INDIAN ATROCITIES.

Narrative of Bansomed Captives.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, November 15th. The VERWORTH, Rahsas, Rovember 128 The Times of this morning has a full ac-count of the ransom from the Kiowa Indi-ans of a white family, by Lieutentant Hes-selburger, ef the 3d United States Infantry, which is stationed at Fort Dodge. The prisoners all belonged to one family, and at the time they wege taken by the Indians were returning from a visit to some sick re-latives, and were but a few miles from home when surprised and captured. In the melee that ensued, the head of the family, James Box, was killed and scalped.

The remaining members of the family were immediately placed on animals and hurried to the haunts of the savages. The names of the captured were Mrs. Box, a child 11 months old, and her three daughters-Margaret, aged 17 years; Josephine, 16 years old; and Ada, seven years old. In the hunt of this relentless foe the child fell from the or mis recentess roe the child ten from the arm of its mother, while the Indians were goading the worn-out animals that carried her. It was crushed to death among the rocks, the mother not being allowed to dismount and sce it.

The mother and the two eldest daughters were subjected to the most unheard of cru-elty and outrages by their brutal captors, while the youngest, owing to her youth, al-though spared a fate less horrible, was nev-ertheless most barbarously used. The child, unable to understand the commands of her fiendish taskmasters, was placed upon live coals till she was totally roasted.

When rescued she had almost forgotten her mother tongue. Lieut, Hesselburger and his party, after the treaty with the in-dians, returned to the post, and procuring the necessary ransom again betook them-selves to the camp of the Kiowas. Arriving there the two eldest girls were delivered to him, he paying a sum of money to the Indians that owned them, so as to preventa repetition of indignities to which, during their stay, they had been continually subjected.

The day following Lieut, Hesselburger and his party, with the two eldest girls, started for Fort Dodge, where they arrived next day. The guide and friendly Indians next day. The guide and friendly indians took a direct route from the camp of the Kiowas, reaching the fort by a shorter and quicker route. A few days after the In-dians brought the mother and youngest daughter, and a ransom in the shape of nine blankets and provisions being given, they were delivered up to the commandant of the nost. of the post.

Altogether they were in captivity about ten weeks, and in that time suffered all the cruelties that the fiend-like malignity and heartlessness of their cowardly captors could invent. They are now at Fort Leavenworth, having left Fort Dodge in charge of Lieut, Hesselburger on the 5th inst. His instructions are to report to Gen. Hancock, now absent, who will make final disposition of the unfortunates. They will probably be sent to their home in Texas.

The Santa Fe New Mexican of the 3d inst. has the following:

We have to chronicle another horrible tragedy which occurred at Fort Selden on the 23d ult., resulting in the deaths of Lieuts. Warner and Hazlehurst. Warner was the aggressor, and shot Hazlehurst in the stom-ach. The latter, who was unarmed, then ran into the quarters of the commanding officer, but was followed by Warner, with a pistol cocked and bent upon accomplish-ing his bloody designs. Seeing no chance of escape, Hazlehurst clesed with Warner, and wrenching the pistol from him, shot him dead on the spot. Hazlehurst was mortally wounded, and expired in four hours afterward.

OITY BULLETIN.

CORONER'S INQUEST.-Coroner Daniels beld an inquest this morning on the body of Charles Hollman, the young man who was killed by the falling of the portion of the wall of the house in the rear of No. 229 the wall of the house in the real of the south Second street yesterday morning.

testimony showed that the building had been in a rickety condition for some time, and Peter Rittmayer, the owner, had been notified by several parties, but paid no attention to the matter. Yesterday, it is supposed, he was about to patch up the wall, and his ne was about to patch up the wait, and his nephew (Hollman) was to assist him. Some of the props had been removed, when the wall fell. The young man was completely buried up in the ruins. Rittmayer was partly covered by the falling bricks, but succeeded in extricating himself. His injuries are of such a character as to prevent him from attending the inquest this morn-

Ing. The verdictof the jury was, "That the said Charles Hollman came to his death by the falling of the rear part of the building No. 229 South Second street, November 15, 1866. The jury most severely censure the owner, Peter Rittmayer, for leaving the building in such an unsound condition after being notified."

STEALING A CHILD .--- Sarah Duncan was before Ald. Jones, last evening, charged with the larceny of a shawl and bonnet, and kidnapping a child. It seems that on Wednesday she was at the house of Mrs. Letts, on Front street, below Walnut, and was caught in an attempt to steal some ar-ticles. She was allowed to depart how. ticles. She was allowed to depart, how-ever, and as she went into the street, she picked up and carried off a little son of Mrs. Letts, aged about five years, who was playing on the sidewalk. A description of the woman and child was telegraphed to the different police stations. Yesterday Officer Levin, of the Sixth District, came across both at Sixteenth and Market streets. The accused was committed in default of $1,000 bail.

