"Rejected Addresses."... The Mistakes of Publishers.

of literature might be written concern-

the trade, but which, when at length given to the press, brought fame to the authors and profit to the publishers. A list of such books would mention some in almost every department of literature

-history, poetry, romance, theology, jurisprudence, and whatever else. Strange as it may seem, there might be placed at the head of the list a book so universally popular as "Robinson Crusoe." Though De Foe was in good repute as an author, the manuscript of that book was rejected by the whole trade of London, till at length it came to the hands of a publisher who was more noted for his speculative propensities than for his good judgment. He printed it, and cleared one hundred thousand guineas

by his venture; and publishers are to this day making money continually by new editions of it in all styles. "Jane Eyre" was rejected by nearly every respectable publishing house in London and was finally rescued by accident twenty different houses, and at last, in a fit of desperation, he gave the copyright to an obscure bookseller, and paid the expenses of publication out of his own

He comes! the Winter comes! I hear his footsteps through the nights) I hear his vanguard on the heights

March thro' the pines with muffied drum! His naked feet are on the mead;

The grass blades stiffen in his path. No tear for child of earth he hath! No pity for the tender seed!

The bare oaks shudder at his breath! A moment by the stream he stays-Its melody is mute! A glaze Greeps o'er its dimples, as of death!

Frem fettered stream and blackened moor The city walls he silent nears; The mansions of the rich he fears! He storms the cabins of the poor!

The curtained couch, the glowing hearth, The frost rimmed graybeard's power defy! He curses as he burries by And strikes the beggar, dead, to earth!

For every gleaming hall he spares, A hundred heartless hovels hold Hearts pulseless, crisp with ice and cold, Watched by a hundred grim despairs!

Here is is your mission! Ye who feed Your lavish fires! Not afar, But at your doors your heathen are! God's Poor—your creditors! Take heed!

The path is long to Pagan shores! Their skies are sunny-God o'er all!

The Winter's deadly harvests fall Around you! Deal your Master's stores!

Thomas Carlyle. The following from the London Daily News is a just criticism on one who, having justified the cruelties of Cromwell in Ireland, and the enslaving of Africans, now defends Gov. Eyre for his bloody work in Jamaica:

The literary biography of Thomas Carlyle, when the time has passed alike  $\pounds 20$ , but when it was published more than  $\pounds 5,000$  were realized from the sales. for eulogy and for detraction, will form jected by Murray, though the pricessked for it was only £20. A publisher was afterwards found for it, and after sixteen one of the most curious of psychological studies. It will have not less moral than intellectual instruction. No literary caeditions had been published, the same Murray gave £131 for the right to issue reer illustrates more impressively than his the degree in which genius depends a new edition. The total amount reupon character, and social influence upon both. Deterioration of moral sentiment and corruption of style have kept pace with each other in his late writings; and the andience which listened to his lightest words as to the inspired utterance of a prophet, now awaits his gravest with the expectant grin which rewards in anticanterized by the critics. cipation the antics of a buffoon. That Buchan offered the copyright of his "Domestic Medicine" to every principal bookseller in Edinburgh and London such literary old age as his should crown his literary youth and manhood is among the saddest things in the misfortunes of men of letters-sadder far than After it had passed through twenty-five the fate of Chatterton or of Savage. The editions the copyright was sold for £1,600. Drew's "Immortality and Imgenerous enthusiasm, the poetic insight, the pure, if austere, morals, the blended materiality of the Human Soul," a mashope and sadness of an earnest temperaterpiece of profound thought, acute reament which glowed in his earlier pages, soning, and logical accuracy, was offered to a publisher for  $\pm 10$ . He thought the live in his later writings only a half extinguished fire under the smouldering ashes. Mr. Carlyle is a remarkable inlished by subscription. A second edi-tion being called for, the author adstance of the manner in which the life of the closet may unfit a man for judging vanced the price of the copyright to £20, of the affairs of the world around him and found a purchaser at that price. It Of inactive habits and brooding temperaments, his admiration is given by a sort aments, his admiration is given by a sort of self-revolt, entirely to men of keen worldly perception and prompt action. Energy, however inspired and directed, is the ob-ject of his sedentary idolatry, and that energy is most visible to him when its author outlived the copyright, he gave path lies over countless victims. His historic imagination requires vivid pictures, and the slow and tedious proce ing it, wrote a letter to the author discouraging the publication. It was not till Dr. Johnson had warmly commendby which great results are achieved in ed the work, both in conversation and aws and constitution

A LEAF FROM LIFE.

