Park to-day was a failure in every respect. It was the first attempt to perform such a feat ever made by any horse in the world. and, from the success McGowan achieved, it is well to believe that a successful attempt the control of the owners of the never will be made. The owners of the horse wagered $5,000 against $1,500 that he would perform the unparalleled feat, but the outside bets were almost five to one that the outside bets were almost five to one that he would not, and very few offering such odds found takers. The horse had trotted about a year since 20 miles in 58 minutes and 25 seconds, which now stands as the best time on record. The track was very bad to-day, a heavy rain having fallen during the night, but even with a good day and a good track it is not generally believed that the twenty-one or even twenty miles would have been performed in an hour. A the end of the thirteenth mile, which done in 38.52, the horse was drawn by order of the owner. The thirteen miles in the race a year ago was performed in 37.30½. The quickest mile made to-day was the second, which was done in 2.43%, and the longest was the thirteenth, which was done leisurely in 3.58. The average time made was about three minutes per mile. There was a great number present from New York and other distract cities.

Another account says: Another account says:
The word "go" was given at 5 minutes of with profound silence his uniform step and

The second mile was made in 2.433. The second mile was made in 2.433.

After the tenth mile it was obvious that the heavy and slippery condition of the track was proving a serious drawback to the horse, for he showed signs of working hard. The reins lay loose upon his back, and his driver was compelled to urge him along with the whip.

The first ten miles were trotted inside of time, with from ten to twelve seconds to deliberately of his own accord, and thus ended the long talked of trot. ended the long talked of trot.

To say that disappointment rested upon every face would convey but a faint idea of the feeling that pervaded the immense concourse of spectators. After the ninth mile was accomplished hope ran high, but there could be read in the countenances of the backers of the Captain that failure was inevitable on such a slippery track. During the eleventh mile these fears were realized. The gelding showed considerable distress, and had to be encouraged by talking to him and persuading him with the whip. On the twelfth and thirteenth miles everybody gave up the match as lost, but no one ventured to question the ability of the horse to perform all that had been promised, provided the track had been in a fair condition. The following is the time table:

The veterinary surgeons on the ground immediately examined the Captain and pronounced him all right. He discussed his supper with usual relish and during the evening exhibited no signs of prostration or illness, under the careful attention of his

The eager curiosity of the great crowd of spectators having been partially satisfied, it was not long before the grounds were deserted, and all wended their way homeward, satisfied with the performance of Capt. McGowen under such adverse cir-cumstances, although at the same time there was great disappointment manifested. There is no doubt but the twenty-one miles could have been trotted inside of the hour, had it not been for the bad track. It is not probable that Captain McGowen will be matched against time again this season.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The storm which prevailed on Thursday night and yesterday prevailed on Thursday night and yesterday morning proved very damaging in its effects. The wharves and piers were seriously injured. One hundred feet of the wharf at the foot of Clarkson street, gave way and fell in. The rear of a building in process of erection in Brooklyn, was blown down, and crushed through a dwelling house, but nobody was injured. The storm also prevailed to a considerable extent along the Hudson.

along the Hudson.

A malignant form of typhus fever is prevailing in some of the up-town public institutions, particularly in the Deaf and Dumb Asylum and in the female ward of Dumb Asylum and in the temale ward of the Catholic Reformatory, foot of Eightysixth street, East river.

Shortly before eleven o'clock last Thursday night, a fire occurred in the brick edifice 112 and 114 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, known as Granada Hall, entailing a loss of $4,500. The lower part of the building was occupied as stores, and the upper part as a meeting room for masonic, odd fellows and temperance societies.

Last evening Mr. Henry Vincent delivered an oration on the late great American conflict and the friends and enemies of America, in the Union Hall of the Cooper Institute, to a large and highly appreciative audience.

Judge Michael Connolly was nominated a candidate for Comptroller by the Demo-cratic City Convention last evening. The case of Lieut. Braine, of the Confederate army, charged with piracy, has gone over to the next term of court.

From Constantinople—Foolish Experiment of a Party of Americans.

