EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY, MAY 21, 1866.

MEXICO. The ship Empire, of Mexico, Maximilian commanding, is in great danger of becoming a sudden and total wreck. The rats are fleeing from it fast. Hundreds of Southern "patriots," fugitives from the United States, are trying to get back to their own country as fast as possible. Foreign ministers are hurrying away from the capital to the sea coast. The Austrian, Belgian and Italian were at Vera Cruz at the last accounts, and the English and Spanish were coming. Max and his court remained at Mexico, but in great trouble. His troops were losing instead of gaining ground. The Liberals were infesting the country with guerilla bands. The treasury was empty, and there was no means of filling it. Napoleon will not advance any more money, and the prospect of the withdrawal of the French troops was filling the hearts of Max and his court, and of all the foreigners with dread. It seems impossible that the Empire can be sustained very long. But what will succeed it? Anarchy, at first, of course. If there is any Mexican who can produce order out of this, he will be entitled to be made ruler of Mexico under some title; it matters little to us whether they call him President, Dictator, Emperor or King, provided he is a native, and has brains enough to govern the wretched people, who have been so long misgoverned, and who have been so demoralized by successive revolutions. If Maximilian's throne falls, as we believe it will, there will be no more attempts at European intervention on this continent, and the Monroe doctrine will be able to take care of itself.

SENATOR DOOLITILE.

* P

The course of the distinguished Senator from Wisconsin, Mr. Doolittle, is being followed, with painful solicitude, by thousands of honest men who appreciate his past public services and who admire his personal qualities. His last public appearance, prior to last Saturday evening, in Philadelphia, was on March 11, 1863, at the inauguration, not of the Union League, as some of our cotemporaries have assumed, but of the National Union Club. We well remember that magnificent demonstration, and if Senator Doolittle remembers it and contrasts his surroundings on that eventful night, with those in which he found himself on Saturday last, there ought to be in it a powerful admodition that he, and not Philadelphia, has changed since that night three vears gone. Had it not been so, how different would have been his reception in this most loyal of loyal cities. With what cordial hospitality would the great Union League and the Union Club have welcomed him within their friendly doors. Those who stood with him three years ago, and who are yet living, are still the honored guests of the same loyal associations, while Senator Doolittle comes and goes with no greeting but such as he receives from men who in no way represent the community that has so long delighted to do honor to him and to the noble band of which he is a part. We have read Mr. Doolittle'stwo Philadelphia speeches, side by side. The first was blunt, bold, hearty and uncompromising as the truest lover of his country could desire. The last is an apology for the first. He makes the humiliating confession that much that he said three years ago was mere excited talk. We are sorry to hear such an admission. So says not the great mass of the North. It was in words of truth and soberness that treason was declared a crime, and what was said then is believed now. We have no wish to attack or abuse Mr. Doolittle. We cannot, if we would, forget his past services, and we cannot see him ranging himself with the Cowans, Davises, Saulsburys and McDougalls of the Senate without sincere pain. But when we find him in such associations as those of last Saturday evening, framing transparent arguments for States Rights and repudiating the noble and eloquent utterances of the war, it is impossible not to feel that a sad change has passed over one of the brightest ornaments of the Senate.

THE JOHNSON MEETING. There was a pretty assemblage at the Academy of Music on Saturday evening, to inaugurate a party in favor of President Johnson and his policy. A great many anti-Johnson Republicans were there out of curiosity. A few Republican office-holders were there for reasons of their own, and a good many Republicans who hope to become office-holders were also there. The rest of the company was made up of Democrats of every shade, from the deep copper of the Reed, Ingersoll, and Saulsbury tint, to the mildest neutral of the Peace Democracy of 1864. If Mr-Anthony Trollope had been at the Academy, he would have found in this very mixed assemblage some of his secessionist friends of 1862, whom he spoke of meeting in "society that was not mixed." The speech-makers of the evening were two Senators who have been censured by the Legislatures of their respective States for their treachery to the Union party. They said nothing calculated to clear up their record, or to make President Johnson's cause a bit more likely to be approved by the party that elected him. But the BOMBARDMENT OF CALLAO. The Spaniards, after performing the chivalrous feat of bombarding the undefended chief seaport of Chili, concluded to try their hands on the chief seaport of llan. The place was su to a severe bombardment, but being pretty well fortified and bravely defended, the Spanish fleet was repulsed. each vessel being damaged, and the Admiral commanding being badly wounded. Every American must rejoice at this disaster to the Spanish arms. and will congratulate the brave allies on their successful defence. Callao is the seaport of Lima, the capital of Peru. from which it is distant only six miles.

infant Johnson party has been born, and now it needs careful nursing, or we fear

it will never be raised.

NORTH PENNSYLVANIA RAILBOAD.—The summer arrangements of this road take effect to-day. Nine daily trains to and from the city afford ample accommodations for the suburban travel, while under the new schedule an additional connection is given from the thriving and populous valleys of the Lehigh and Wyoming, thus offering two daily trains from Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Mahanoy city, and the great coal basins to Philadelphia, with a shorter lineand increased speed.

THE LOVER'S SONG.

BY D. Y. K. W. & B.

Let the sailor sing of billows, And the soldier sing of strife ; They have never seen the maiden That I hope to call my wife,

Who, from morn to eve, is singing What is dearer far to me Than the soldier's song of battle, Or the sallor's of the sea.

With a song that's all unstudied, Like the song of singing birds, She has made my heart a captive By the music of her words; For the sings, "When I am married It shall be my aim of life E'er to be a worthy woman, And a loving, constant wife." Oh! the darling! when we're married.

If she prove all that to be, I shall envy not the soldier, Or the sailor on the sea; Neither tented fields nor oceans

Shall e'er tempt my feet to roam From the loving wife so constant, That will bless my happy home. It is not in lordly mansions That the purest joys are known. And the queen of my affections, While my heart shall be her throne,

In our home, however humble, Will that sceptre only sway
Which shall make a leving husband
She can "honor and obey." From drinking, chewing, smoking,

From cards and dies I'm free, But I'll own I have a weakness, For a cop of fragrant Tea.

And to find the test and cheapest I've wandered through the town, But I never could get suited "Till I went to "WEST & BROWN."

DO YOU KNOW WEST & BROWN? They are the proprietors of the new and elegant Tea Emportum No. 500 Chestant street. For the very lest Tea at mode, rate prices, this is the place to visit.
