ANTON PROBST. Post-mortem Examination of the Body of the Murderer.

The body of Anton Probst, through the courtesy of the Directors of the Prison, was transferred to the Faculty of the Jefferson Medical College, for the purpose of making scientific inquiries respecting the immediate cause of death. For this purpose the body was quietly removed from the prison to the college on the evening of Friday, the day of execution. The examination of the body was conducted, on the afternoon of the 9th inst., by Dr. Wm. H. Pancoast, Demonstrator of Anatomy in the institution, assisted by the members of his anatomical staff, Drs. Jas. Taylor, E. R. Hutchins and F.H. Andrews.

At 4 P. M., precisely, the body, neatly covered, was ushered into the presence of the assembled audience, and placed in the centre of the amphitheatre, the most exact decorum being observed. The lecture-room of the College was filled to its utmost, by men of every vocation, eager to see the post-mortem evidences. Among the members of the legal profession, we noticed Judge Ludlow and Mr. Wolbert, counsel for Anton Probst, and among the distinguished medical gentleman present were Drs. Nebinger, Jewell, S. W. Gross, Lecturer on Minor Surgery in Summer School of Jefferson Medical College; also, Dr. Hunt. Lecturer in Pennsylvania Hospital: Dr. Packard, of the Mütter Lectureship of the College of Physicians; Drs. H. Y. Smith, Dyer, Shapleigh, St. Clair Ash, Coad and

Before exposing the body of the unfortunate individual, Dr. Pancoast reminded the class and the guests of the institution, that they were assembled there for the purpose of scientific interest, to establish medicolegal points, and not from mere idle curiosity. The face was now uncovered to view, revealing the expression of his features, which were not distorted, but retaining a quiet and cheerful appearance.

The countenance did not present such a sullen, stolid aspect as generally supposed, moulded. The posterior and lateral por-tions of the body, as well as the arms, shoulders and face were somewhat discolored, merely the result of post mortem lecturer now reverted to those incicidents which happened at the time of the Prof. Dickson examined the pulse of the radial artery previous to execution, and found it to be 78 beats to the minute, small The length of the cord was five feet six nches, length of drop, three feet.

Death took place very quickly, there being no violent contortion of the body, only slight muscular contraction. After hanging about twenty minutes, the body was taken down and handed over to the scientific compission present consisting of Dr. B. Howard mission present, consisting of Dr. B. Howard Rand, Professor of Chemistry in Jefferson Medical College, Dr. Dickson, Professor of Practice of Medicine, Dr. Biddle, Professor of Materia Medica, Dr. Wm. Pancoast, Demonstrator of Anatomy, and Dr. Dyer,

Lecturer on Opthalmic Surgery.

The body was brought in and set on a chair, and first by aid of a lamp and then onair, and first by aid of a tamp and then by the electric spark, the eye was examined by Drs. Dyer and Pancoast with the opthalmascope, of or the sake of testing the popular doctrine now prevalent, respecting the impression of the image of the last object seen during life remaining on the retina. The result of these experiments went to completely dispel this doctrine. The structures of the eye were then examined, and it was found that the only injury sustained by the eye, was rupture of the capsule of the lens, caused by the fall. The pupil did not contract under the influence of the galvanic battery. The battery which was used was more powerful than was ever before experimented with on such an occasion.

The poles of this powerful battery, the superb action of which, Prof. Rand personally superintended, were now applied to various muscles of the face, and each and every of the battery of the property of the prop with on such an occasion. one responded to the current, as the keys of a musical instrument to the finger, the operators thus producing every expression of the face, of laughter, scorn, astonishment, &c. The arm was made to move to and fro, under the influence of the electric current, and the lower extremities also. The Medical Commission continued their experiments, the muscular irritability, under the ing for two hours.

Dr. Pancoast then referred to the amount of pain inflicted by hanging, citing several instances of persons who had been resuscitated after having been hanged until they were apparently dead,—in each case the were apparently dead,—in each case the statement made was that no pain whatever was experienced in the hanging.

The lecturer then adverted to an interesting point of medico-legal discussion, as to whether or not, independent of the testimony of witnesses present, and other external signs, there would be found, on examination, such interest as would prove conclusions. ternal evidences as would prove conclusively that a person came to his death by hanging. A dissection was made of the region of the neck, in order to ascertain the amount of injury inflicted by the cord on the subjacent parts. The furrow made by the cord was distinctly marked, embracing the cord was distinctly marked, embracing the entire neck, excepting the space of an inch under the left ear, over which the knot had been placed. The arcolar tissue in the track of the furrow was found dry and compressed. The jugular veins of both sides were found distended with blood, the carotid exterior found empty.