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—I mentioned in a letter, written several week ago, that a party of Americans (two young men and a boy) had started from Smyrna for China, overland. They took no interpreter, not even a servant, although neither of them knew a word of the language. They simply supplied themselves with defective maps and a small conversation book. With two horses for the three, and no money except American gold and greenbacks, they started on their Quixotic expedition. The boy rat away and came back to Smyrna the second away and came back to Smyrna the second day, but they returned for him and started again. The company are now in Constantinople, baving met with just such an experience as I supposed they would. When about seven hours from Afiou-kara-hissar they were stopped by a party of Turks, who demanded to know who they were to The America to know who they were, &c. The Americans could give no answer, as their conversation book had not anticipated any such experience. The Americans were well armed, but made no resistance. They only stood in stupid amazement, waiting to see what was to turn up. The Turks were evidently puzzled by these strange fish, but finally concluded that they must be brifinally concluded that they must be brigands or runaway Cretans, or something of the sort, so they pitched upon them, took away their money and their arms, and brought them in triumph to the nearest village. They exhibited them there as robbers just caught, and the whole town turned out to see the show. The women pelted them with stones, the children spat on them and the men beat them unmercifully with clubs, for It was all in vain the travelers threa-&c. It was all in vain the travelers threatened the Turks, in the best of English, with the vengeance of Andrew Johnson. When it came night they were bound with cords, and in this wretched plight remained twelve hours. These poor fellows were really in a very critical position here. Their insane expedition had ceased to be a joke. It is really a wonder that these half-savage Turks did not make an end of them, for they probably had no idea that they were respectable people who would ever be inquired for.

The next day the Turks carried their prisoners to the nearest town. Here the authorities attempted to examine them, but, of course, could make nothing of them. So they took off their ropes and put on chains instead. That night was spent in this miserable condition. Next day they were sent in heavy manacles to Afiou-kara-hissar, where they were fortunate enough to find a traveling agent of the Imperial Ottoman bank, who could act as interpreter for them. The moment their story was understood they were set at liberty, and the Governor of the place caused their captors to be arrested in turn. Soldiers were sent to the village to search for their effects, but they only found $2 in money, and a few articles of clothing. The Americans borrowed money from the agent of the bank and came over to Broussa, where the Turks were also sent by the Governor of Afiou-kara-hissar.

The whole party is now in Constantinople. nd they demand the punishment of these Turks as well as the restitution of their property. The American gold is worth nothing in the interior, because it is not known there. It will be easy to recover this but they say that the Turks, not ap ing the value of greenbacks, tore all these up, together with certain bills of exchange on Tiffis.

Our Minister has demanded the punishment of the Turks and the restitution of everything lost, either by the robbers or by the inhabitants of the district where the

the inhabitants of the district where the robbery was committed.

These Turks will undoubtedly be punished in some way, and they deserve it. The money, so far as it can be proved that any money was lost, will be paid by the Government, and twice or three times this amount will be ground out of the innocent people of that vicinity. But really, the Americans, who claim to be correspondents of the New York Herald and Harper's Monthly, deserved some part of what they suffered, as a punishment for their folly. If they had not met with any such accident as they had not met with any such accident as this, they would, probably, have died on the road this winter, long before they reached Tiflis. Their names are Stanley, Cook and Noe.

Death of Major William B. Lewis, the Friend and Adviser of General Jackson We are called upon to chronicle the death of another old citizen. Major William B. Lewis, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of this county, died at his residence near Nashville, yesterday. He was, we believe, about $2 years of age. Major Lewis came to this county at an early day, and has witnessed the growth of Nashville from a small village to a comparatively large and wealthy city. He was the intimate personal friend of Gen. Jackson, and there ate personal friend of Gen. Jackson, and there was no man in the State so thoroughly acquainted with the history of political parties during the Administration of the old hero. He had served with Gen. Jackson during the war of 1812 and the Indian wars of that period, and upon the election of the latter to the Presidency, Major Lewis repaired to Washington with him, and was his trusted friend and confidential adviser during his administration. With the reduring his administration. With the re-tirement of Gen. Jackson, Major Lewis retirement of Gen. Jackson, Major Lewis returned to his home on the banks of the Cumberland, where he resided in comparative retiracy until his election to the Legislature last year. In the troubles which culminated in the late civil war, Major Lewis was a devoted, unfaltering friend of the Union, and he reremained firm in his faith throughout that terrible struggle. The war over, he exerted himself to heal up the wounds it had left upon the body politic, and when his motives upon the body politic, and when his motives as a legislator were impugned, he resigned and appealed to his constituents for an in-dorsement of his course, and they re elected him by a very large majority, but the party having control of the Legislature referred having control of the Legislature referred his credentials to the Committee on Elec-tions, and that Committee never reported on his case. A few weeks since Major Lewis disgusted with the course of the dominant party in the Legislature, resigned the seat to which he had been elected.—Nashville Despatch, 13th.

