THE PHILADELPHIA TEMPERANCE SO CLETY made its debut before the public on Thursday evening in the form of an interesting meeting at the Second Reformed Dutch Church, Seventh street, above Brown, Rev. T. De Witt Talmadge pastor. The spacious edifice was well filled by a large and intelligent audience. The music by the choir was very fine. At 8 o'clock the chair was taken by the President of the Society, Gen. Louis Wagner, who, in a brief, well-worded address, spoke of the objects and aims of the Society, the necessity for its organization, with an allusion to its proposed future action.

The Rev. Mr. Barnitz, of West Virginia, was the next speaker. He made a very ef-fective address on the necessity of earnest and persistent effort to prevent the evils and persistent enors to prevent the evils flowing from intemperance, illustrating his subject by a reference to the recent meeting of the American Medical Association, at Baltimore, where, in a long discussion on the subject of cholers, while much was said about preventing the disease, not one word was said in regard to its cure

Dr. Pratt, of Chicago, followed in a brief address of great power and force, the chief point of which was the necessity of concerted action between Christians and the various temperance organizations, and was glad that all could in this organiwas gian that all could in this organization come together on a common platform, and unite their energies to promote so good, so vital a cause. He spoke of the labors of Neal Dow in Maine, and was decidedly in favor of the prohibitory principle. tory principle in legislation on this subject. Major Merwin, a disabled volunteer offi-

Major Merwin, a disabled volunteer officer, was the next speaker. His address was a most thrilling and effective one. He was glad that the Philadelphia Temperance Society had inaugurated its meeting by assembling in a Christian church. Temperance is a handimaid of Christianity, and should labor as its servant. He spoke in the highest terms of the labors of the several temperance organizations that exist under the names of Sons and Daughters of Temperance, Rechabites, Templars, etc., etc., but was glad that this society was organized in which they and other laborers in the same cause could meet on common ground. He spoke of temptations held out to entrap young of temptations held out to entrap young men, the glaring gas-lights, gilded saloons, music, dancing, and other accompaniments calculated to attract the unwary. What a hue and cry there would be raised, said he, if a Christian Church should emblazon its front with the word "wolcome" in gas its if a Christian Church should emblazon its front with the word "welcome" in gas jets! But we cannot followithe speaker further. His address was a pointed one, full of touching allusions and pathetic appeals, and was well received by the audience. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Talmage, closed in a few well-timed remarks, showing his interest in this all-important subject. The audience were evidently much pleased with his address and would have been glad if his address, and would have been glad if he had prolonged it, but the hour for ad-journment had arrived, and the meeting dispersed with the feeling that the Philadelphia Temperance Society, had made an auspicious beginning of its labors.

It was announced that a series of meetings would soon be commenced by Dr. Charles Jewett, of Connecticut, to be held The Constitution and pledge of the Society was freely distributed among the audience.

WEST PHILADELPHIA. - The leading event of last evening was the farewell concert at the Insane Department at the Almshouse, given by the "Haydn Quintette," under the direction of Mr. James F. Hope. The auditorium of the Hospital was most unpleasantly crowded, and, of course, disagreeably warm. The affair was wholly vocal, with two very laughable affairs, one, entitled "Dr. Colton's laughing gas," and the other, "Africa's Pride," in both of which Mr. Hope sustained the principal white character, supported by two individuals of the colored persuasion. The scenes event of last evening was the farewell conuals of the colored persuasion. The scenes were eminently ridiculous, to the infinite ght of the peculiar auditory, who enjoyed the performances to a much greater extent than on any previous occasion, because of the abundance of the comic element. The visitors from the "village," with invited guests from the city, were delighted with this phase of affairs, studying every emotion displayed by this highly unsusceptible class of society. There were but three or four sentimental songs, by the quintette, who preferred to witness the delight of the insane in their comic pieces. The "Haydn's" the performances to a much greater extent insane in their comic pieces. The "Haydn's" deserve much praise for their charitable efforts in this behalf, and they will have

In our notice of this department the other

In our notice of this department the other day, we spoke feelingly of its crowded condition, anticipating, as one must do, the great mortality that must ensue in case of a visit of the cholera among a class even more helpless than children, unable to detail their symptoms or explain their wants. The resident physicians, in such an emergency, will have their hands full. Perhaps the loss of many would not be felt, in some cases it would be a positive blessing, but one cannot help feeling on this subject.

In the category of want of room, a single example will suffice. On the second floor (open wards), Female Department, the nurse has no less than eighty-five patients under her care. To accommodate these she has but sixty-two bedsteads, forcing her to put twenty-three to sleep on the floor, to enjoy what repose the rats, with which the house is literally crowded, will allow them. The same state of things exists in every other ward; none, however, to the same exother ward; none, however, to the same extent as in the second open.

CATHOLIC CELEBRATION.—The great reli-

Two MEN SUFFOCATED. - Yesterday afternoon, in a court off from Manship street, south of Locust, above Eleventh, Daniel Connelly and William McCue, were at work bricking up a well; preparatory to draining off the contents of several cesspools. After opening the communication, Connelly was overpowered by the foul air, and McCue, endeavoring to rescue him, shared the same fate. The plarm was given to the members fate. The alarm was given to the members of a neighboring fire company, and the men were taken out. One was dead and the were taken out. One was dead and the other expired in a short time. It seems that in the spring of 1858 McManus called at the jewelry manufactory of Messrs. Dreer & Seers, Sansom street, near Sixth, and represented that he was extensively engaged in business in the city of Caraccas, Venezuela, naming a number of firms in that place for reference. By this means he succeeded in obtaining twelve gold chains valued at $216 94. Some twelve gold chains valued at $216 94. Some time after the transaction Messrs. D. & S. ascertained that they had been swindled. They at once endeavored to ferret out the guilty party, but were unsuccessful until Wednesday, when they ascertained that he was in the city; a warrant was then issued for his arrest. McManus states that he pawned the chains. He was held in $1,500 health a propose at court bail to answer at court.

The building has a front of 42 feet on Broad, and 80 feet on Oxford streets, and cost $18,000, and $2,500 for furnishing it. It is the design of the movers in this enterprise to commence at once the erection of a first-class church in connection with the street. class church, in connection with the chapel, to be called the Carmel Presbyterian Church.
