reference to the clerks employed in the Department of State.

Transmitting a report from the Secretary of the Treasury in answer to the House resolution of the 2d of May, concerning the several States and Territories, and to the District of Columbia, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

It authorizes and directs the Comptroller of the Currency to apportion the issue as follows:

First. One-half of one hundred and fifty millions shall be apportioned in proportion to population.

Second. The remaining one hundred and fifty millions shall be apportioned in proportion to the value of the annual production of agriculture and the value of the mining industry of each State and Territory, which value shall be determined by census exhibits, if practicable; if otherwise, the estimate of the Secretary of State and the best obtainable information.

If any State shall have an excess above the maximum allowed to each State, provision is made for the reduction of the award.

A deficiency may be brought up to the maximum, but a reduction shall take effect only as its circulating notes are returned to the treasury to be canceled on account of mutilation.

It also provides that in the organization of additional banks, the preference shall be given, far as practicable, to existing banks in good repute and in operation.
