The Late Steamboat Explosion on James

River. FORTRESS MONROE, Dec. 10.—At5 o'clock yesterday morning the disabled steamer Thomas Kelso arrived at Norfolk, in tow of Thomas keiso arrived at Noriols, in tow of the steamers. John Sylvester and City of Norfolk. At 9 C'clock the Coroner held an inquest on the bodies of the three firemen, who were killed instantly by the explosion. The following are the particulars, as gathered from passengers and officers of the Kelson.

The explosion occurred as stated at 31 o'cleck on Saturday morning, about three miles to the northward of Half Trap Light Boat, which is off the mouth of the Rappahannock river, and forty-five miles from Norfolk. The wind was blowing moderately from the southward and eastward, and a heavy fog overspread the Chesapeake bay. The connection in the steam drum burst by the rivers some dozen or more consists. the rivets, some dozen or more coming out on the heads breaking off. An explosion immediately ensued, and the steam passing along the deck and up into the saloon, extinguished all the lights and fire in the steamer leaving it in total deckers. steamer, leaving it in total darkness, and the passengers not knowing what had occurred, were for the time left in the most terrible suspense. It was diffi-cult to conjecture what had occurred, whether the boat was sinking or on fire, and a considerable time elapsed before the real condition of affairs was ascertained. There was great excitement after the collision, the passengers rushed terrified over the steamer, the wounded suffering intensely, but the exertions of Captain H. B. Cralle and the fficers of the steamer, of whose conduct in that trying moment the passengers speak in the highest praise, aided by many of the pas sengers, restored quiet and calmed the fear of the panic-stricken when the extent of the disaster was ascertained. A small sail-boat was dispatched to Cherrystone, some five or six miles distant, with instructions to telegraph the disaster to Baltimore and Norfolk. When the Kelso anchored, the attention of all on board was directed to the suffering wounded the dead of whom there were three of the panic-stricken when the extent of the ed, the dead, of whom there were three, being pastall assistance. Every attention was paid to the sufferers, and Dr. Turner Wilson, of North Carolina, is spoken of very highly for his efficient services in as aging the sufferings of the victims, and the energy and coolness he displayed throughout. The steamer City of Norfolk, from Annamessic, now hove in sight at 10 o'clock A. M., and seeing the signals of distress took off all the passengers and baggage from the Kelso, and arrived at Norfolk at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A visit to the City of Norfolk revealed a sad sight. The sa-loon was filled with the suffering wounded, some of them moaning with anguish, others bearing their intense suffering without a

A large number of the physicians of Fairfax, among whom were recognized Drs.
Jackson and Samuel Seldon, together with Mayor Ludlow, and many members of the City Council, visited the City of Norfolk and rendered all the aid in their power. About 5 o'clock P. M. a number of vehicles arrived at the steamer landing, and the wounded were taken to the Hospital of St. Vincent de Paul, where they have all been well at-tended by the noble Sisters of Charity. The following is a complete list of the killed and following is a complete list of the killed and wounded:

Killed—Thomas Ennis, coal heaver, Chas. Adams. colored: Harmon Batts, fireman, and an unknown colored fireman.

Passengers Injured—Stephen Hays, badly scalded; James Davis, slightly; May Eugenie Carter, hands badly; Mrs. James, slightly; Rdward Zealler, slightly; Dr. A. T. Osborne, Oxford. Md. badly; Charles W. Midon; Chowan, N. C., very badly; John T. Cawling, slight; L. A. Langteller, slight.

Officers and Hands injured—Charles Reed, of Baltimore, chief engineer; Vance Wilson, assistant engineer; M. Waldrop, baggage agent. Wm. Hait, fireman; John Bowan, slight; Samuel McKenny, badly; "amuel Young, colored, slight; John Thomas, colored; slight; John Coburn, slight; Captain Crallee, the commander of the Kelso, was slightly injured in the hand.

he Kelso, was slightly injured in the hand. About twenty horses and mules belong. ing to one of the passengers, Mr. C. W. Mixon, were scalded and ruined. They were on the lower deck, tied, several feet in front of the engine, and singularly enough though their heads were turned from the boiler, they were injured alone in that part of their bodies. The hair was completely scalded from the skin, and their tongues burned so as to prevent their eating, and most of them, having inhaled the steam, suffered terribly.

most of them, having inhaled the steam, suffered terribly.

Mr. Waldrop, the baggage master, was awakened by the concussion, and springing up, crawled out of his berth through a small opening in the window, and reached the upper deck, badly scalded. Captain Craele had a short while before given the steamer in charge of his second officer, and had been asleep but a short while when he was awoke by the concussion. He rushed from his state room, bewildered and confused. On feeling a stifling sensation, as if in a heated atmosphere, and gasping for breath and grouping around he struck the bulkhead, opposite the open door. He finally reached opposite the open door. He finally reached the door, and entering the large saloon found it in darkness and filled with steam. In making his way to the after part of the In making his way to the after part of the steamer he struck the cabin stove, and was knocked down, injuring his left shoulder, and badly bruising his body. Recovering, he reached the stern of the vessel, and assisted many of the excited passengers out of the salcon window on to the guard of the steamer, where they were free from the stifling effects of the steam.