When the incision was made in the cervical regions, the sterno-cleido mastoid mus-cle of the right side bulged into the wound cle of the right side bulged into the wound made by the knife, revealing a rupture of the lower portion of the muscle. On examination of the hyoid bene, to which the tongue is attached, it was found fractured on both sides. No injury was sustained by the cartilages of the larynx and trachea (windpipe). There was no dislocation or fracture of the vertebræ of the neck; the odontoid process of the axis vertebra was odontoid process of the axis vertebra was intact, neither the transverse nor check ligaments having been ruptured. On dissecting off the scalp, the vessels supplying it were found much congested, but on the subsequent removal of the calvarium, the membranes covering the brain presented no other than ordinary postmorpresented no other than ordinary postmor-tum appearances. Strange to say, on ex-amination of the proper substance of the brain, there was no congestion apparent, and on making a section to expose the ven-tricles, no fluid was found present in those cavities. The brain was found to be below the average weight the average weight, weighing but two pounds and four ounces av.

On opening the cavity of the chest the lungs presented no other appearance, than what might be expected from ordinary cost, most a learning to the chest the lungs present a learning to the cavity of the chest the lungs present a learning to the chest the lungs presented to the chest the lungs presented to the lungs presented to the chest the lungs presented to the lungs presented the lungs presented to the lungs pr what might be expected from ordinary post-mortem alterations. On cutting open the pericardium and removing the heart, that organ was found entirely empty, the right as well the left side, going to show that death was not due to apneas, which, is contrary to what might be expected in examination of persons who have died by hanging. The vena cava both the ascending were also found empty.

ing and descending were also found empty.
On cutting off the vessels close to their origin, the weight of the heart was found to be nine ounces and six drachms, about the average weight of the heart.

The attention of those present was now directed to the examination of the abdomen. It had been previously ascertained that the breakfast of the prisoner, which had been taken about two hours and a half before execution, consisted of two soft-boiled eggs, several pieces of bread and butter, and the prisoner of coffee. The stowers half great the prisoner of coffee the prisoner of the stowers half great the prisoner of coffee the prisoner of the stowers half great the prisoner of coffee the prisoner of the stowers half great the prisoner of the stowers half great the prisoner of the prison eggs, several pieces of bread and butter, and a tincupful of coffee. The stomach being opened, it was found empty, leading to an interesting disclosure—that the function of digestion was not in the least impaired by the mental anxiety to which one would suppose the person was subjected. The liver was found to be in a normal condition, weighing 3 pounds 3½ oz. The spleen was very much enlarged, distended with blood, thus perhaps showing that the congestion of the other viscera of the body was relieved by the afflux of blood to this organ; weight of spleen, ten ounces and five

The kidneys were next examined; these were found to be also much congested. There was found to be considerable difference in the comparative weight of the two kidneys. Weight of right kidney, five ounces, three drachms and two scruples; weight of left kidney, six ounces, two drachms and two scruples.

The condition of the bladder was found healthy, not distended, containing only about three ounces of urine.

Dr. Pancoast, in lecturing to the audience, gave it as his opinion that the individual before him perished simply from shock inflicted on the nervous system, caused by the tension and pressure to which the pneu-mogastric and phrenic nerves (nerves es-sential to the function of respiration) were sential to the function of respiration) were subjected, no injury having been inflicted on the spinal cord, which opinion was substantiated by Drs. Hunt, Packard, S. W. Gross, Nebinger, Jewell and the other distinguished medical gentlemen present. The experiment of Sir Benjamin Brodie was referred to, which was that of thing a cord tightly count the second the tying a cord tightly around the neck of a guinea pig, behind the windpipe, thus not interfering with respiration. After allowing the cord to remain for a short time it was the cord to remain for a short time it was removed, the guinea pig allowed to run around as before, but the next morning it was found dead, having perished from the injury sustained by its nervous system. The lecture having now continued for one hour and three quarters, the lecturer having completed a thorough examination of the body, called the attention of the profession to witness that here was a man who had died by hanging, yet having no evi-fession to witness that here was a man who had died by hanging, yet having no evidence of such, excepting the statement of trustworthy and respectable eye witnesses and other external signs as the furrow made by the rope, yet the other internal evidence, which might be expected in such a case being absent, there being no fracture or dislocation of the neck. no rupture or other ocation of the neck, no rupture or other injury of the spinal cord, no injury inflicted on the windpipe, but simply a rupture of the sterno-cleido mastoid muscle and fracture of the hyoid bone; thus making a most valuable point with reference to medico-legal discussion. Thus terminated the able lecture, ripe with the fruits of scientific in-

Our report of Dr. Pancoast's able Medico-Legal lecture was reported by Drs. James Taylor and E. R. Hutchins, expressly for the Bulletin.

