BUSINESS NOTICES.

A SAD CASE. Bob started out one summer day. To visit Bess, six miles away, All hot and dusty was the road, And hot and dusty was his throat: When, by his path, he chanced to note A tree that bore a luscious load Of cherries ripe:—but, standing there, He viewed them only with despair! He knew his best suit would not bear The strain of climbing trees so tail, For it came not from Tower Hall!

icing from these rates we have goods of all grades, up to the very finest fabrics, at prices reduced in propor-tion—Men's Youths' and Boys'. THOUSANDS HAVE POUBD WITHIN THE PAST FEW WEEKS, THAT WE ARE ACTUALLY SELLING GOOD, SERVICEABLE GOODS AT THE PRICES NAMED.

TO CLOTHING DEALERS. Our purchases for this season having been delayed, walting the expected decline in goods, we have now on hand the largest and best assorted stock of Clothing in Philadelphia, purchased for CASH EXCLUSIVELY, AT THE VERY LOWEST RATES OF THE SEASON, which en ables us to realize a fair profit and sell at prices less than the cost of same goods in most other establish ments. We can supply Cothlers doing a fins city trade with goods adopted to their sales, at prices so much Lower than the cost of their present stocks, that, by making an average of the whole, they will be enabled to dis-pose of their goods at prices covering the average cost, and even paying a profit.

BENNETT & CO., TOWER HALL, 518 MARKET STREET.

THE GOOD TIME COMING. Now that the question is at ease, If ladies can dress as they please— Decided by a worthy Squire, They may wear just what they desire— Adopt men's pantaloons, yet meet No molestation in the street— It's very clear, strong minded dames Will soon shine in athletic sames, Discard all vestige of the flirt. When they put off their "duplex" skirt.

Already have they cut a shine
Upon the ice, and look'd divine, And satisfied was many a girl In faultless balmoral to twirl; But unimpeded!-soon will all "Travel on muscle"-play base ball, Impel the swiftly flying barge, And in all manner cut it large. Now we know why some ladies are So very partial to the "STAR," Why each approaching eye Can the "STAR'S" merits soon descry, And why their hurbands and their beaus Rush to that mart to purchase clothes, (As the events as yet in store Of course "throw shadows on before.")
And when that happy time arrives, When husbands are eclips'd by wives, When bifurcated garments are Bought by both sexes at the "STAR," Imagination in its flights. Anticipates those bitter nights, When better halves feel no desires To turn out to extinguish fires; On such occasion, when the mate Has little time to dress or wait, The garments being of one kind, The husband's trousers hard to find; Seizing the first pair to his hand, The matches p'raps not at command. Can it be wonder'd in his hurry, (Firemen at such times in a flurry), If he should feel a rising doubt, Whether the right pair is found out? And ere a hasty light procures,

Sings out, impatient—"Are those yours?"

WE ADVERTISE BEST ON THE BACKS OF OUR CUS TOWERS. EVERY GARMENT WE SELL IS A FIRST CLASS RECOMMENDATION. Therein lies the secret of the long continued and still increasing rush to the PREAR." Our stock of READY MADE CLOTHING IS IM MENGE and from it all can be accurately fitted. Plece goods of every variety; Cutters of well-known ability, and all who leave their measure are sure to be pleased. PRICES THE LOWEST IN PHILADELPHIA. Call and be satisfied.

VIRGINIA CONSERVATISM. A Richmond cotemporary is seriously exercised concerning the prospects of the Northerners sweeping down upon the Old Dominion, and Yankeeizing the whole concern. It says:

"There is not a single Southern State in which this process—this fatal process of New England colonization is not going on. We must stop it, and from this hour; we must resolve to stop it before it enwraps and crushes us in its anaconda folds. We do not mean that it must be stopped by a resort to violence, or any unwarrantable resort to violence, or any unwarrantable means, but by refusing, as we have the right to do, to sell our lands, or any part of them, or lease or tenant them out to Radi-cal enemies of the South."

And suppose it was stopped, what then? Why, the very city where this article was penned and published would have no existence at this moment, were it not for these universal Yankees. The hated Yankees, with the despised negroes, put out the fire that rebel hands had kindled on that gloomy morning in April, 1865, and they saved the wreck of the capital that the chivalry had given up to the flames, and then yielded for lost. The Yankee (by the Yankee we mean all Northern men) is now using his capital, his skill and his enterprise to replace what rebel madness destroyed, and it not for him, Richmond would not only have been reduced to ashes; but it would have been left to stifle in chivalric sack-cloth, and to slumber amid its own dismal ruins, a ruin

sort of thing; it refuses to be "wrapped up in anaconda folds," and it has no mind to be made a Laocoon of, with Yankee enterprise and modern improvements as the great enveloping reptile. No, Virginia will cling to her reserved rights; she will insist upon her privilege of being a century or two behind the age; she will have none of your new fangled locomotives, while there is a pack horse or a Conestoga wagon to be procured; she will discard gas lights and patronize pine-knots; she will prefer the post-rider to the magnetic telegraph, the scow to the steamboat, the spinning-wheel to the spinning-jenny; she will indulge in the dumps to her heart's content, and to sum up all in a very few words, she will cling to the effete ghost of a dead and gone institution, and what came of it, rather than wed herself to a live Yankee who is trying his best to treat her kindly and do well by her.

