WEST PHILADELPHIA. - While everything yesterday afternoon shone blue above, the slough remained beneath. Every garden has its rose bushes, and almost all the varieties except the "running sorts," are in bud and blossom, filling the atmosphere with fragrance. Here, perhaps more than in any other portion of the country, flowers of all kinds are part and parcel of the domestic arrangement. Scarcely a house but has its garden in front, radiant in their respective garden in front, radiant in their respective seasons, with the rarest varieties in bloom. seasons, with the rarest varieties in bloom. A walk up in Mantua repays itself. At Mr. Henry A. Dreer's establishment, on Fifth above Bridge, very wonders in floriculture are now in the highest state of perfection. Year after year Mr. D. has expended a deal of care in the cultivation of the Heart's Ease, —the pansy (viola tricolor), and taken every premium of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. Never before has he had such varieties in bloom; while the different lists of rietles in bloom; while the different lists of "Pionies," of almost every shade and hue, numbering nearly a hundred kinds, ought to be examined by all. In selecting flowers of this last, one ought to observe the habit of the plant, and choose accordingly. His vast beds of "Gladiolus" in a very few weeks will attain similar perfection. The roads were entirely too heavy to examine the upper nurseries at Belmont, and the condition of things in that section of the District, tion of things in that section of the District, although often requested.

We congratulate every one who has taken the subject at all at heart, on the rapidly approaching completion of the Chestnut Street Bridge. The whole flooring (iron) is put down from shore to shore, and workmen are engaged in laying the cement, preparatory to placing the rails. This is some inches in depth, overlaid with coarse gravel stones, making is a solid almost as the Rock of Gibraltar. On the Western sides workmen, yesterday, commenced paving the street. All the material seems to be on hand on either side of the river—granite, sleepers, cross-ties, rails, &c., which looks like earnestness at last. One span of the bridge, City wise, has been painted; but as only one hand is any agged on the job it will take City wise, has been painted; but as only one hand is engaged on the job, it will take some time to complete it. The contractor (iron) has erected a high fence on the city side, and promises, so we learn, to have the bridge in running order on the first of July. All the unsightly dericks have been removed. The bridge excites general admiration. The only drawback is the engine house on the centre pier; but this, like its companions, the dericks, will soon pass

Ten cases were heard this morning at the Ten cases were heard this morning at the Police Station. There were three of intoxication, one fined, the other two committed. THE SHIPWRIGHTS AND CAULKERS .-This class of workmen held a meeting last evening, at Sansom Street Hall, to hear the report of a committee appointed to inquire in regard to the men at work on the "Carrier Dove," a vessel that was brought here from New York to be reported because of the strike for the circle. paired, because of the strike for the eight hour system in that city. The committee reported that they had some twenty-five men at work upon the ship, sixteen of whom quit when the state of the case was made known, but the other nine refused to leave, unless there was to be a general strike for eight hours a day and four dollars and a half wages; and further, unless the men at work in the Navy Yard would agree, each man, to contribute for the support of the strikers one day's wages out of every six days. The committee could not agree to this and left the men at work. A motion was then made to strike for four and a half dollars a day and the eight hours. This gave rise to considerable discussion, some advocating and others opposing it. It was , because of the strike for the eight advocating and others opposing it. It was moved to amend by making the resolution read eight hours and three dollars per day. TREE PLANTING IN THE WEST .- The House Committee on Public Lands, under the lead of their Chairman, Hon. G. W. Julian, seem intent upon arriving at some tangible conclusion concerning tree-planting in the woodless Western plains, which is attracting such widespread attention is attracting such wide-spread attention. They have asked a report on the subject the character of an Indian college in Kansas, which proposes to plant ten thousand acres of experimental trees within five years.

THE WASHINGTON ELECTION.—At the municipal election at Washington yesterday, Richard Wallach was elected Mayor of Washington over H. N. Easby. These, and the candidates for members of the City Councils, with several exceptions, had pledged themselves to the working men to sustain the principle of eight hours as a legal days' work. No political question was involved in the election.

Among the novelties which have grown up of late years—and grown up very tall, too—are the Great Hotels. These places of residence, where you are undertaken, if the phrase may be allowed, on such a large scale, where everything is done for you, and all trouble taken off your hands, surely ought to meet the requirements of a great number of persons. The advantages of the system seem, at first sight, enormous. You pay no rent, you sign no leases or agreements, you have nothing to do with taxes, no servants' wages, no butchers' bills. You have no trouble in engaging servants, in drilling servants, in getting rid of servants—If the pipes be frozen in the course of a hard winter, or if they happen to burst when the winter, or if they happen to burst when the said winter breaks up, they are no business said winter breaks up, they are no business of yours. The young man does not call to speak to you about the new kitchen range, nor does the gas man wish to see you in the hall "relative to the state of the meter." Then, what you want is always to be had. You want a bottle of soda-water the last thing at night; you are not told there happens to be none in the house. You want a sandwich in the middle of the day; no uncompromising servant informs you that compromising servant informs you that "there is no cold meat in the house." You want a basin of broth, and are not obliged to wait till the next day for it. You want to know where somebody lives: there is the last Post Office Directory to refer to. You want a messenger; he is ready in the hall. You have a telegram to send off: here is a form, and in another moment it is despatched. For all these advantages you pay one weekly bill. When you think of the number of bills to be considered once a week by any ordinary housekeeper, the file of little red books to be gone through by some trustworthy person or other, this seems something more than a small advantage. A check is drawn once a week, and all is over. Rent, taxes, wages, housekeeping, are disposed of in five minutes. If the check in question do sometimes strike one as rather large, it is fair to consider how
