EVENING BULLETIN. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1866.

Persons leaving the city for the summer, and wishing to have the Evening SULLETIN sent to them, will please send peir address to the office. Price, by mail, venty-five cents per month.

THE COMING FOURTH OF JULY-It looks as if Philadelphia was going have a real old-fashioned celebration the Fourth of July. It has been a neral practice to let the day go by thout any interesting ceremonies, and insequently a large portion of our peoé went on excursions out of town, and he day was one of the dullest of the one or two occasions, some extraordinary excitements. What Philadelphian can ever forget the 4th of July, 1863, when, after days of agonizing anxiety, came news of General Meade's victory at Gettysburg, and President Lincoln's announcement of it flashed over the wires to every part of the loyal States. Then there was an impromptu celebration, in which the whole people participated.

The days of battle are gone by, we trust forever; but in the celebration of next Wednesday, we shall be reminded of what the country has passed through by the presence of hundreds of the orhans of fallen herees, whom the State f Pennsylvania is taking care of and ducating. Our excellent, true-hearted hd patriotic Governor, who organized ne system of taking care of the soldiers' phans, will be here, with other State ignitaries. General Meade will cerinly be here and perhaps Lieutenant eneral Grant. Thousands of the living eroes of the war will be here, and the signs they bore through so many goody fields, will be solemnly returned the hands of the Governor, who prented them to each regiment in the wars of war. There will be a good deal sadness mingled with the ceremonial, at it will be interesting and inspiring the highest degree. The city government has made a beral appropriation for the proper servance of the holiday, and for the rangements for the reception of the igs. The money will not be wasted. ar it will be returned tenfold and more the citizens by the thousands of visiers who will be attracted hither from all harters. Our people should be prepared practice the most liberal hospitality, d as the hotels will probably be overfowded, private houses should be opened r the entertainment of the visitors. t each citizen enter with his whole al into this celebration, and it will bve to be one of the most interesting d memorable in the annals of Phila-

THE PENNSYLVANIA BANK BUILDING. Yesterday, in the House of Representatives, Hon. Charles O'Neill presented petition, numerously signed by merchants, business men and officers of the customs of this city, asking that the old Pennsylvania Bank Building, belonging to the Government, may be altered for the accommodation of the Appraiser's Repartment, and also asking an approation for that purpose. This is a very good move, and it is only right that the fine property which, from an elegant fornament to the city, was reduced to a wreck by the Government, should be restored to a decent condition by the same authority. The bank property was same authority. The bank property was purchased by the Government during the administration of President Pierce, with a view to converting it into a Post Office. The beautiful garden westof the building, was destroyed, the western portico of the structure was removed, and when the property had been pretty thoroughly wrecked, the work was dropped, a new site for the Post Office having been chosen, and the old bank property has been a ruin and a disgraceful eye-sore ever since, a period of eight or nine years. The Government has made several efforts to dispose of the property, but as the minimum price fixed, $110,000, has never been offered, the property remains on hand. The present Appraiser's stores at Front and Lombard streets, are rented at a heavy cost from private parties. They are not well adapted to the purposes to which they are applied, being limited in extent and deficient/in convenience. The old bank property would afford the requisite facilities for the purpose, and the Government would do wisely to make the proposed use of it. The splendid new structure for the Corn Exchange will soon be erected upon the opposite side of Second street, and the citizens of Philadelphia would rejoice to see the present bank property nuisance abated, and the premises restored to decency and usefulness without further delay.

STRAW HATS AND SUMMER HATS.—5,000 of the newest style Hats, at prices 25 per cent. Store, 613 CH SETNUT street, third door above new BULLETIN Office.

FIGHTING EDITORS.

Something will have to be done with the editorial fire-eaters of Richmond. During the war, fights were common among them; since the close of the great struggle we have had to record several set-tos among them in the absence of any Yankees to fight, and not very long ago there was a sort of a triangular row in the ancient capitol of the Old. Dominion, in which there was some bad shooting, but some good dodging done, and which had no more serious result than the infraction of the dignity of the Legislature, then and there in session, and the knocking of the marble tassel from the cane of the statue of Washington. The latest fracas took place last evening. It is thus pithily reported by the telegraph:

"About 7 o'clock this (last) evening, Samuel James, whilst in the private room of H. Rives Pollard, editor of the Examiner, made some remarks relative to Edward A Pollard, which led to a collision between the parties. After they were separated, James left the premises, and Pollard having armed himself, went in search of James but up to this hour has not found him James is a brother-in-law of Pollard, the Southern historian."

This certainly presents a cheerful condition of things, and the expression that "Pollard armed himself and went in search of James," looks like business A fatal collision between men under similar circumstances would be called wilful murder in the unpoetical North. In the chivalric South the deliberate killing of James by Pollard, after ample "cooling time," would probably be deemed a trifling ebullition of warm blood, and an evidence of high-toned, gentlemanly spirit. If the whole edi-Kilkenny cat business of it, and leave nothing of each other but their treasonladen files, their vitriol-charged inkstands and their paste-pots, the world would be the gainer by it, although public morals might be scandalized. If Richmond editors must fight, they might about as well fight each other as fight anybody else.

RICH ENOUGH.

Two men have been found in one year and one continent who are rich enough. Elias Howe, Jr., is the possessor of a sewing machine patent out of which he has coined a million and a half of dollars. His patent is about to expire, and he has announced that he shall not apply for its renewal, as he has made money enough. The Mayor of Brooklyn, Hon. Samuel M. Booth, has a salary of $3,000, which the Brooklyn Council have just raised to $5,000, and Mayor Booth returns the bill with his veto, with his objections to an increase during his term of office. There is no reason to apprehend that these shining examples will be very extensively followed; but in the midst of such a "heated term" as the present, it is very refreshing to learn that there are two American citizens who are content with what they have: the one with his little million and a half and the other with his modest and doubtless very insufficient stipend of three thousand a year.

Large Sale Real Estate 10th July. Messra, Thomas & Sons will hold a large sale on the lith July, including a number of estates by order of Orphans' Court. See pamphlet catologue and auction column. They have added to their private sale list a very desirable residence, Spruce west of Sixteenth street. Auction Notice—Sale of Boots and Shoes.

The early attention of the trade is called to the large and de irable sale of 1.10 cases Boots and Shoes, to be sold by catalogue, for cash, to morrow (Thursday) morning, June 23, commencing at 10 o'clock, by Philip Ford & Oo., Auctioneers, at their store, No. 306 Market street.
