The Ledger Despatch.

From the (Washington) National Intelligencer of yesterday.] In publishing, as a matter of interesting news or fact, the following letter from Mr. H. M. Flint, we take occasion to say that he is the writer who, over the signature of "Druid," furnished well remembered letters for the press during the rebellion. Being known to the Washington correspondent of the Ledger in New York, to whom it seems by what Mr. Flint verbally informs us, the telegram was sent, as the author of the "Druid" leters, which gave so much more than common information during the war touching the alleged strength of rebel armies and resources, and, therefore, subjected him to the imputation of sustaining the Confederate cause, or sympathizing with it, we are surprised to learn that he is the author of the facts in the despatch which appeared in the Ledger, and have played so important a part in financial operations, to the deep hurt of the public credit, as well as to that of private parties, and to the great advantage of the Radical cause in elections which are about to take place in New York and other Northern States. All these things were, of course, patent to the trusted Ledger correspondent in New York, who, considering the antecedents of Mr. Flint, we do not hesitate to say, should not have received his state ments with such degree of reliance as to ments with such degree of renance as to warrant its publication in a newspaper so old, so reliable, so careful, and so responsible as has been the Ledger. Worse than this, it was taken up by other newspaper correspondents at Philadelphia, and New York and New appropriate the contraction of the property of the contraction. York also, we suppose, and sent to such another respected journal as the Baltimore Sun, and, in fact, to the remotest bounds of

We can hardly suspect that the correspondent of the Ledger, in making up his despatch from a variety of circumstances, to say the least-such as the remarks of inconsiderate triflers, or the sage ones of persons pretending to a knowledge that had no existence in point of fact—could have supposed that it was to be set down for a relia ble fixed fact, and sent on the lightning's wing, on the same day it was written, to all the great trade and financial centres of the Washington, Oct. 14, 1866.—To the Editors of the National Intelligencer.—Sirs: I understand from one of the editors of the understand from one of the editors of the Philadelphia Ledger that that paper will contain a statement to-morrow implicating me as the author of the despatch of October 10, which appeared in the Ledger. I do not know in what form the statement will appear, but I understand that I will be blamed severely. I desire now to each the multiseverely. I desire now to ask the public not te judge the case until I shall have had an opportunity to explain the matter fully. I have probably been misled by false infor-mation; but my information on the subject was such as to cause me to believe, as I did believe, that I was fully justified in writing what I did. It may be proper to add that I sought an interview with the President on Saturday morning, and frankly explained to him the extent of my connection with the despatch in question, and the grounds which I had for writing what I did write, withholding nothing from him except the names of those from whom I derived the informa-

Letter from the President to the Public Ledger.

With reference to the despatch concerning the alleged questions of the President to the Attorney General, which was imposed on the correspondent of the Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, the following letter was issued westerday, by order of the President. yesterday, by order of the President:

yesterday, by order of the President: [Copy.]

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D.
C., Oct. 15, 1866.—Dear Sir:—The President has carefully examined the papers which you placed in his hands on the 14th instant, and is entirely satisfied that the responsibility connected with the despatch, to which they refer rests alone upon the which they refer, rests alone upon the Washington agent of your correspondent. The President is convinced that neither the proprietors, editors nor managers had any complicity whatever in the fabrication of the despach. Very respectfully, yours, (Signed) ROBERT JOHNSON,

To W. V. McKean, Esq., Washington, D. C., representing George W. Childs, Esq., of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

K. Hall that the arms shall not be used in violation of the neutrality laws. There were twenty boxes of arms seized here, valued at $2,500. This general order was procured at the intervention of Hon. was procured at the intervention of Hon. James M. Humphrey. of this city, the Cabinet taking the position that as the Government had abandoned the prosecution of the Fenian officers and soldiers, it could not consistently hold their private property. Several thousand dollars worth of arms, held at Erie, Oswego, Plattsburg, Malone, Troy, and other places, will be turned over on the same terms. It is said by the Fenians that the arms will be sold to Santa Anna. P. O. Day and T. B. Gallagher signed the bond. the bond.

From Fortress Monroe. FORTRESS MONROE, Oct. 14.—The Balti-more steamer Adelaide, while coming down the Bay last night, broke her shaft, and was compelled to return to Baltimore. Her freight and passengers were transferred to the steamer Thomas Kelso, which left Baltimore yesterday afternoon, and arrived at Norfolk early to-day.

The steamer George Leary, in consequence of the accident to the steamer Adelaide, leaves Norfolk to-day with the mails and passengers that should have gone north last night.

The steamer Saratoga arrived at Norfolk yesterday from New York, and while coming down the Elizabeth river, on her way to Richmond, ran on a snag, and damaged herself considerably. She had to return to Norfolk, where it will be necessary to haul her on the ways to repair the damage.

