RELIGIOUS-SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVER-BARY.—The Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Fourth and Pine streets, of which the late Rev. Thomas Brainerd was pastor for many years, was densely crowded yes-terday afternoon, even to the extent of the vestibule, on the occasion of the annual anniversary of the Sunday Schools attached to or under the fostering care of the congrega-tion. The interior of the church is yet draped in the emblems of mourning, in respect to the memory of the late lamented and beloved pastor. The front of the gal-leries is festooned in black, and the altar or pulpit is also tastefully clothed in habili-ments signifying death. On the front of the pulpit are these words, in letters of silver, "Blessed are the dead who die in

Upon the occasion of yesterday, the celebration was rather of a triune character. there being three Sunday-schools present, namely, Old Pine street Sabbath school, Robert Raikes mission school, and Brainerd mission school. These organization had white silk banners, appropriately inscribed, to distinguish them from each other.

The ceremonies were deeply impressive and interesting. One year since the Rev. Mr. Brainerd, under whose ministerial mr. Dramero, under whose ministerial tuition many of the members had grown up from childhood's fleeting hours, officiated upon the anniversary at that time. Now his place is vacent, his line and the state of the s his place is vacant; his lips are dumb in the chill embrace of death. The events of the short past had visible effect upon many who were crowded together yesterday,

The proceedings were commenced by the reading of some verses of Scripture, after which an address to the Throne of Love and Grace was delivered by the Rev. Wm A hymn, entitled "There's joy in Jesu's love," was now sung, in which the children and congregation joined in full chorus. The report of the school was then read, from which it appears the organization is in a flourishing condition. The number of scholars has augmented since the last an nual meeting.

After singing another hymn, "The Augels in the Air," an appropriate address was pro nounced by the Rev. John K. F. Stites, the missionary of the American Sunday Schoo He enunciated very distinctly and in such plain language as to suit the young minds of the youth before him. He was followed by the Rey, Alfred Cookman, whose eloquent remarks elicited the most profound

The quiet solemnity that pervaded the audience, most of which was composed of Sunday School children, speaks well for the discipline under which they have been so well

INTERESTING OCCASION AMONG SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN.—The Spring Garden M. E. Church, Rev. Alfred Cookman pastor was the scene of a grand jubilee yesterday afternoon. It was determined by the mana-gers of the centenary fund some weeks since that every child who contributed certain amount to that fund should receive a medal. Some of the members of the church however, concluded that all of the children should be made happy, and accordingly a medal was prepared for each child whose name is enrolled on the books of the Sab-

Yesterday being the monthly meeting of the missionary society, it was thought to be an appropriate occasion to make the distribution. Long before the hour fixed for the ceremonies, four hundred bright, beautiful well-dressed children filled up the body of the church, all anxious to be the recip ient of one of the medals.

Rev. Dr. Carrol and Rev. James Neal addressed the children briefly, referring to the good accomplished by missions, and the ne-cessity for keeping them up to a high stand-ard in the church.

The reports showed that during the past The amount received for the centenary fund since the anniversary has reached the handsome sum of $900, which will be appro-priated to the endowment of Dickinson College.

The medals distributed are of two sizes, the greatest being as large as a double eagle, and the other the size of an eagle, if any one can recollect the gold coin of these denominations. The former has a bust of John Wesley, surmonnted with the inscription:

"The World is my Parish." Beneath is the inscription: "Founder of Methodism." On the reverse is the following historical inscription:

"Origin of American Methodism, 1776,"
"First American Conference held in St.
George's Church, Philadelphia,
July 4th, 1773,"
"Methodist Episcopal Church, organized in Baltimore, Md., Dec. 25th, 1784,"
"Members in 1866, 2,000,000."
The small medal has a representation of her, while she has her finger pointing up-wards, as though in the act of explaining some passage of Scripture.

Beneath is the inscription: "Feed My On the reverse is a representation of Dickinsor College building, surrounded with the inscription: "Sunday School Centenary Offering."

Science, 1866,"

Each of the medals was wrapped up in cotton, and encased in a handsome box.

