EVENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1866.

Persons leaving the city for the summer, and wishing to have the EVENING BULLETIN sent to them, will please send their address to the office.

RECONSTRUCTION.

The Union members of the House of Representatives yesterday voted in a solid body in favor of the Reconstruction Committee's proposed amendment to the Constitution, as modified by the Senate. The vote was 120 in favor and 32 against it. So the amendment has received the required vote in each House, and it now only needs the assent the States. This assent, it is to be hoped, the work of reconstruction will be fully

The so-called Radicals in Congress have conceded much in adopting so many modifications of their original plan, on the suggestion of the more moderate members. Mr. Stevens, who is a man of strong convictions, and who has bat. tled with the monster slavery for more than a generation, must have had a seyere mental struggle before he could bring himself to yield so much. But he did it gracefully and with dignity, and he expressed his misgivings in language so solemn that he must have impressed his auditors profoundly. It remains for the opposition, and the people of the still excluded States, to act fairly and in good faith, and to accept the action of Congress as the only available means of procuring a full restoration of all the States to their practical relations to the Union. All history may be searched and no case will be found in which the defeated in a great rebellion have had such easy terms offered to them. There is no life-long attainder. Even the temporary disabilities of certain specified parties may be removed by a vote of two-thirds of each House of Congress. We trust that there will be now no more factious op. position to the action of Congress, and we shall welcome with sincere joy each State that asks to be admitted to Congress under the terms offered.

THE EUROPEAN TROUBLES. It is probable that the European conference, of which so much has been said, is now sitting at Paris. France, Prussia, Austria, Russia, Italy and England are all represented, and Napoleon III. probably presides. There are some sanguine optimists that have a certain amount of hope that this conference will prevent a war, but noone knows exactly how. Prussia is bent on having the Duchies, and Italy is equally bent on having Venetia. Austria is opposed to

The conference will, at all events, retard open hostilities, and that is an advantage to Austria and a disadvantage to Italy and Prussia. In Italy the war fever is furious, resembling that which broke out here after the attack on Fort Sumter, in April, 1861. The whole army has been put on a war footing, and volunteering is going on with a mazing rapidity. The expenses of the government are really as great as if war actually existed, and there has been an enormous issue of paper in consequence. It is important to Italy, therefore, that the war should begin at once, and it is probable that Victor Emmanuel only delays it and consents to a conference, in the vague hope that the Powers may persuade Austria to give up Venetia—a most improbable thing.

France and England will each have a voice in the conference, and it seems impossible that so many discordant, heterogeneous and even antagonistic elements should ever come to an agreement. If they should, and war should be averted, without Italy or Prussia obtaining what each seeks, there is no prohability that the peace thus patched up up will be a permanent one. Each of those kingdoms has gone too far and made too many sacrifices already to give up its aspirations finally.

A LIBERAL RESOLVE.

The Directors of the West Philadelphia (Market street) Passenger Railway Company have determined that, on and after July 1st, the wages of their conductors shall be $2 50 a day, and those of their drivers $2 25 a day, an advance of 25 cents a day in each case. This has been done, after mature deliberation, under a conviction that with such enhanced pay, the services of faithful and honest men will be secured. The temptations to pocket a certain portion of the receipts of a car are especially strong when the pay is small; and although this increase of wages will amount in the aggregate to about $10,000 a year, it is believed that it will be fully made up by the returns of the conductors. The various city railway companies have several times increased the fares on their roads, but this is the first instance. since the last advance was made, of an increase of the pay of their employes.

BRIBERY IN NEW JERSEY. The suits commenced in the Mercer County Court against Messrs. Haines, Ruh, Van Wagoner and Holsman, for alleged attempts to bribe members of the New Jersey-Legislature, have been laid over to the next term of the Court. Until the cases are tried it will of course be impossible for the public to judge of their merits. It can scarcely be doubted that in all our State Legislatures there has been for years a growing spirit of corruption, and that the giving and taking of bribes has been reduced to a system, artful in its concealment, and most demoralizing in its influence upon the community. The impunity which this disgraceful system ordinarily enjoys has encouraged its growth, until it has reached a point where there is scarcely an affectation of political integrity and purity. So far as the present cases in New Jersey are concerned, it remains to be seen whether the suits are the result of malice on the one part, or corruption on the other. In either event a thorough ventilation of the whole process by which modern legislation is carried on will probably ensue, and public morals will be the gainer by

it. Men who bribe and men who are bribed will be far less likely to pursue these evil practices, if a few notable exof the Legislatures of three-fourths of amples are occasionally made of them. No one class of the community is alone may be obtained without unnecessary responsible for the existence of this evil, delay, and then this vexed question will which is sapping the very foundations e set at rest forever, every State will of our social and political structure. The have its representatives in Congress, and legislator who receives a bribe charges the crime upon him who tempts him with it, and the man who gives the bribe is too apt to shrug his shoulders and ease his conscience with the reflection that he is only imitating his neighbors. The cases now before the New Jersey courts, if honestly and vigorously prosecuted, may be the means of checking the growth of this rotten system; and it is to be hoped that, if the charges are well-founded, they will be probed to the bottom with an unsparing hand, and the offence punished with the heaviest penalties which the law can inflict.

Death of Prof. Henry Darwin Rogers. On the 29th ult. Prof. H. D. Rogers, the famous geologist, died at his residence, near Glasgow, Scotland, in the 57th year of his age. At the time of his death, and for several years previous, he had held the post of Regius Professor of Natural History in the University of Glasgow, and he had sustained the position with great credit. He was a native of this city, and will be remembered here mainly by his great work on "The Geology of Pennsylvania," on which he was engaged during the most active years of his life. This work is recognized as one of great thoroughness and originality, and ranks, in practical value, with the labors of the ablest geologists of this era. Among Prof. Rogers's other works, are many very important papers contributed to the "Transactions" of the American Philosophical Society, the Boston Society of Natural History, the British Association of Science, the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, &c. His geological survey of the State of New Jersey is a standard work, and many of his maps and charts are in daily use among scientific men. His death is a severe loss to the scientifiworld, though his health had not been good from the period when at the age of twenty-one he held the position of Professor of Che mistry and Natural Philosophy at Dickinson College, Carlisle. Professor Rogers was a member of many learned societies, both in Europe and America, and his scientific brethren will amply honor his memory. We may add that though representing America in a foreign University for a number of years, his patriotism was fervent and he was able to defend and maintain the cause of the Union at all times and under all circumstances. A NEW PERFUME, called "Opoponax," ma rufactured by E. T. Smith & Co., of New York, is making a sensation wherever it is known. It is prepared from a Mexican plant, is very delicate, and its fragrance remains on the handkerchief for days.
