-VENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1866.

THE GROWTH OF THE CITY. It is very clearly within the memory of citizens who are scarcely yet middle aged, when the business portions of Philadelphia were in much more narrowly circumscribed bounds than they are at present. Second street was the greatretail thoroughfare, where dry goods dealers sold their wares with the full conviction that it would be fatal to their interests to go a single square further westward. A few adventurous mechanics and dealers, such as hatters, bootmakers, tailors, stationers, &c., went as far west as Third and Fourthstreets; but the portions of those streets occupied as shops were very small. Jobbers in hardware, dry goods, &c., occupied Market street; but even upon this busy thoroughfare dwellings were numerous within thirty years. Arch street reposed in a quiet respectability that was scarcely broken by a single store. Eighth street was dull and drowsy and without a single shop to enliven it; while dwellings even were but thinly scattered between Tenth street and the Schuylkill. All this is changed. Second street holds its own as a retail street, and it stretches out its almost unbroken miles of shops and stores from below the Navy Yard to Richmond, and forming, probably the longest uninterrupted line of stores in the world. Trade has overflowed into the streets running parallel with it to the westward, and there are now many busy thoroughfares where the most adventurous shop-keeper would not have thought of locating himself a few years ago. But Eighth street is the greatest marvel of all; for from one of the dullest streets in the city; it has been transformed into one of the busiest. Its retail shops extend from Spruce street to Green, and its sidewalks are constantly thronged. Arch street has also thrown off its old quiet, and elegant stores now re both sides of the noble thoroughfare the Delaware well on to Broad lati. Business has also grown west-Chestnut street, and there are stores where but a very few from the innovations of business of the city has thus broken into the old domain of resi- | elected him have not left him, for he dences, citizens have sought for homes in more distant localities, and West Philadelphia, Germantown and other districts which our fathers would have thought entirely out of the question as dwelling places for business men, have advanced with wondrous rapidity. The greatest progress made in any part of the city, is probably to be seen in the Fifteenth and Twentieth Wards. Where there were brick yards and open commons within a very short time, there are now blocks of elegant mansions, and comparing the present with the recent past of the sections of the city named, the improvements seem almost like the work of Philadelphia is confessedly the most comfortable and the healthiest of the principal American cities. It is second to but one in respect to population, and ahead of all in regard to extent. Judging by its past and present progress, it is not likely to lose its pre-eminence in this respect.

JOHNSON VS. SHERIDAN. The President, in his message to Congress, says: "In all of the States civil authority has superseded the coercion of arms, and the people, by their voluntary action, are maintaining their governments in full activity and complete operation. The enforcemen of the laws is no longer "obstructed in any of the laws is no longer "obstructed in any State by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judi-cial proceedings;" and the animosities en-gendered by the war are rapidly yielding to the beneficent influences of our free institu-tions, and to the kindly effects of unre-stricted social and commercial tracted. stricted social and commercial intercourse. General Sheridan, in his report to General Grant, makes the following statement concerning the condition of the public mind in Texas: "The condition of the civil affairs in Texas was anomalous, singular and unsatisfactory. I found the Provisional Governor, backed by a small portion of the population, had for his standard of loyalty "abhorrence for the rebellion and glory in its defeat;" while his successor, as actual Governor, had tor his sandard of loyalty "pride in rebel-lion—that it was a righteous but lost cause, being overpowered by the Federal forces."

Both of these representatives of the civil law, entertaining opposite standards for the loyalty of their subjects, I was required to loyalty of their subjects, I was required to support, and did it to the best of my ability; but it has been embarrassing in the extreme. Governor Hamilton, the Provisional Governor, was clamorous for more troops, and in not, was cramorous for more troops, and in several communications to me asserted that the civil law could not be carried out; that freedmen would be killed and Union men driven from the State without military support, which I gave whenever it was possible. Governor Throckmorton, the present Governor Throckmorton, the present Governor, wants all the troops moved from the settled portions of the State, asserting that the civil law was all right; that justice would be done to freedmen, Union men, and our soldiers in the courts. But justice is not done. To give you an in-But justice is not done. To give you an instance of this, two soldiers were shot at Brenham, Texas, about two months ago; they were unarmed, and offered no prevocation. The grand jury could find no; bill against their would be assassins, but found a bill against Brevet Major Smith, 17th Infantry, for burglary, because he broke into the house of some citizen in his attempt to arrest these men.

arrest these men. "Myown opision is that the trial of a white man for the murder of a freedman, in Texas, would be a farce, and in making this statement I make it because truth com-

"It is strange that over a white man, killed by Indians on an extensive frontier, the greatest excitement will take place, but over the killing of many freedmen in the settlements nothing is described. settlements nothing is done. I cannot help but see this, and I cannot help but tell it to my superiors, no matter how unpleasant it may be to the authorities of Texas."

The former is the opinion of a man whose information is drawn from disloyal sources; the latter of a man whose own eyes have seen, and his own ears heard of the barbarism and disloyalty of a people upon whom Mr. Johnson is fully prepared to confer all the rights and privileges of loyal and patriotic citizens.