I lent my love a book one day She brought it back; I laid it by, Twas little either had to say-She was so strange and I so shy. But we loved indifferent things-

The spronting buds, the birds in tune; And Time stood still and wreathed bis wings With rosy links from June to June,

For her what task to dare or do? What peril tempi? What hardship bear? But with her-ab! she never knew My heart and what was hidden there!

And she with me so cold and coy, Seemed like a maid bereft of sense : But in the crowd all life and joy-And full of blushful impudence.

She married !--well-a woman needs A mate, her life and love to share— And little cares sprang up like weeds, And played around her elbow chair.

And years rolled by-but I, content, Trimmed my own lamp, and kept it bright, Till age's touch my hair besprent from a publisher's iron safe, where 'it had. lain till it was moldy, by a daughter of the bookseller, who had himself' forgotten it. Kinglake's "Eothen" was offered by its author to With rays and gleams of silver light.

And then, it chanced. I took the book Which she perused in days gone by ; And as I read such passion shook My soul-1 needs must curse or cry.

For here and there her love was writ. In old, ha'f-faded pencil-signs, As if she yielded—bit by bit— Her hearl in dots and underlines.

Ah ! silvered fool !-- too late you look ! I know it: let me here record This maxim : Lend no girl a book, Unless you read it afterward !

The Supreme Court—An Important Law-sult—Several Million Doltars Involved. PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.- A highly important suit is now before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, involving several millions of dollars before Chief Justice Woodward, Judges Strong, Reed, Thompson and Agnew, sitting on appeal of H. Funks, assigns, vs. Haldeman and others. The case has been fully argued, and excited

The counsel for the appellants were Walter H. Lowrie, ex-Chief Justice Thomas M. Marshall, F. Carroll Brewster, of Philadelphia, and R. Biddle Roberts. The counsel for the appellees are F. F. Backus and Heydrick

The decision of the writ will be looked for with great interest, as the amount in-volved is immense. This case interests, vitally, all stockholders in the Dalzell, Mc-Elhenny, Consolidated Petroleum Com-pany, of New York, Webster, Peoples' Fountain, Oceanic, Northern Light, and twenty other companies.

QUEBEC, November 9th.-It is understood that Her Majesty's steamer Niger will proceed to Halifax, and her place here will be supplied by two gunboats manned by drafts from Her Majerty's steamer Aurora. The New Brunswick Government has given $6,000 to the Quebec sufferers, and Nova Scotia has given $5,000. The Mayor has received another cable telegram, authorizing a draft of $3,500 on account of the Relief fund. Contributions from England already reach $35,000; those from the United States over $10,000.

little to his tastes. The true hero, in his view, is one whose steady and ruthless purpose allows no obstacle to turn it aside; and, as strength of purpose is shown by the natural force of the restraints which it breaks, a disregard of ordinary humanity immensely stimulates Mr. Carlyle's reverence. Personally one of the kindest of men, Mr. Carlyle has cultivated an intellectual taste for bloodshed-a literary lust of carnage. He has become, by sedulous self-indul gence, voluptuous in cruelty. Like old Lear in his madness, he threatens to quit the stage, muttering "Kill-kill-Fill."

A Curious Story from Russia.

A characteristic incident occurred during the fetes lately given at St. Pe tersburg in celebration of the approaching marriage of the Czarowitch with the Princess Dagmar. The Emperor, having determined to give a grand theatrica representation in honor of the Princess ordered the principal theatre to be closed to the public on this occasion, and invitations were sent to the elite of the so ciety of the capital. The theatre was magnificently decorated with ornaments from the winter palace, and flowers from the imperial conservatories, and the Emperor's footmen went about in livery, bearing trays with ices and cakes for the guests. The direction of the arrangements was entrusted to Count Adlerberg, who in his over-zealousness made two terrible blunders. The first was his causing a card to be printed and distributed among the guests, in which they were reminded that the court etiquette forbids any applause on the entrance of the Emperor or during the performance. The second was the selection as the first piece of the first act of the "Africaine." in which Inez is forced to marry a mar she does not love.

