VENING BULLETIN.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1866.

NEW OBLEANS AND BALTIMORE. The special correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, a scarcely disguised secession journal-and consequently in the confidence of the Washington administration-says that the proclamation of Governor Swann is approved by the President. He adds: "And should it be necessary for him (Governor Swann) to call for aid in maintaining peace and order, and enforcing the legal authority, it will be promptly furnished."

By way of a salve for this threat of Presidential interference in a State election, the Sun correspondent says in this connection:

"In the case of the threatened resistance in Louisiana, by the "Boys in Gray," to the authority of the Governor of that State, in the removal of the sheriffs, the same course will be pursued, but it is hoped that in both cases the necessity may not arise."

It is a pity that Mr. Johnson had not been a little more cautious of trenching upon the authority of the Governor of Louisiana prior to the 30th of July. Governor Wells had authorized the holding of a State Convention on that day, and the secession city authorities of New Orleans determined upon breaking it up. Andrew Johnson treated the such oncer in existence, and opening a telegraphic correspondence with the rebel Mayor and District Attorney of New Orleans, he encouraged them by the sanction of his authority, and by the promise of military aid, to enact the bloody tragedy that will forever disgrace the annals of the Crescent city. Judging from the conduct of the civil officials at that time, and from the fact that not a single participant in the massacre has been brought to justice, it would seem that it is high time for Governor Wells to remove some of these rebel subordinates. There is no fear that Mr. Wells will take any step inimical to the cause of the Union; while the act contemplated by Governor Swann looks to the giving up of Maryland into the hands of rebels and traitors. There is no parallel whatever between the course of Governor Wells and that of Governor Swann, and until President Johnson converts the Monumental city into a modern St. Bartholomew by his official course, the parallel between New Orleans and Baltimore will not be complete.

A YANKEE CIFY. The fearful fire which destroyed a great part of the city of Portland, on the 4th of July, might have been expected to paralyse it for many months; and certainly it was supposed that years would elapse before the damage could all be repaired. But the papers announce that already between six and seven hundred buildings have been put up, including a number of elegant brick and granite stores. All this in the short space of about ninety working days. At this rate, Portland will be rebuilt in the course of a year. The public buildings will require longer time; but the population and the business of the city will. be substantially housed by the time the first anniversary of the fire arrives.

The prompt and liberal contributions of the people of other cities, amounting to about half a million of dollars, relieved the temporary distressand destitution of the people of Portland, supplying them with clothing, food and shelter. But it is their own indomitable energy that is clearing away the ruins and rebuilding the city. Yankee pluck and self-reliance are indomitable, in times of calamity of all kinds, whether it be commercial, physical or political. Portland, as she rises from her ruins, fitly typifies the Yankee spirit, which is detested by Southern traitors and Pennsylvania Copperheads, but which, after all, does more for the permanent growth and prosperity of the nation than all the dogmas and theories of the pro-slavery "conservatives" could effect in centuries. The same Yankee spirit is invading some of the ruined towns of the South. Atlanta, in Georgia, is being rebuilt. chiefly by Yankee capital and energy, and so are some less important
