Union Mass Meeting at Wilmington, De-

A despath from Wilmington says;
The Republican party of Wilmington held several public meetings in different sections of this city to-night, all of which were largely attended. The principal meeting was held at the Town Hall, on Market street, at which place place hundreds of the loyal and Union-loving people of that place assembled, long before the time for commencing the proceedings.

mencing the proceedings.

The meeting held at Mount Vernon Hotel, on King street, was addressed by J. L. Kilgore and Colonel A. L. Wall, or West

The third was held at Seventh and Church streets, and was numerously attended. The meeting at the Town Hall was addressed by Rev. Dr. Hall, of your city.

Among other thoughts thrown out by the speaker were the following:

He was pleased to be present and address the Union men of Wilmington. He felt a great anxiety for the success of the Republican party throughout the land. He felt interested es a review of the Republican party throughout the land. interested as a man, as an old Democrat and as a Christian minister.

On the success of the Republican party depends the honor, the peace, and prosperity of our great nation. He brought to the people of Wilmington the salutation of of our great nation. He brought to the people of Wilmington the salutation of Pennsylvania from the farmers, mechanics, and clergymen of the Keystone State.

As Pennsylvania triumphed so may Delaware. He had fought the traitors and their sympathizer all through the war, and believed in the Bible view of treating traitors and their sympathizers by the death penalty, confiscation, banishment and imprisonment. He thanked God that the war of bullets was over. It had been long, fierce and terrible.

Mr. Hall was followed by Hon. John Covode. Mr. Covode commenced by say-

Mr. Hall was followed by Hon. John Covode. Mr. Covode commenced by saying that it was the first time he had had the honor of addressing the people of Delaware. He discussed the present issues with which the Republican party had to grapple.

The speaker gave a description of the life and character of President Johnson, in which he alluded to some of his assertions in reference to his intended execution of traitors and rebels. The President had proved recreant to his words, and instead of hanging traitors had taken them by the hand, and would cleak new received. hand, and would gladly now receive them to his embrace. The speaker reviewed the course of the President in reference to his treatment of these persons.

The policy of Andrew Johnson, he prophesied would be a failure; and he believed the intelligence of the people of this Government would not admit of their voting for men representing his party, and in favor of this policy. He then alluded to the mas-sacre at New Orleans, and pronounced it as sacre at New Orleans, and pronounced it as a high-handed piece of usurpation. The course of the Democratic party in the North was ably reviewed, and their sym-pathy with the rebels of the South during the war clearly shown.

Jefferson Davis to-day, said he, is in sym pathy with the Democratic party, and the care of the party over him at the present time and during the time of his confinement had been most astonishing.

He, the speaker, charged Jefferson Davis with being implicated in the murder of President Lincoln, and strongly intimeted.

President Lincoln, and strongly intimated that Andrew Johnson had a hand in this vile act. The remarks of Mr. Covode were extended at great length, during which the most hearty applause was given by all present.

He concluded by reviewing the Constitutional Amendments, and contended that it would be for the best interests of the South if they would indorse them. Crime, said he, such as has been shown to have existed among the Southern people and rebel sym-pathizers at the North, should be punished

Other speakers were then introduced, and continued to address the meeting until a late hour, when the large assemblage diseers for the Union candidates and Congress.

Mexican Advices.

The Mexican legation received yesterday official despatches dated Chihuahua let instant, containing the following information: President Juarez issued a decree on the 28th, repealing the decree dated Monterey, August 11th, 1864, in which certain inducements were offered to foreigners who would emigrate to Mexico to join the Mexican army. The Late Miss Famile Seward. [From the N. Y. Times] Since the death of his wife, Mr. Seward's affections have clung most closely and fondly to his daughter, whose character, resembling her mother's, was well calculated to win love and tender regard from all who knew her. She was eminently quiet and unobtrusive in her manner, shrinking alunobtrusive in her manner, shrinking al-ways from public notice, seeking happiness in the pursuits, duties and enjoyments of domestic life, and ministering with constant and solicitous assiduity to the wants and welfare of those around her. Yet she had a strength of character far beyond what any casual observer would detect, and was equal to any emergency, no matter how trying and terrible it might be. The fearless courage with which she threw herself between her father's breast and the uplifted knife of the assassin Payne, and the tenacity with which she clung to his arm, and sought to divert his deadly aim, attest this trait in her char-acter. Payne afterward saidthat if he could have made up his mind to strike her out of his way he could have accomplished his his way he could have accomplished his purpose upon the Secretary, but that her face, between his weapon and her father, disarmed him; he had not the heart to take her life also. Mr. Seward's attachment to her was always, most her was always most warm and devoted.
