HOW A RAILROAD TRAIN WAS ROBBED.

A Terrible Story of Depravity.

It will be remembered that a few days since a train on the Nashville Railroad was thrown off the track and the passengers robbed. The robbers, six in number, were arrested and imprisoned. The Louisville Journal says:

One of the party, Stephen Conwell, a confession of the whole affair. From him we learn that two men, residing near Franklin, named King and Finn, conceived the idea scon after the robbery of the pay train. They argued that if three men could get that, a larger gang could rob any train. These men then sought allies, and got ten men beside a negro, who proved a leading spirit in the whole affair. The party met at a mill about four miles from Franklin. where they matured their plans. They then rode down toward the railroad, when one of them proposed to stop at Con-well's house till he could borrow his pis-tols. Conwell refused to loan his pistols, and was anxious to know what was going on. Finally, they urged him to go along, telling him the whole plan. He accompanied them to the place on the road where it was agreed that the track should be torn up. Here the negro showed them how to pry up the track, and they forced the rail on one side out, but had not time to remove the other, as they heard the train coming. So they piled some loose rails on the track, and moved back about three hundred yards to await the train. Conwell says that the train came thundering along in the darks. to await the train. Conwell says that the train came thundering along in the darkness at full speed, and when it struck the rails on the track it seemed to him as if it jumped fifty feet. Then he wished that he was safe at home and had not come. As soon as the locomotive rolled down the bank, the gang rushed up beside the cars and fired, each man, a shot up in the air. They had agreed to do this to frighten the passengers, and if any one returned the fire, they were to shoot into the train. No one fired, and the men entered the cars, leaving two men and the negro outside as a guard while they robbed the passengers. As soon as they had finished this, they started for the express car, but found that the car had fallen on its side and that the started for the express car, but found that the car had fallen on its side, and that the only open door was on the under side. Be-fore they could force the other door open the whole car was on fire. They then rified the baggage car of what they could carry, mounted their horses and rode off four miles, when they stopped, plundered the baggage that they had and divided the spoils. Conwell says that when the divi-sion was made each man had eleven dollars in money. They then dispersed each coinin money. They then dispersed, each going to his home.

Soon after the robbery some detectives Soon after the robbery some detectives were put on the track and some of the military were sent down there to hunt the thing out. The citizens of Franklin extended every assistance in their power, and, by their knowledge of persons and places, enabled the officers to get all the gang except the negro. He cannot be found. The citizens suspected Conwell from some expression that he had been heard to use, and arrested him. He immediately confessed pression that he had been heard to use, and arrested him. He immediately confessed his participation in the affair, and told all he knew. Conwell was taken to Franklin. While there he saw King, one of the leaders, sitting in the telegraph office, listening to what was going on. The messages that was passing between the authorities here and the people at Franklin, relative to the robbery, must have been amusing to this cool knight of the road. He was regarded as one of the citizens who were anxious to ferret the matcitizens who were anxious to ferret the mat citizens who were anxious to ferret the matter out. As soon as Couwell saw King, he said, "There's one of the leaders!" King walked out a little way, and then tried to make his ascape, but it was too late—the military arrested him.

fasten the guilt upon the right persons, and that, too, is an indisputable manner. He himself, seems very green and awkward telling the story with a peculiar naivete that seems irresistibly funny. He hardly realizes his position, nor that he has committed any crime. Conwell was lodged in jail last night to keep him separate from the others. who were put in the military prison at Taylor Barracks. The others of the gang are not aware that Conwell has turned against them, and continue defiant, and protesting their ignorance of the whole affair. The detectives who took passage on the morning train succeeding in captured thre men, named James P. Jackson, David Russell and Jake Smith. They were discovered lurking suspiciously along the railroad, near Rocky Hill. As the northward train was out of time, and momentarily expecting to meet the south-going train, it was necessary for it to move cautiously around the curves and keep up signals to avoid collision. This enabled the detective officers to observe the manceuvres of the men, and when within a few hundred yards of Rocky Hill Station, the detectives leaped from the train, pursued and nabbed the suspected gents. on the arrival of the train last night these men, also, were turned over to the Chief of Police, and Officers Shanks and Needy, and Police, and Officers Shanks and Needy, and confined in the city prison. A terror-stricken Dutchman was gobbled up and brought along with the supposed highwaymen, but it being well ascertained that he had innocently fallen into bad company, he was released. This trio had been hounded for five days, and had two or three times eluded the advoit officers. eluded the adroit officers.

THE WELCOME TO CONGRESS.—Another call, co-operating with that previously published by the "Soldiers' and Sailors' Union" of Washington, for a mass welcome to the radicals in Congress, has been issued by five committees, representing the Union League of America, the District Republican German Radicals, and the Equal Suffrage Associations; six Coupoils of the Union League Radicals, and the Equal Suffrage Associations, six Councils of the Union League (white and colored), and the Colored Soldiers' and Equal Rights' League. The mass welcome will be held on Saturday, December 1. A bauquet is also proposed on Monday evening. Large numbers of Radicals from Maryland and Virginia have signified their intention of joining in the demonstration. monstration.

DEATH OF BISHOP RUTLEDGE, OF FLORIDA.—The Tallahassee papers announce the death in that city, Monday week, of the venerable Bishop Rutledge, long at the head of that diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Bishop R. had a long and painful illness, from cancer in the mouth, which finally attacked the tongue, and in its onward progress made it very painful to partake of food. It was sometime since recorded that he would die of staryation. corded that he would die of starvation, which was probably the case. He was a man of remarkable learning and piety, and in his latter day showed uncommon Christian resignation.—N. O. Pic., Nov. 14.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Providence A CORRESPONDENT of the Providence Journal states that Richard Lawrence, whose attempt to assassinate Gen. Jackson in 1835 will be remembered, is still living, and is an inmate of the Maryland Lunatic Asylum. He is an Englishman, and was insane at the time he made the attempt. He snapped two pistols in succession, both heavily loaded, at Gen. Jackson's breast as the President was passing from the Hell of the President was passing from the Hall of the Representatives to the eastern portico of the Capitol, but neither exploded.

SAD ACCIDENT AND DEATH .- One day last week, while men were thrashing for Mr. Abner Evans, residing on the farm of Mr. Aoner Evans, residing on the farm of Mr. John George, in Unity township, Westmoreland county, Pa., his little daughter, some fourteen years of age, came in contact with the tumbling shaft, which caught her clothing, and instantly she was taken up and made to revolve, dashing her head upon the floor. Before the machine could be stopped she was so mangled that she died on Friday.

DEATH OF LADY HOLLAND.-Many per DEATH OF LADY HOLLAND.—Many persons will regret to hear of the death of Sydney Smith's favorite daughter Saba, Lady Holland. She married in 1834, as his second wife, Sir Henry Holland, M. D., D. C. L., F. R. S., the eminent physician, Physician in Ordinary to the Queen since 1852, and has had issue two daughters by him. Lady Holland was author of the well-known biography of her father, the witty canon of St. Paul's, and possessed no slight share of his humor. his humor.

RATHER ODD.—A negro accidentally shot himself with a revolver at Pithole on Tuesday. A physician was called to attend him, and began by examining the revolver, inetead of the patient. In doing so, the weapon was again discharged, wounding him a second time. As there are only two negroes in Pithole, the accident was very near re-ducing the "colored population" by one-