THE last concerts in Philadelphia of the Bateman Combination will take place on Friday evening next and Saturday after-roon. The sale of seats commences to-morrow. There will be a great rush for places, no doubt. Mr. Risley, at the Continental, has a few very choice seats, which can be obtained by applying early. He also has choice seats for the French opera, on Monday evening.

DIED OF HEB INJURIES .-- Mary Elizabeth Reineck, the little girl who was badly burned by her clothes taking fire from a bonfire, as stated yesterday, died from her injuries last evening. She was six years of e.g., and resided at Thirty-fifth and Market treets.

"Stars" in statesemanhip fall, "stars" in all professions, even in remprance, sometimes loss their gravity, and do what they should not; but seme things do not fall, and among them are Charles Stokes & Co.. in their prices for their cheap winter clothing, from the price that is marked on the goods, at their Ready-made Clothing Store, under the Continental.

Colliery, near Chester-le street, Newcastle, on Wednesday morning, in consequence of an explosion of gas. Of twenty-seven men working in the part of the ptt which was the scene of the occurrence, only three were rescued alive. This fatal catastrophe hap-pened about 5½ o'clock, in the south side of the Busty or Harvey Seam. The deputies, John Grey and Jonathan Maddison, and a John Grey and Johathan Maddison, and a young man named John Anderson, went down into the pit aboul 12 o'clock to examine the workings before the body of the men began work. Both Grey and Maddison were experi-enced men, and upon their shoulders rested the entirecharge in the absence of Mr. James Ritson, the under-viewer, Mr. Morrison, the viewer, not being at home at the time of the occurrence. At 2 o'clock the men prothe viewer, not being at nome at the time of the occurrence. At 2 o'clock the men pro-ceeded to their work, followed by the boys at 5, there being about forty of them in all in the different parts of the pit. Nearly thirty men and boys were engaged in the south side, the others being at work on the north. These two sides are entirely separate in their ventilation, and although they are both reached by the same shaft, are really distinct workings. Hence the effect of the explosion was confined to the Busty seam, in which it originated. About the time previously mentioned the banksman was alarmed by a report down the pit, followed by the issue of a pillar of coal dust and smoke from the mouth of the shaft. He thought the wood-work was coming down about him, and made the best speed he could to secure himself. However he was in no danger. It is said by some that the report was not loud, while others affirm that they heard it at a great distance from the place. At all events, the shock was enough to wake the sleepers in the adjoining colliery village and to spread great alarm. Mr. Ritson, na-derviewer, Wm. Bentle and Matthew Stoves were the first to arrive on the spot, and they at once went down into the pit to learn what had occurred. Their experience enwhat had occurrent. Their experience en-abled them to see that the accident must have been of an extensively fatal-nature, as the damage done to the pitwork was discovered to be very great. So much injury had been done to the apparatus for venlilation, doors being blown away, and one of the main "crossblown away, and one of the main "cross ings" a very strong piece of work, being de-stroyed, that it was found impossible to push their inquiries as to the nature of the calamity until the ventilation had been either wholly or partially restored. Mr. Ritson, therefore, proceeded to bank, and obtained relays of willing men to partially repair the injury done to the workings. The yentilation having been sufficiently re-stored, the work of recovering the men and boxs dead or living, was commenced. The boys, dead or living, was commenced. The first body found was brought to bank about an hour and a half after the explosion, and then near the shaft the searchers came to those who had had a most miraculous escape from immediate death, although their injuries were so great that ultimate re-covery was doubtful. After that one dead body was found after another in close sucbody was found after another in close suc-cession, the total number being twenty-four. Many of the bodies were found co-vered with large quantities of debris, and were so fearfully mangled that they could scarcely be identified by their fellow-work-men. Others, however, bore hardly any -bruises, it being apparent that their deaths had resulted from the after-damp. It is somewhat remarkable that none of the men engaged in the north side received any injury engaged in the north side received any injury worthy of notice. They felt the shock of the explosion, which occurred some seven hundred or eight hundred yards from where they ware employed and the seven they were employed, and they were rescued as speedily as possible from the scene of their narrow escape, and of the sudden calling to their final account of so many of their fellow beings. By noon all the bodies had been brought to bank, with the ex-