It is considered fortunate that the accident did not occur sooner. All the passengers did not occur sooner. All the passengers had retired, and the doors of their staterooms being closed, accounts for the com-paratively small number of scalded. Had it taken place before they retired, and while they were in the saloons and social hall, it is impossible to estimate the loss of life that would have occurred. Many of the passengers that were scalded received their injuries by pushing through the saloons in their fright to ascertain the nature of the conous on, which had startled every one on board. One lady had her face burned by looking out of her state-room door before the danger had passed. This was the only lady pas-

The following accurate information was furnished yesterday by Dr. Samuel Geldon, of the Hospital of St. Vincent de Paul: of the Hospital of St. Vincent de Paul:— From the arrival of the steamer City of Norfolk with the wounded, during their transportation to the hospital, and during the night, the following physicians were in attendance, viz.: Drs. R. W. Rose, S. J. Browne, S. K. Jackson, Samuel Seldon, H. M. Nash, aided materially by John E. Todd, apothecary, who furnished the physicians with bandages, lint, stimulants and dress-ing. The following is a list of the petions

ing. The following is a list of the patients under treatment at the hospital:

Chas. W. Mixon, N. C., situation critical. Stephen Hayes, N. J.,

Dr. A. F. Osborne, Oxford, N. C., doing well. Samuel Kinney, Baltimore, William Wilson, "
John Rowan, right hand and arm badly

John Martin, colored, condition critical.

All the rest are doing well.

The Sisters of Charity, presided over by Sister Isidore Kenney, the Superior of the Hospital, were indefatigable in their attention. tion to the sufferers, and remained up with them all night.

The Kelso has had her cargo discharged, and she now lies anchored in the Elizabeth river. She requires but few repairs, not being materially injured.

The same evening the Liberals made an attack upon the French lines, but without any effect. The next day a strong sitack was made and hard fighting took place, the French losing heavily in men and officers. On the 10th the French Admiral sent a figs of truce to Corons, the result of which was the French were sliowed to evacuate the place. The same afternoon the Liberals entered the city in fine style and without the least disorder, and were greeted with great enthuliasm by the people.

On the arrival of the Continental at Mazatian, the Liberal Government proposed to selze her forviolation of the neutrality laws during the past two years. This was energetically opposed by Captain Sherley, of the United Statesateamer Suwance, and the steamer was not molested.

The French evacuated Durango on the morning of November 13th, thus leaving that port free from the forces of Mazimillian. The city was left entirely to the protection of the merchants, and four days later was occupied by the Liberal forces under command of Genauza. No disturbance occurred, and tiade has been restored.

The French, while on the retreat to the City of Mexico, were very much harassed by the Liberal forces. At a place called Arenael, twesty-four miles from Durange, on the road to Sombrero the French commit was entirely cut up, leaving two hundred men and three pieces of artillery on the battle-field.

Guadalajera advices of Nov. 10, from reliable sources, state that Maximillan was still at Orizaba, with theintention to abdicate. His Ministry sent a committee of their number to have an interview with him, but he refused to receive them. The French will recognized the Government of Juarez, and through the medim of the United States, will settle the French claims.

To this effect, they will appoint a commission of three to meet in Washington a similar commission of three to exicans, composed of Senors Ladd, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Francisco Zearco, the eminent states man, and Romero, Mexican Minister. In case the commissioners cannot agree then three citizens of the United States will be appointed to act as media for. San United States will be appointed to act as media for. San this Fotosi was evacuated on November 13th. General Castaguay was in Guadalajara awaiting the arrival of troops from Mazztlan, and together with the French troops in that city, will march to the City of Mexico. In accordance with the orders the French will withdraw next spring. They will concentrate in the City of Mexico and will leave the Government in the hands of Porfiero Diaz.

Mr. Schleiden, son of William Schleiden, of San Francisco, has been arrested by Corons. Commander Shiriey, of the United States steamer Suvanee, and demanded bisrelease, as an American citizen. The steamers Continental and Panama had been seized by Corona, General-in Chi-fof the Meal can Arally of the West. The Continental was afterwards related to the West. The Continental was afterwards related under an agreement.

From late Mexican correspondence it appears that the Liberals, after driving the French and Imp-rialists out of Guayamas and Jalapa, commenced quarreling and intriguing among themselves.

Camillo Cruse, Chief of Staff to Gen. Martinez, shot a prominer merchant of Guayamas, for which Martinez attempted to arrest him. whereupon Cruss fired upon the General, and was instantly shot by the latter. Martinez has been unreasonably pressing Gov. Pesquiera for money, and declaring his ability to go: it if it was not forthcoming.

Gov. Pesquiera left Guayamas for Hermoselli, saying he would remain no longer, to have his authority as Governor insulted. Martinez pursued him and beyerd his return, to which the Governor finally consented. Martinez then left for Sinaloa with his cavalry, his infantry going by sea to Maza-lan.

The people in Sonora were greatly rejoiced at his departure. Governor dues imposed by the Imperialist, have been greatly diminianed, and the passport system abolished. The onerous interior duties have been entrely done away, with.
