Great Fire at Schenectady. SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 26 .- The greatest and most valuable portion of the Schenectady locomotive works was destroyed by fire at two o'clock this morning. Several new engines and all the machinery are in ruins. The loss is estimated at $300.-900, with an insurance of $75,000. By this disaster 500 men are thrown out of employ-

Sir Morton Peto.

Cor. Cincinnati Commercial. The American correspondents of English newspapers have taken pains to mention the warm manifestations of regret shown by the Americans at the embarrassment of Sir Morton Peto. It is beautiful to see the effect of even so clight an ext of hindren Morton Peto. It is beautiful to see the effect of even so slight an act of kindness as this in moving the good will and grateful appreciation of the English people. There is nothing so potent as friendly and generous behavior. If the press on both sides of the Atlantic would resolve that there should be good will between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon family, and would indulge in courteous and cordio would indulge in courteous and cordial speech rather than in bitterness and reorimination, England and America might be knit together by the closest ties, and the happiness of both nations immensely in-

But to return to Sir Morton. I wish to mention the gratifying fact that at the meeting of the creditors yesterday, the balance sheet of the firm revealed that their assets are more than live millions of dollars in are more than five millions of dollars in excess of their liabilities.

The spirit of the meeting was one of entire confidence in the firm, and its liquidation is to be left to its own members. Mr. Alderman Rose, late M. P. and Lord Mayor of London, made the following speech, which may be taken as a fair sample of the thought of all the creditors. He said:

of all the creditors. He said:

"That considering the career of the firm had been unprecedented in the history of the world, and looking at the peculiar circumstances which had brought about this crisis in their affairs, he thought some little expression of sympathy on the part of the meeting was due to Messrs. Peto and Betts. [Applause.] He believed that the career of the firm had been one which placed this country far above all other countries in engineering progress; and after these gentles. country far above all other countries in engineering progress; and after these gentlemen had carried out those great works which had contributed so much to the material prosperity of the country, it was but just that at such a time as the present the sympathy of their creditors should be handsomely expressed. [Hear, hear.] The utmost confitheir creditors should be handsomely expressed. [Hear, hear.] The utmost confidence he believed might be placed in their balance sheet, and he was sure they all hoped that these gentlemen would be placed in circumstances which would not only prove them to be—what all believed them to be men of great preserverance and high character, but restore them as well to the excharacter, but restore them as well to the ex-alted position they had occupied, and to which they were justly entitled. [Cheers.] He begged to propose a vote of sympathy for and confidence in Messrs. Peto and Betts, and he hoped that they would soon be in a position to realize the expectations of the gentleman who so confidently put them forward."

A Philadelphian Abroad.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

I have recently made the acquaintance of a colored American actor, Mr. S. Morgan Smith, of Philadelphia, of whom I shall have coasion to speak again. He is a gentleman of high spirit, of cultivated manners, and has a noble ambition to make a position for himself in the world. He came to this country partly to escape the cruel and wicked prejudice against his race, which still poisons and degrades American society, and reveals to us how far we are from being either a Christian or a civilized nation. Mr. Smith has taken, for a short time, the theatre of Greygand, but will soon the theatre at Gravesend; but will soon travel through the provinces as a star, and if he makes his mark will yet appear on the London boards. I have seen Gravesend newspapers which speak of his acting in high terms of praise.

EXCITEMENT AT A FAIR.—The Methodist Fair at Concert Hall closed last night. About ten o'clock the gas was suddenly lowered, and then went out like a flash. A report that the gas had been turned off by thieves and pickpockets was started, and great excitement prevailed for some time. People rushed in every direction, and when two persons came in contact each supposed the other to be a thief. When the commotion subsided it was found that there had been no thieves in the place, and the only thing missed was a small fan, valued at 25

BOATS CAPSIZED.—Yesterday an excursion party went to Red Bank. Last evening, when the boat was returning, several small skiffs were fastened to it. During the passage up the river one of the small craft was drawn under the wheel of the steamboat and was swamped. Some of the others were also dragged in and sunk. There were rumors that several persons were drowned, but as far as could be ascertained, all the occupants of the boats were rescued. A tug-boat came out from Gloucester and picked up several.

LITERAL PEOPLE.—Sir Walter Scott, walking once with Lady Scott, saw some lambs, and remarked on their beauty. "Yes," said the wife, "lambs are beautiful—boiled!" We read that Mrs. Wordsworth —boiled!" We read that Mrs. Wordsworth was once walking in a grove, and heard a farmer's wife soliloquizing, "Oh my, I do love stockdoves." The heart of the poet's wife yearned towards that Amaryllis. "But," continued the old woman, "there be's some what likes 'em in a pie; but for my part there's nothing like 'em stewed in onions." Horace Smith tells of a city miss who accosted a keeper of sheep in the onions." Horace smith tells of a city miss who accosted a keeper of sheep in the fields, as she glowed with a desire for an Arcadian concert, "Oh. gentle shepherd, prithee tell me where's your pipe?" to which the man replied, "I left it to hum, miss. 'cause I hain's not no bagey." miss, 'cause I hain't got no baccy."

OYER AND TERMINER-Judges Peirce and Ludlow.—The case of William Golcher, charged with the murder of Noah Mick on the 3d of November, 1860, was resumed this morning. The parties were in a tavern, on Second street, near Reed, and had been drinking during the afternoon; words had passed between them, but each successive quarrel had ended with the prisoner and the deceased going to the bar and drinking together. In the course of the day Golcher had announced himself as the friend of Mick, and when the deceased proposed taight he declined and insisted upon drinking. Mick continued to apply offensive epithets to Golcher. Finally the parties coposed to separate, and as Golcher was about to leave he asked Mick if they were friends. Mick made some offensive reply, whereupon Golcher turned and struck hi with his fist. Mick fell, and when raised he was found to be in an insensible condi-tion, and he died before a physician could be summoned.

Dr. Updegrove, who made the postmortem, had but an indistinct recollection of the fact, and he could only testify that there was a slight abrasion of the skin on the forehead, and that there was congestion of the brain, which might have been produced by a fall, a kick or excessive drink.

The defence alleged that the Commonwealth had not established that the death had resulted from any external injuries.
It was further alleged that Goleher acted in self defence when he struck the deceased.
The good character of the prisoner was proven. The case is still on trial.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—A horrible accident occurred at Louisville, Ky., last Monday, in which two young ladies—Miss Jennie Brown and Miss Sallie Hart—lost their lives. About three o'clock the ladies left the bouse and proceeded to the water closet. After being absent about one hour and a half, the mother of Miss Brewn went in search of her, and found that the flooring had given way, precipitating both young ladies into the well. When Miss Brown was extricated, she was quite dead. Miss Hart lived but a few minutes after being relieved. They were both about 18 years of age, and highly accomplished. Miss Brown was a daughter of Dr. W. W. Brown and Miss Hart was spending the day at his residence.

INCOME RETURNS.—The following anec dote may be considered appropriate to the season:

S., a well known barber of Buffalo, made up his list, amounting to $537, and handed it in at the office of Internal Revenue Theclerk glanced at the footing and replied, "No tax on incomes below $600." Some minutes later, noticing S. standing patiently, the clerk inquired:
"Waiting for anything?"

S. "My $63."
Clerk, "What $63?"
S. "Why, my income was only $537, and I understood the government would make it

A CHURCH in Salem, Columbians county Obio, was sued, last week, by the preacher for his service as pastor—amount claimed. $1,000.
