MR. REED GETS HIS ANSWER.

The District Attorney's Reply.

His Anxiety for Jeff. Davis's Health.

ALSO FOR MR. REED'S COMFORT.

He Moves an Adjournment until October

The Crystallization Process.

From Washington. (Special Despatch to the Bulletin.) WASHINGTON, June 6.—The question of paroling Davis was discussed in the Cabinet, but no decision was reached.

Several leading Fenians were notified to-day that they had better be very cautious in their movements, as they were liable to arrest under the President's order.

HUDSON, N. Y., June 6.—Sixty Fenians left here last night, supposed for the Canadian frontier.

ROCHESTER, June 6.—The Fenian meeting held here last night was largely attended, and donations of $800 in cash were made.

At the Fenian meeting last night, Fitzgerald, a Fenian Senator, spoke of the late movement against Fort Erie, and said it was intended to draw the main body of the British forces from their stronghold.

Despatches received to-day state that at a small meeting held in Cincinnati last night $3,000 were collected to aid the Fenian cause.

At present there are some 350 regulars at Fort Porter, in addition to the various guards on duty at points in the immediate vicinity.

The Fenian officers, fifteen in number, had been held on board the Michigan, were brought up on a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Clinton, this morning, and remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal.

The charge was read to them of violating the neutrality laws, to which they pleaded "not guilty," and were then remanded to the charge of the U. S. Marshal and taken to the city jail.

Commissioner and they will then be released on giving bail in sufficient sums; with good security, to answer at some future day, indictments under the neutrality laws.

The Trial of Jefferson Davis.

RICHMOND, June 6.—There was quite a large attendance of spectators in the court room this morning, including nearly all the members of the Richmond bar.

After the lapse of several minutes, Judge Underwood, addressing the Assistant District Attorney, said—Mr. Hennessy, we are ready to hear from you whenever it suits your convenience.

Mr. Hennessy arose and the counsel, lawyers and spectators present all rose, and pressed forward to hear his response. He said:

May it please your honor as the answer of the Government, to the questions propounded by Mr. Reed on yesterday, are considered of some importance, I have written them out and propose to read them to the Court.

Mr. Reed, one of the counsel for Jefferson Davis, propounded certain questions to the Court and to me, which, in the absence of Mr. Chandler, I at that time declined to answer.

In the second place, even if Mr. Davis were in the custody of this Court, it would not be possible for the Attorney General, in view of his numerous and pressing engagements at the close of the session, to come here now and try this case, which, in a case of great national importance, he would be expected to do.

In the third place, if Mr. Davis is in the delicate state of health suggested by Mr. Reed, it would be nothing less than cruel to expose him to the unavoidable fatigues of a protracted trial, which appears to be an inevitable result of the array of counsel present and prospective against his defence.

This is a special department of the Court, which is not a regular court, and the intentions of the Government are, with regard to the disposition of Mr. Davis, I am not further instructed than I have said.
