BY WILLIAM CULLEN BYRANT.

O Thou great Wrong, that, through the slow-pace O Thon great Wrong, that, through the slow-pace years,
Didst hold thy millions fettered, and didst wield The scourse that drove the laborer to the field,
And look with stony eye on human tears,
Thy cruel reign is o'er;
Thy bondmen crouch no more
In terror at the menace of thine eye;
For He who marks the bounds of guilty power,
Long-suffering, hath heard the captive's cry,
And touched his shackles at the appointed hour,
And lo! they fall, and he whose limbs they galled
Stands in his native manhood, disenthralled.

Standsin his native manhood, disenthrailed.

A shout of joy from the redeemed is sent.

Ten thousand hamits swell the hymn of thanks;
Our rivers roll exuiting, and their banks
Send up hosannas to the firmament.
Fields, where the bondman's toil
No more shall trench the soil.

Seem now to bask in a serener day:
The meadow-birds slig sweeter, and the airs
Of heaven with more carersing softness play,
Welcoming man to liberty like theirs.
A glory clothes the land from sea to sea.
For the great land and all its coasts are free.

L. The meadow by whom the nation's laws were made,
And they by whom the nation's laws were made,
And they by whom the nation's laws were made,
And they who filled lis judgment seats, obeyed
Tay mandate, rigid as the will of fate,
Fierce men at thy right hand.

With gesture of command.

Gave ferth the word that none might dare gainsay;
And grave and reverend ones, who loved thee not,
Brank from thy presence, and in blank dismay;
Choked down, unuttered, the rebellious thought;
While meaner cowards, mingled with iny train,
Proved, from the book of God, thy right to reign.

Great as thou wert, and feared from shore to shore,

Proved, from the book of God, thy right to reign.

Great as thon wert, and feared from shore to shore,
The wrath of God o'ertook thee in thy pride;
Thou situst a ghastly shadow; by thy side
Thy oncestiong arms hang nerveless evermore,
And they who qualled but now
Before thy lowering brow
Devote thy memory to scorn and shame,
And scoff at the pale, powerless uning thou art.
And they who ruled in thine imperial name,
Subdued and standing sallenty spart,
Ecowl at the hands thatoverthrew thy reign,
And shattered at a blow the prisoner's enain.
Well was thy doom deserved; thou didst not spare
Life's tenderest ties, but cruelly didst part
Husband and wife, and from the mother's heart
Didst wrest her children, deaf to shriek and prayer;
Thy inner lair became
The haunt of guilty shame;
Thy lash dropped blood; the murderer, at thy side,
Showed his red hands, nor feared the vengeance due,
Thou diest sow earth with crimes, and, far and wide,
A harvest of uncounted miseries grew,
Until the measure of thy sins at last
Was full, and then the avenging bolt was cast.

Go then, accursed of God, and take thy place

Go then, accursed of God, and take thy place With baleful memories of the elder time.

With baleful memories of the elder time,
With many a wasting peet, and nameless crime,
And bloody war that thinned the human race;
With the Black Death, whose way
Through walling cities lay,
Worship of Moloch, tyrannies that built
The Fyramids, and cruel creeds that taught
To averge a fancied guilt by deeper guilt—
Death at the stake to those that held them not.
Lo, the foul phantoms, silent in the gloom
Of the flown ages, part to yield thee room,

I see the better years that hasten by,

I see the better years that hasten by,
Carry thee back into that shadowy past,
Where, in the dusty spaces void and vast,
The graves of those whom thou hast murdered lie
The slave pen, through whose door
Thy victims pass no more,
Is there, and there shall the grin block remain.
At which the s'ave was sold; while at thy feet
Scourges and engines of restraint and pain
Molder and rest by thine eternal seat.
There, 'mid the symbols that proclaim thy crimes,
Dwell thou, a warning to the coming times.

Base Ball.-An interesting and somewhat novel game of base ball was played yesterday afternoon on the grounds of the Keystone Base Ball Club at Eleventh and Wharton streets. The contestants were a fat nine and a thin nine of the club. The aggregate weight of the fat men was 2,100 pounds, and that of the thin men about 1,100 pounds. Quite a large number of spectators were present. The playing on both sides was excellent, and the fat men made the runs and handled the bat with much more grace than was expected. Seven innings were played when game was called. The score stood—fat nine 31, thin nine 28. The result was announced, and the victors were greeted with hearty rounds of ap-A new club has been organized in the Tenth Ward under the name of the Crescent Base Ball Club. thrown to the breeze yesterday. It is suspended across Chestnut street and the upper part bears the inscription—"Union State

EFFECTS OF SUNLIGHT ON WINDOW GLASS.—It is a familiar observation that window glass shows a tinge of color—purple, blue, green, or yellow when looked at from outside against a white shade or when looked at from outside against a white shade or shutter within. The very best qualities of glass, even the best French plate, although white when placed in the windows, often become colored after exposure to air and light for months or years. When an inscription is written on glass it becomes still more curious, as, for instance, when we read—"Buy your coal of W V. Alter, at his pricipal office, 957 North Ninth street, or at the branch office, Sixth and Spring Garden streets.
