

BUSINESS NOTICES.

DIFFERENT VIEWS. "War in Europe? Well, I'm glad!" Says the man in a frock coat. "War in Europe? Oh, that's bad!" Greets another, like a knell. The busy wonder whether France will swell this agitation; Down East murmurs, "Here's a chance For a small speculation. But 'tis to us a matter small. While goods are cheap at Tower Hall!"

THE PENNSYLVANIA CANAL COMPANY. We are gratified to observe what promises to be an energetic movement with a view to giving greater efficiency and value to the canals connecting the great mineral regions of the valleys of the Susquehanna and Juniata with tide-water.

THE FLAG PRESENTATION. Some of the officers and men of the 71st Regt. P. V., so well known as Baker's California Regiment, have made themselves conspicuous, to say the least of it, by resolving not to parade on the Fourth of July, if colored troops were permitted to participate on the occasion.

THE CHESTNUT STREET BRIDGE. Great architects and engineers have often had their names made immortal by their works. The bridge across the Schuylkill river, at Chestnut street in this city, will carry down to remote generations the name of its designer and constructor, Strickland Kneass, Esq., our City Surveyor.

opened at No. 23 Philadelphia Exchange, at 10 o'clock to-morrow, and continue open three days. They will also be opened in Harrisburg on the 10th and in Huntington on the 19th of July.

THE HIDDEN FLAG. The North is for peace. A fierce, bloody, civil war, waged, as we think, without any just cause, has terminated in the establishment of our Republican Government and the supremacy of the Constitution over all our territory.

of a half of pounds, and such had all to be cast and wrought in such a way as to admit of the nicest adjustment. The roadway, already covered with the Belgian pavement, has the appearance of a solid street; and the footways are to be covered with flag-stones. When the ornamental iron cornices and balustrades are finished the appearance of the bridge will be strikingly beautiful.