It is a curious fact, however, that while Virginia oracles are protesting their unwillingness to recognize the Yankee, through newspaper organs that are indited, nine times in ten, by apostate Yankee scribes, that are put in type by the nimble fingers of Yankee compositors, who are more intent upon the number of "ems" they "make" than they are regardful of the utterances of which they are the mediums; that are printed upon Yankee paper and by Yankee presses, and with Yankee ink. they still continue to allow the Yankee to come in and help them, while protesting their unwillingness to submit to the unpleasant association. Virginia must help herself or she must be helped. It is not in the nature of things that she should be allowed to lie fallow after the great storm has blown over. As she cannot help herself she will be helped, and her helpers are not of the kind to be deterred in the work before them by the maudlin whinings of the poor relation who has been ruined by her own pride and folly, and who in her distress, protests that she will maintain the family dignity, and refuse to mingle with the baser sort, while she is greedily swallowing the provender her mechanical, but good-natured cousins are providing her. Keep the Yankee out! Oh yes, Mrs. Virginia, keep the Yankee out by all means; but there is only one way to do it, to wit: learn to help yourself, in a sensible, practical way. And when you have accomplished that, you will no longer want to keep him out; but you will gladly welcome him as your best friend, for by that time vou will have discovered the folly of the past, learned to appreciate the duties of the present, and realized the necessities of the future.

HOW IS IT?

In the circular of instructions sent to the Principal of the Girls' Grammar Schools, concerning the rules to be observed in the admission of candidates to the Girls' High and Normal Schools, in July, the following paragraph occurs:

"All the candidates, except those from Hebrew schools, must have been pupils of the public schools of the First School District of Pennsylvania, for the term of one year, and must, when admitted, be residents of the city of Philadelphia."

The italics in the above extract are our own. We knew that efforts were in progress to admit pupils who were sufficiently advanced, to the High Schools, without the preliminary condition of having gone through a course of studies in the Public Grammar Schools. We also know that the High School Investigation Committee, within a few days, adopted the following resolution:

"The committee also recommend that application be made to the next Legislature for the passage of an act by which pupils may be admitted into the Central High School from private as well as Public Grammar Schools of this city: Provided, That such applicants shall pass a satisfactory examination.

We are puzzled to understand all this. It is apparent that it is the intention of the authorities of the Normal School to admit pupils from private Hebrew schools, and that the Controllers are aware that they have no right to make any such arrangement is evident from the fact that they are about to make an application to the Legislature for authority to admit pupils to the Boys' High School from private schools. By what authority then are pupils from private Hebrew schools to be admitted to the Normal School? We do not remember to have heard of the passage of any act by the Legislature looking to such an arrangement, and let it be by what authority it may, it is entirely wrong in principle and in application.

The proposition to admit pupils from the private schools of the city, direct to the High Schools is one that will commend itself to every reflecting person. No substantial objections can be urged against it, while very many considerations weigh heavily in its favor. Most prominent among these is the lightening of the expense of the school system to the public treasury, and the making of room in the greatly overcrowded public Primary, Secondary and Grammar schools. But, why should this privilege be accorded to the people of one denomination alone? Citizens of the Jewish persuasion have precisely the same rights in the public schools as citizens of other denominations, and not a whit more or less. There are numerous Catholic, Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Quaker private schools. In fact, there are private schools that are supported by all the principal religious denominations. Why either or all of these should not enjoy the same privileges as the Hebrews in question that is more easily asked than answered. It will, of course, be understood that we do not object to this exception because any Virginia desires to put a stop to this particular class are to enjoy the advantages of it. Ourschool laws, like all other laws of the Commonwealth, know no distinction between sects or denominations, and both Jew and Gentile have precisely the same rights before them.

THE AMENDMENT. President Johnson yields, but not gracefully, to the overpowering majority in Congress in the matter of the reconstruction amendment to the Constitution. He reports, by a special message, that the Secretary of State has transmitted a copy of the amendment to each State Governor; but he takes care to state that it was simply a ministerial act, and is not to be construed as an approval of the amendment by the executive. As the President was not asked to approve of it, it was quite unnecessary for him to mention that he disapproved of it. The reiteration of his views on the subject of reconstruction can effect no harm ner good at this late day, for those views have been overruled. There is neither dignity nor reason in continued resistance to a measure which, so far as the Federal Government is concerned, is an accomplished fact.

"It is a took of thought. Its opening room, the one that gives it name, is masterly, and the others walk with it."—N. F. World.

"As a whole, these poems do Mr. Saxe infinite credit
The intermixture of sentimental lyrics with the lighter productions is very judicious, and serves to show the versatility of the author's mind, beside revening the real power of his wit—a keen and active sympathy with the most generous aides of human na-sympathy with the most generous sides of human nature."—Aibany Journal.

"This elegant volume is full of the peculiar power and poetic humor of Saxe—The best of our American humorous poets."—Legal Intelligencer.

"No other American poet, except possibly Holmes, could have given us two hundred pages of just such could have given us two nundred pages of just such verses. All the poems are short; most of them humorous; many are scholarly; a few sentimental; and all of them good."—Cincinnati Commercial.
"Our witty reek as never done better things than will be found inside these covers."—Boston Transcript-"Mr. Saxe is one of the most original poets which.

Special notice to our old friends and the public genrally:
The JONES' One-Price Clothing House, established: sixteen years ago, is still in successful operation at the old location, 60 MARKET Street, one door above Sixth, and has not changed its place or manner of doing business, which is exactly the same good old plan in operation for many years, namely—"One Price and no deviation." The Ciothing we make is of the most substantial character, both as to materials and workmanship, so that our customers never can complain of either. either.

our stock is large and plain or fashionable people can be well suited. Our customers should be carried to get to the right place, as there is no other establishment in the city in our line of business strictly "one-price."