W. W. Corcoran has made a proposition to give to the Government his magnificent estate, lying two miles from Washington city, for a Presidential Park, on condition that the Committee appointed by Congress to select a suitable spot shall locate the park on and around it. Counter influences are on and around it. Counter innuences are being exerted, with a view to the location of the park northwest of the city, where the face of the country presents superior natural advantages for executing the designs of the Government on a magnificent scale, and the $4,500. The lower part of the building was occupied as stores, and the upper part as a meeting room for masonic, odd fellows and temperance societies.

William A. Marsh, a boy sixteen years of age, on Thursday forged the name of James A. Dorman to a check for $20,000 on the Sixth National Bank and presented it. The clerk would have paid it, as he believed the Robbery of the Beaver County Treasury— Safe Blown Open, and $8,000 Stolen.

The office of the Treasurer of Leaver county was entered by burglars and about open by means of gunpowder, and about eight thousand dollars in national currency stolen. The thieves effected an entrance stolen. The thieves effected an entrance through the outside door by breaking it open with a crowbar, which they left behind them, together with a pick and some railroad chisels. Having obtained access to the safe, they drilled two holes through it, one in the top and another near the bottom in which they placed the gunpowder. The charge must have been a large one, as the safe was blown nearly to atoms. The carge must have oeen a targe one, as the safe was blown nearly to atoms. The shock produced by the explosion was so great as to shatter the building to such an extent that it is considered dangerous for occupation. The noise was heard by persons residing at a considerable distance from the building. The thieves made good their escape, and no one yet has the slightest suspicion as to who were the perpetrators of this audacious robbery.—Pittsburgh

Rock Island.—In 1835 there was but one house within the present city limits of Rock Island, Illinois. In 1840 the first newspaper was started; in 1844, the first church was built; in 1849 the thriving little town acquired a city charter and a telegraph office. In 1854 the prosperity of the city was assured by the completion of the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad. In 1860 the population was 5,600; in 1866, 11,000. The total annual assessment for 1865 was $31,046 23. The annual exchange sold by the Bank of Rock Island exceeds $2,000,000. The manual factures of the city are quite extensive. There are two coal mines now in operation near the city. The yield of the larger is from 1,400,000 to 1,700,000 bushels per annum. The city has a fine system of public

AT Staunton, Va., on Wednesday even-ing, an accident occurred at Wyman's exhi-bition, which came very near terminating seriously. Just before the performance com-menced, and while the stairs which led into menced, and while the stairs which led into the hall were densely packed with ladies and gentlemen, says the Charlotte Chronicle, the whole stair-way fell two stories to the cellar, bringing down everybody with it, Fortunately no one was badly injured. although all were greatly alarmed. Just at this juncture the cry of fire was raised, and for a few moments the excitement was intense; but the strong presence of mind of Mr. Wyman and agent restored quiet, and the performance terminated. The entire audience was passed out of the hall one at a time, over a gang plank.

DROWNING OF THREE THOUSAND CRE-TAN INSURGENTS,—The cable despatches, a few days ago, announced the drowning of 3,000 Cretans, who had taken refuge in a cave. A Greek, Aristides Xenos, writes to a London paper denying the story. He says—"Allow me, sir, in fair justice to humanity, to inform your readers that in Candia there is no tide—as Lord Byron called it an 'untideless sea;' and, bes though there be one it would never reach Melidoni, as it lies high up in the moun-tains. Therefore, the loss of the 3,000 and also the submission of the insurgents must be a fabrication emanating from a Turkish source." Discredit was thrown on the story by all the English press.

THE Iron Mountain Railroad, of Missouri, has been sold to J. J. McKay and others, re-presenting Eastern and St. Louis capital, for The Cairo and Fulton Railroad has been also bought by the same parties, for $350,000, but the sale is not yet ratified by Governor Fletcher.