Herrible Fate of Some of the Passengers of the Evening Star.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 15.—A private letter from Mayport Mills, Florida, says, that Gouldsby, the second mate of the ill-fated steamer the second mate of the in-meet seamer. Evening Star, had arrived there, having left the steamer with a boat-load of lady passengers, all but two of whom were lost before getting near the shore. In landing, the latter were lost—one named Annie—, from Rhode Island, and the other Rosa Howard, of New York.

Both became insane from want and starvation. Their bodies were washed ashore, that of the latter being nearly devoured by sharks. The mate is barely alive.

The brig [Martha, in crossing St. John's bar, was struck twice and badly injured.

Five schooners and two brigs are waiting in the river to go to sea.

Corner-Stone Laying. The corner-stone of the Bethany Presbyterian Church, to be erected at Twenty second and Shippen streets, was laid yester day afternoon with appropriate ceremonies.
The officiating clergymen were Rev. Mr.
Lowry, pastor of the church, Rev. Drs.
Boardman and Reed, Rev. John Chambers and others.
Mr. John Wannamaker read a historical sketch of the church, from which it appeared that it had a very small beginning in 1858, when the Bethany Mission School was formed, and steps were taken for the erection of a mission house, which was dedicated to religious service on the 27th of January 1859. The movement was attended with abundant success; so much so that in 1862 the need of a more suitable building began to be felt, but it was not until 1865 that the Bethany Church was formally organized. It now has about a hundred members and a regiment of Sunday scholars, as Mr. Wannamaker expressed it—about seven hundred and fifty, with forty officers and teachers. On the 30th of August last the ground was broken for the church, and the work, it was said, would go on until it was completed.

The Rev. Dr. Boardman, upon being introduced to the audience, said he should not make a formal address, but should say a few words of the building about to be erected. He had no doubt that if the occasion of the meeting he had been the considered. sion of the meeting had been the opening of a public square, like Washington or Rittenhouse Square, there would have been an immense gathering; yet such an event was not to be compared to that which had called them together. Of all the countless plans of the day for doing good, none was to be compared to the establishment of an evangelical church. It we like setting a new star in church. It was like setting a new star in the heavens. All temporary blessings should flow out of such an organization, and all who can come within the sphere of its usefulness should bid the work of God

Rev. John Chambers hoped the movement would be an entire success, and that when the edifice is erected, nothing but the simple Gospel of God will be preached in it. He had no hope of the world but in the Gospel. It had been tried to reform men by the temperature movement but it had failed. perance movement, but it had failed; a thousand other ways had been attempted but nothing save the blessed Gospel would accomplish the salvation of mankind. After a few remarks by the Rev. Dr. Reed the corner-stone was laid, followed by the benediction. The church is to be 44 by 88 feet, and the school-house, adjoining, is to be 82 by 105 feet, both of the Gothic order of architecture. They are to be erected of Belville brown brown stone, and will be beautiful edifices.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.-A Convention of the Baptist Sabbath Schools of vention of the Raptist Sadoath Schools of this city was held last evening in the Tab-ernacle Baptist Church, Chestnut street, above Eighteenth, for the purpose of discus-sing and adopting a plan of organization through which the general interests and efficiency of the schools may be increased. The schools coming under the influence o this Convention are thirty-three in number inclusive of some of the mission schools The Convention was organized by calling Rev. Dr. Griffith to the chair. Mr. John M Evans proposed a plan to carry out the objects of the organization, by creating a fund. It was suggested that five dollars per annum more should be contributed by each school but no school should be excluded in conse quence of its inability to pay this amount The plan was adopted, and addresses bear ing on the subject were made by the Rev J. W. Smith, Rev. P.S. Henson, and others

A push-cart, having in it a feather-bed covered with decorations of ribbons, &c.; a man lay inside smoking a light with his fact arms are bride of the part cigar, with his feet over each side of the cart in the easiest manner imaginable. CUSTOMS OF ORIENTAL SHOPKEEPERS. The Armenians, who divide with the Greeks and Jews the entire mercantile traffic of Western Asia, are accustomed to sit down and weep bitterly when they have sold any article of value, declaring that the purchaser has ruined them. The Jews, on similar occasions, rend their garments (which, by the way, are said to be worn purposely for such sacrifice,) with still louder protestations of ruin.

The Greek shopkeepers, in most of the Turkish towns, send a crier through the city to proclaim the arrival of new goods and their prices, every announcement being regularly concluded with a declaration that his employer is ruining himself, but must sell.

In Asiatic Russia, the shopkeepers considered it incumbent on them to absolutely refuse selling their goods to any customer, and the latter is expected to employ himself, at least an hour in persuading the merchant to deal with him.

But the most extraordinary custom is that which prevails among the merchants of Thibet, a regular stand up fight being re-quired to take place between the seller and purchaser, on the disposal of any considerable quantity of goods, the former obstinately rejecting the price to which he has already agreed, and the latter as resolutely forcing it upon him. It is not business-like to settle matters till a few blows have been exchanged on both sides, after which they peaceably shake hands, and the bargain is concluded.
