and cotton, are now the favorite goods for libraries, dining-rooms and chambers. It is manufactured the same as the finer articles of dress goods, only much stronger, to resist the great wear on it. It is not very durable, particularly the English earth's surface, sometimes entire and at other times in a fragmentary condition. Samples of such meteors are to be found in goods, which are sent in immense quantities to this country. French goods wear much better, and are well worth the difference in prices, as the color stands better, and the fabric is much better wool. It is a all the large mineralogical collections in this country and Europe. The periodical display of shooting stars in unusual numbers indicates that they are not distributed uniformly throughout the notorious fact that the price of an article solar system, but are collected in vast num--even one that is to have hard service, influences purchasers more than quality does. This will do for temporary pur-poses, but it will cost more in the long run. I have the assurance of one of the largest importers of upholstery goods in New York that the Reps, Terry, Cotelaines, and, in fact, all curtain materials and furniture coverings, are made expressly for this market of such inferior quality that Europeans would not use them at any price. Formerly Reps, Terry and Brocatelles were made 63 in. wide, of good fair quality; the manufacturer.to reduce the price and to accommodate his American customers, by selling them cheap goods, reduced the width gradually to as low as fifty-two inches, making a reduction of nearly 20 per cent. in the width. The fabric was also reduced in quality 25 per cent. which should have made over 40 per cent. in the price of the goods. But this was not the case really, as the unwary purchaser and the manufacturer of cheap imitation of better goods were buyers at 25 per cent. off the price of good goods-leaving an extra 15 per cent. profit t ) the importer or the manufacturer if the goods were sold at his New York agency. I will here men-tion the fact that most of the men who are called importers in New York are merely the Clerks of Foreign manufacturers who have established stores in New York for the sale of their wares. The present warehousing system enables them to receive any quantity of goods, and leave them in bond in the Custom House until sold—when the duties are paid. This is a convenient outlet for surplus European manufactures, but it is a great injury to legitimate importers. An importer may go to Europe and make his purchases depending on a remunerative profit in the ordinary course of trade. He can also have the advantage of warehousing until the goods are sold—but if trade is dull in Europe and their sales to importers are not equal to their stock manufactured, the surplus is shipped to this country to their New York houses and put in bond. If trade is sluggish, this surplus stock is forced on the market at auction, or by traveling agents, and the American importer finds that the identical goods which he brought out are being offered at such prices that would make him a heavy loser. The result is that the legitimate importation of goods is confined to but few branches of business. Let any one look at the names on the cards or signs of New York (so called) importers and they will find scarcely any American names. This accounts for our immense importations. Whilst it gives our government an immense revenue for customs it is vitally injuring our prosperity by abstracting our gold or other means to pay for an immense quantity of importations that we could really dispense with, but which are consumed because they are nominally cheap. Onehalf of the quantity of material of good quality legitimately imported for actual consumption would be of more service to the country. If Ame-rican consumers would not purchase this inferior quality of goods, that is, cheap imitations of good articles, both foreign and domestic manufacturers would find it to their interest to establish a reputation of excellence in quality rather than nominal cheapness. bers in certain regions, while in other re-gions there are comparatively few. Shoot-ing stars are annually seen in great num-bers on the 10th of August; and since each meteor is moving in its orbit with great velecity, while every year we find large num-bers of them near the same point of the earth's orbit, we conclude that they are aranged in a ring or zone, intersecting the earth's orbit at a point which the earth passes on the 10th of Angust. In order to explain the recurrence of an unusual number of shooting stars, year after year, about the 13th of November, we suppose that there is another ring of these minute bodies, somewhat inclined to the ecliptic. Throughout the different portions of this ring the meteors are distributed in very unequal numbers; but there is one portion where the number is immensely great; and it is this portion which the earth encounters at intervals of about thirty-three years, According to Professor H. A. Newton, the reason that this display re-turns only once in thirty-three years is the following: Each meteor of the November group moves in an orbit which is nearly circular, with a mean distance from the sun either a little less or a little greater than that of the earth, and a period about eleven days less or greater than one year. The earth encountered the densest portion of this group in November, 1833; but the next year this the earth returned to that point of its orbit; the following year the difference amounted to twenty-two days; so that at the end of about thirty-three years it must gain or lose one entire revolution, and return nearly to the position where it must encounter the earth. If we receive no accounts of an un-usual display of meteors this week in any part of the world, we shall look with con-siderable confidence for such a display on E. L. November 14th, 1867.

vesterday. WASHINGTON, Nov. 15, 1866.—Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 27th ultimo, relating to the sentence of death passed on J. Lynch and McMahon in Canada, and stating the views entertained by the Government of the linited States on the version consider the United States on the various considerations of law, policy and humanity which might be expected to arise in the course of the trials of the individuals concerned in the raid committed in Canada last spring. Immediately on the receipt of that note, I transmitted a copy to Her Majesty's Govern-ment, and await their instructions before entering at length upon the several and entering at length upon the several and weighty subjects contained in it. The course pursued by the Canadian Government in bringing these cases before the re-gular tribunals of justice, thus secur-ing to the prisoners the full protec-tion the law affords to the accused, and the readiness shown by them to example the full readiness shown by them to communicate all such documents to the Consul of the United States as may throw light on the justice of the sentences and the regularity of the proceedings, will, I trust, satisfy the Government of the United States that, while vindicating the majesty of the law, the au-thorities do not conduct the prosecutions in any vindictive or harsh spirit.

I am now authorized to state that the whole question of the disposal of such of the prisoners as may be convicted has been re-ferred for decision to her Majesty's Govern-ment, who will certainly be animated by the desire to deal with it so as to secure peace and harmony between populations living in such immediate provintity and living in such immediate proximity and separated by a long frontier so easily tra-I have the honor to be, with the highest

A large number of mechanics and labor-ers are leaving for the United States since the fire.

SARNIA, C. W., Nov. 16 .- The Grand Trunk Railroad Company's freight sheds at Prince Edward's, including elghteen cars loaded with arms belonging to two compa-nies of volunteers, were totally destroyed by fire to-day. The fire is believed to be the work of an incendiary.

THE EYEBROWS.—The eyebrow is one of the most expressive features in the human face. We must all of us have observed how prodigiously its lines vary; how in one case the evebrow will slant upwards from the root of the nose towards the temple—as in the popular idea of Mephistopheles-or the reverse way, the eyebrows elevated where they approach most nearly towards each other, and drooping as they near the temples. This slant will very commonly be ex-hibited in devotional pictures of saints and others engaged in supplication. Sometimes, again, these features will adhere to a line which is very nearly or quite straight; and sometimes-very commonly, by the way-there will be an angle at or near the middle of the eyes brow, an obtuse angle with the point upwards. Lastly, this feature will oc-casionally describe the segment of a circle,-presenting that arched form which is so much and so generally admired. All these forms, and endless variations of each of them, are taken by the eye-brow, and not one of them without a great influence on the expression of the eye—an influence, too, increased im-mensely by those lines and wrinkles by which the eyebrow is surrounded, or into which parts of it are merged, as in the case of that powerfully marked upright line so often to be observed at the junction of the eyebrow with the nose.