THE SCHUYLKILL NAVY REGATTA,-The annual regatta of the Schuylkill Navy came annual regatta of the Schuylkili Navy came off on Saturday afternoon, and was witnessed by thousands of persons. The hills and walks on the Schuylkill side of Fairmount Park were filled with ladies, gentlemen and children, and the entire scene was a brilliant one. The skeleton outrigger "Wink," of the Undine Club, consend the contestat 4 o'clock, and as there outrigger "Wink," of the Undine Club, opened the contestat 4½ o'clock, and as there was no rival all the crew had to do was to row over the course and claim the champion flag for boats of the first class. At 5½ o'clock came the race between the outrigger barges "Atlanta," belonging to the Undine Club, the "Faugh-a-Ballagh," owned by the Philadelphia Club, and "Hiawatha," belonging to the Malta Club, This contest was quite exciting. The "Atlanta" came in first, the "Faugh-a-Ballagh" second, and the "Hiawatha" last. The next contest was between the barges "Thistle," of the Quaker City Club, "Falcon," of the Pennsylvania Club, "Vesper," of the Washington Club, and "Minnehaha," of the Malta Club. The "Thistle" took the lead at the start and won "Thistle" took the lead at the start and won an easy victory, coming in three hundred yards ahead of any of her competitors. The other boats came in in the order in which they have been mentioned. This closed the regatta. The Undine Club holds the championship flags for boats of the first and second classes, and the Quaker City Club the championship flag for boats of the third class. The next regatta will take place in October. THE PRIZE FIGHTERS.-John R. Green and Joseph Keesey, whose arrest for prize fighting has already been noticed, were taken to Delaware county on Saturday by Lieut. Tolbert, of the Sixteenth District Police and had a hearing before Justice Mault. They were committed in default of $1,500 ball, and were consigned to the Media just to await triel. iail to await trial.

ARRESTED,-John Hamilton was arrested yesterday for larceny and assault and battery. It is alleged that he went into a trimming store at Twelfth and South streets, about ten days ago, helped himself to a piece of goods and then assaulted the proprietor, when followed by him. Hamilton was committed by Aldarman Tittarman was committed by Alderman Tittermary.

VA GRANTS ARRESTED.—The Second Dis trict Police made another raid through Baker, Bedford and Spatford streets, yester-day. Fifty-eight miserable specimens of humanity were taken into custody, and were sent to Moyamensing Prison as vagrants. It is time that we had a House of Correction for such characters.

ALMOST DROWNED .- A lad named Thos. Lancaster, aged 8 years, fell into a race leading to Garsed's woolen mill, at Frankford, yesterday. He was taken out of the water by John Schofield. He was insensible, but, after much difficulty, was restored to consciousness.

Assaulted with a Razor.-A colored man named Mick Carpenter, aged twentyfour years, came to this city yesterday from New Jersey, and visited St. Mary street, where he quarreled with another man, resulting in his being cut shockingly in the face with a razor. He was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital. Pennsylvania Hospital.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.-Paul Loane, thirtytive years of age, was engaged on Saturday at the Market Street Gas Works in hoisting a box when the slings gave way and the box fell upon him. His nose and jaw were broken and he was otherwise injured. Loane was taken to the hospital. He resides in Summer street, near Twenty-second.

FIRE.—The alarm of fire about one o'clock this merning was caused by the partial burning of the roof of the boarding house of Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, on Franklin street, above Race. The flames were speedily extinguished and the damage done was slight.

A WIFE BEATER.—Samuel Fulton, residing at No. 1229 Darien street was arrested last night for beating his wife in a brutal manner. He was taken before Alderman Fitch and was committed in default of $1,000 bail to answer.

ACCIDENT TO A PRESS.—The engine of the Inquirer broke down this morning causing a delay of several hours in the issue of the paper. The damage has already been repaired and the paper will be issued at the

THERE ARE SEVENTEEN coal fields in England and Wales. The largest of them is that o South Wales. Its greatest thickness is 10,000 feet. Its present yield is 9,000,000 tons a year. Next to it in size is the Derbyshire and Yorkshire, which yield more than 12,000,000 tons a year, and will last for seven cen-turies. The great Durham and Northumberland basis covers an area of 460 miles and contains 268 colleries from whence are dug 16,000,000 tons of coal each year The Lancashire district has 390 colleries, and with half the area, yields about 8,000,000 bushels. All the other English deposits taken together do not furnish as such coal as the Durham and Northumberland di rrict. Quite a large stock of coal is soid annually in Philadelphia, by W. W. Alter, 957 North Ninth street and at Sixth and Spring Garden streets.