THE FIRE BILL

Yesterday, in Common Council, the ordinance providing for the better control of the Fire Department was referred to the Committee on Fire and Trusts. The convention of firemen, who are unwilling to be subject to the control of the lawful authorities, desired to have this disposition made of the bill, so that it could thus be "laid at rest;" but the citizens will not be satisfied with any such smothering process. If members of Councils prefer that an irresponsible body of men should do as they please with the property of the community, rather than that they (the said members) shall risk the chance of not being re-elected. it should be known, and no smothering in committee will satisfy the public. It is only fair to state that Mr. Nickels, the chairman of the Committee of Fire and Trusts, yesterday declared that the committee would make a report upon the bill at the next meeting of Councils. The public will expect it, and it will also expect such action upon the part of its official representatives as will put a very emphatic dissent upon the extraordinary assumption that any body of men shall set themselves above legal control, and do just as they please.

Growing "Small by Degrees," &c. There is not in history or in fiction such a lamentable instance of repudiation as was exhibited in Congress yesterday, except, perhaps, in the case of Thomas Pepper, whose habit of lying was so decided and incurable that he was kicked out of the dominions of his satanic majesty therefor. During the discussion upon the subject of restraining the President in his too free use of the appointing power, Mr. Le Blond, a leading Democrat from Ohio, took occasion to wash the hands of his party of all share and interest in the present occupant of the White House. He wished it to be distinctly understood that the Democracy wanted nothing to do with Andrew Johnson; they had not benefitted by him in the late elections, and they were not going to shoulder the President. "To do so would destroy any party in the world!" Poor Mr. Johnson! The party that went out from among them; at all events they are now as far as the poles as under. the Democracy taboo him, and if the pending bills in Congress restrict the appointing power so as to crir ple his exertions to make loyalty ocnous, he will lose the only support, now left him, to wit, the noble array of office-holders. When this consummation is reached, there will be just one man in the Johnson party, and his name will be Andrew

The Ristori Season.
The "Medea" of Mme. Ristori, in which she makes her Philadelphia debut on Monday evening, is by many persons considered one of her grandest rôles. But she is so versatile in her manner that it is hard to say in which play she is best, and it is necessary to see her in all, fully to appreciate her extraordinary gifts. The Medea is not a play written on the severe, antique, classical model, though the subject is an antique legend. It was written for the modern French stage by Legouvê, the author of some of the finest modern French come_ dies. Rachel declined to play in it, and it was translated into Italian by Signor Montanelli, for Mme. Ristori, who at once made an immense sensation in it, and has played in it, perhaps, more frequently than in any other. No one should fail to see her as 'Medea." On Tuesday evening Mary Stuart will be performed. Seats may be secured for either of the first three nights at the Academy and at Trumpler's Music Store, Seventh and Chestnut streets.

French Opera. This evening the company of the Opera Comique, of the New York French Theatre. will appear at the Academy of Music in Herold's beautiful and popular opera of Zampa, with Mlle. Naddie and M. Armand in the principal parts. The beautiful one act opera of Le Maitre de Chapelle, by Thomas, will also be played, Mile. Laurentis and M. Wilhem in the principal parts. With such an attractive bill and very low prices, we feel assured of a full house. To-morrow afternoon Auber's charming opera, Les Diamans de la Couronne, will be produced, with a most excellent cast.

BOILER.—
This new Steam denerator combines essential advantages in ABSOLETE SAFETY FROM EXPLOSION, in first cost and cost of repairs, durability, economy of tuel, incility of cleaning and transportation, not possessed by any other boiler.
It is its formed of a combination of cast-iron hollow spheres—each eight isches in external dameter, and three eighths of an inch thick, connected by curved necks, and rebate machine made joints, held together by wrought-iron boils with caps at the ends. The form is the succept to the succept known; its strength to resist internal pressure/very great—unweakened as it is by punching or riveting, which lessens the strength of the wrought-iron boiler plate about forty per cent. Every boiler is tested by hydranic pressure at 200 pounds to the square irch. It cannot be because at 200 pounds to the square irch. lron boller plate about forty per cent. The control of the steam generator possesses this property of relief under extreme pressure without injury to itself, and thus preventing disaster.

It is not seriously afficied by corrosion, which so soon impairs the strength of the wrough thron boiler, it has economy in fiel, equal to the best boilers. It has economy in fiel, equal to the best boilers. It gets up steam quickly, at d with little fiel—produces super eated steam without separate a pparatus, and is not liable to priming or foaming.

It is easily transported, and may be taken apart so that no piece need weigh more tone lighty pounds. In difficult places of access, the largest boiler may be put through an opening one 'foot square, it is readily cleaned inside and out. Under ordinary dreumstances it is kept free from permented deposit by blowing the water ent'rely out under full pressure once a week. It requires no sepecial aid in its management. Injured paits can be renewed with great facility, as they are uniform in shape and size. Wien renewed the entire boiler remains as good as new. The greater part of the boiler will never need renewal, unless unfairly used. A belier can be increased to any extent by simply adding to its width, and being the multiplication of a single form, its strengh remains the same for all sizes, it has less weight and takes less than one-half the fround area of the ordinary cylinder boiler, without being increased in height.