As the theatre was full of people who knew the court etiquette as well as Count Adlerberg, the notice on the cards was interpreted as a delicate hint that the Emperor desired absolute silence to be maintained while he was present. This was far from being either the wish or the expectation of his Majesty, who, it is said, was so convinced that when the Princess came in she would have an enthusiastic reception, that he warned her beforehand not to be too much alarmed on hearing the cheers with which she would be sure to be greeted. It is easy to imagine the disappointment, and surprise of both the Emperor and the Princess when, after leaving the streets where they had been accompanied by a shouting and enthusiastic crowd, they entered their box, and made their bow to the audience in the midst of a chilling silence. Then came the inopportune performance of the first act of the "Africaine," which was followed by the national hymn, usually greeted with loud hurrahs, but which on this occasion did not elicit the smallest mark of sympathy from the audience. After the performance the Emperorseverely reprimanded Count Adlerberg for his want of savoire. faire, and it is even said that he will be removed from office. Contactor 1 : 1. 2. 1. 1. 2 and 2

CHOLERA.—A Nashville paper says-"Strange as it may seem, the cholera still lirgers in some widely separated localities of the State. There are still a few cases in Memphis, and in Lebanon county, within the last few days, there have have a number. the last few days, there have been a number of deaths from the disease."

note to Mr. Strahan that he ventured to give £100 for it. Such was the unpropitious reception of one of the most succersful theological works that were ever published. The sale was so rapid and xtensive that the publisher made Dr. Blair a present of another £100, paid him £300 for the second volume, and $600 for each of the others. Several similar cases have occurred in the history of American literature. Lowell Mason's first book of music, the Handel and Haydn collections, was rejected by the large publishing houses of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, but when published it ran rapidly through forty editions. Sunnyside was at different times anxiously urged upon five different publishers, all of whom rejected it. An edition of five hundred copies was at last issued at the expense of the author's friends. In less-than two years the fortieth thousand was printed, and it was estimated that the book had been read by more than 3,000,-000 persons. Prescott's Ferdinand and Isabella met with a decided rebuff from the English publishers. Murray, to whom it was first offered, decidedly rejected it; and Longman, after a more thorough evamination than Murray had given, came to the same conclusion. It was finally published by Richard Bently, and had such success that he declared it the best book he had ever brought out.

It was stated in a literary periodical some years ago that a New York publisher fought the author of a certain novel from spring to fall, and then surrendered from sheer inability to resist importunity any longer. After the book was stereotyed he offered every in-ducement to another publisher to take it off his hands, but without success. In despair he finally published it, and the sales went up to 20,000 copies. If rumors current at the time of its publication were true, Uncle Tom's Cabin had a narrow escape from rejection. When the critic of Jewett & Co., read the chapters of the story as they appeared in the National Era, he decided that a republication of them in book form would not be warranted as a business enterprise. His wife, however, insisted #### so strenously that he recommended it to his principals, and when published it did sell to an extent altogether unparalleled in the history of books.

that the book would sell, and insisted

EXPLOSION OF A LAMP-DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY.-On Tuesday night, at Pittsburgh, a distressing accident occurred at the boarding house of Mrs. Martha Davis, a widow lady, on the corner of First and Ferry streets, which resulted in the death of her daughter Jennie, aged seventeen years. Mrs. Davis and her daughter were in the kitchen and were about to retire for the night when Jennie went, into the dining room in front of the kitchen, for the pur pose of putting out the lamp, as she usually did at night. The lamp was a large one and fixed on a bracket against the wall, and so high up that she had to get upon a chair to put it out. Jennie had gone but a few minutes from the kitchen when her mother heard a loud explosion, similar, she says, to a gun. Mrs. Davis ran into the dining room and found her daughter's clothes in a blaze. In her efforts to extinguisb the flames, Mrs. D. had her hands badly burned, and finding her efforts were futile, she called aloud to the boarders above Their attempts to save her were in vain and she scon died.

THE BURIAL OF A DISTINGUISHED COLORED MAN.-Ranson Harris, a minister COLORED MAN.—Kanson Harris, a minister of the Christian Church, died on Friday last, and was buried on Monday. His funeral was attended by one of the largest assem-blages of colored people ever called together blages of colored people ever called together-upon such an occasion in Nashville. This was a striking evidence of his popularity with his people. He was a very intelligent man, and although comparatively young, was looked up to as a father, and we have reason to know that he counseled his people wisely. The influence which he possessed over the black people of Nashville was ex-erted for their elevation as a class, and the fullest manner,-Nashville Dispatch,

THE sensation on Canal street yesterday was a very black damsel, with rather a graceful figure for a negress, dressed in the very height of the fashion, in a close fitting alpaca dress, headed and trimmed accord-ing to the latest Paris plates—a bonnet of black lace with feathers to match, an ebony child folling to the main and hermide chain falling to the waist, and lavender colored kid gloves. As she moved along up and down the crowded the most approved ing her parasol after the most approved method, she created quite a stir among the idlers at the street corners, and the promenaders generally .- N.
