DEATH OF LIEUT. GEN. SCOTT.

POLITICS IN MARYLAND.

Death of Lieutenant General Scott. WEST POINT, May 29th.—Lieutenant General Scott died at 11.05 to-day.

Lieutenant-General Winfield Scott was born in Petersburg, Virginia, June 13, 1786, and he was consequently in the 80th year of his age at the time of his death.

In July 1812, he was advanced to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, and he repaired to the Canadian frontier, the United States and England being then at war.

He took part in the affair at Queenstown Heights and the battle was won under his direction. Fortune afterwards turned and the battle was lost to the Americans, and Scott and his command were taken prisoners.

After the battle of Chancellorsville, he was appointed to the command of the army of the Potomac, and he distinguished himself by his services at the battle of Gettysburg.

During the Indian war the General rendered efficient service to the country, and in 1832 he contributed towards the reduction of the Sacs and Foxes.

General Scott was retiring in his exertions during the Nullification troubles during General Jackson's administration.

On the Canadian Lines General Scott was called upon to prevent breaches of neutrality during the rebellion in the British provinces in 1837, known as the "Patriot War."

The services of General Scott during the Mexican war, are too well-known to need much elaboration.

In 1855 the Brevet rank of Lieutenant General was conferred upon the deceased for meritorious services.

In 1852 General Scott was the Whig candidate for the Presidency. He was defeated by General Pierce, the Democratic candidate.

At the opening of the war General Scott felt that it was his duty to give way to a younger man in the conduct of the great rebellion which was then convulsing the nation.

After the battle of Bull Run, and the appointment of Major-General McClellan to command at Washington, General Scott was in constant conference with him, and finally, while General McClellan was engaged in organizing the army, General Scott determined to retire.

The event was deeply regretted, but General Scott's letter to the Secretary of War showed how imperative was repose of body and mind to him and at a special cabinet council the request of the noble veteran was granted, and General McClellan was called to command of the army of the Union.

General McClellan, on assuming the high position left vacant, issued a most graceful order, recording the event.

The order is dated Nov. 1, 1861, and says among other things: "The army will unite with me in the feeling of regret and sorrow for the loss of the great soldier of our nation—the hero who, in his youth, raised high the reputation of his country in the fields of Canada, which he sanctified with his blood, who, in more mature years, proved to the world that American skill and valor could repeat, if not eclipse, the exploits of Cortez in the land of the Montezumas; whose whole life has been devoted to the service of his country, whose whole efforts have been directed to uphold our honor at the smallest sacrifice of life—a warrior who secured the selfish glories of the battle field, when his great qualities as a statesman could be employed more profitably for his country; a citizen, who, in his declining years, has given to the world the most shining instances of loyalty in disregard of all ties of birth, and clinging to the cause of truth and honor."

General Warren, Minister to Guatemala; Mr. Roussell, Minister to Honduras; and Colonel Campbell, Minister to the Republic of Mexico, are waiting for the preparation of instructions by the Secretary of State.

A PRESS ASSOCIATION.—The Lake Erie Press Association, consisting of publishers, editors, reporters and correspondents of papers published in Western Pennsylvania, Western New York and Eastern and Northern Ohio, will hold an adjourned meeting in Sandusky on Thursday, June 7.

INTERESTING TO ONE-ARMED SOLDIERS.—A soldier who needed it, has invented a left-handed knife and fork combined, with which a person who has lost his right arm can feed himself very conveniently.

Since that period General Scott has lived a very retired life, seldom appearing in public, and merely traveling between New York, Washington and West Point at rare intervals.

He never ceased to take an active interest in public affairs, though unable to wield his sword or exercise the weight of his executive powers in putting down the rebellion. He did, however, live to see that rebellion crushed, and our beloved country on the high road to prosperity once more.

Fire at Saratoga—Destruction of Congress Hall. SARATOGA, May 29.—8.30 A. M.—A fire was discovered in the north wing of Congress Hall at one o'clock this morning. The whole building has been destroyed.

The loss is about $200,000. Much of the furniture was saved. The amount of insurance is unknown. The hotel was to have been opened on Wednesday. None of the other hotels were injured.

Congress Hall was insured as follows: On the house, $100,000; on furniture, $17,000. The Hamilton Bath House was also destroyed.

Meeting of Politicians. BALTIMORE, May 29.—The executive committee of the conservative wing of the United party of Maryland met this morning in this city. The attendance was small.

George B. Blair, Postmaster Parnell and ex-Provost Marshal Blumenberg were present. A resolution was passed excluding the reporters of the press and the proceedings will be conducted with closed doors.

DEPARTMENTS. A deserter from the rebel army, who has recently been employed in one of the dynamo machine shops, so far forgot himself to other day as to ventilate his real sentiments.

At the opening of the war General Scott felt that it was his duty to give way to a younger man in the conduct of the great rebellion which was then convulsing the nation.

After the battle of Bull Run, and the appointment of Major-General McClellan to command at Washington, General Scott was in constant conference with him.