After the ceremonies, the children went home with their presents tightly grasped in their tiny hands. The idea is a pretty one, and their memories will be deadly observed. and their memories will be dearly cherished and handed down to posterity in many in-stances as reminiscences of the Sabbathschool of Spring Garden M. E. Church.

THE CHURCHMEN'S MISSIONARY ASSO-CIATION.-The nineteenth anniversary of the Churchmen's Missionary Association for Seamen of the Port of Philadelphia was held last evening in the church of the Epiphany, northwest corner of Fifteenth and Chestnut streets. The large structure was well filled with an audience who appeared to take a lively interest in the welfare of the association. The mission was founded in A. D. 1847. During that year a floating chapel was built for the benefit of seamen and their families. It will be remembered by a large number of the readers of The Press that the chapel was represed in the Delegare of Space. anchored in the Delaware at Spruce street wharf, from which it was removed several years ago. Shortly after its removal another building, known as the Seamen's Chapel, was erected at the corner of Catharine and Swanson streets, in which religious services have since been held. The exercises at the anniversary last evening were opened with prayer, and the singing of appropriate hymns by the choir. After which the report of the board of managers and the missionary the Rev. Washington B. Erben, was read The report, which will be found of interest, Having given every month to the board, a detailed report of the progress of the work, report, begs leave to present only a brief summary of the general results obtained during the past year. While the missionary regrets that he has not been able to do very much more still be a credical better. much more, still he is gratified by the thought that his labors to promote the gospet thought that his labors to promote the gospetamong this special class have not been altogether in vain. The work has been done quietly and without much outside show, but it has been done steadily and as systematically as possible. The Free Church of the Redeemer has been open for divine service twice every Sunday, and occasional service and course of lectures have been held during the week. during the week.

By personal invitation of seamen's boardouses and other places where seamen resort, and by a liberal distribution of printed notices we have endeavored to atract as many sailors to our services as pos-

Between 200 and 300 strange seamen have worshiped in our church. To all strange seamen an invitation is given from the chancel to remain after service, when the missionary will be glad to see them and give them a few good books. From the nature of his calling, the sailor is not able to attend church, and is deprived of ordinary religious advantages as well as separation from restraint of social and domestic influences. We have, by a liberal distribution of Bibles, prayer books, and other good books, taken the most effectual and only possible way in religion to encourage, to piety the men on their voyage, by sending with them the printed teacher. The books are gratefully received, and the missionary is frequently applied to by friends of absen or departing seamen, for religious books. Cases are constantly occurring which show that good is being done through this instrumentality. Two young sailors on a foreign ship having received prayer books, and returning to the port after two years, came and requested Bibles. Very often one having received a book will return to the next service with more of the crew and desire Bibles or prayer books. So far as our means will allow we give to each man a few books with the request that after he has read them himself he will give them to his shipmates, and thus we endeavor to turn them out missionaries of the Church and Christ. Another department of our work is that of parochial missionary labor amongst seamen's families. This does not differ from parochial missionary work ex-cept of our labors. This part of our work is increasing. Some three hundred families are now visited by the missionary who is in most cases the only clergyman of any kind who is generally known to them

During the year there have been—baptisms, 52; burials, 67; marriages, 10; number of communicants, 50.

The missionary has found himself over burdened by a wide special field for mis sionary labor, by the regular services of the church, and by an amount of parochial mis sionary labor equal to that of many settled parishes. There is a pressing demand for additional laborers in this field. We have, however, done what we could. It is the mis sionary's opinion that the work would be greatly assisted by the erection of an additional building adjacent to the church, fo missionary, Sunday school and parish pur poses. Our Sunday school is at present held, under great disadvantages, in a wing of the church. But if means were given to erect the proposed building, with a large room for the Sunday school, smaller rooms for public classes, parish school, office for the missionary, and meetings of an informal character, we could accomplish a great deal more than with our present limited facilities. The general condition of the mission is encouraging. The attendance during the last year has been greater than that of the pre-ceding year. The report closes by saying that they are ready to go on to the fature trusting that the Lord of Mercy will give

After the report had been read, the Rev. Geo. Leeds, D. D., delivered an eloquent and impressive sermon. A collection was then taken up, and the audience dismissed with the benediction.
