NASHVILLE, Dec. 16 .- It is stated officially from whi express the high regard in which you are held by the loyal Tennessee Legislature as a military chieftain, a tried and devoted patriot, and a modest, unassuming gentle man. General, in no spirit of flattery, I must be permitted to say to you that in the great struggle of four years which recently convulsed the nation, of military commanders you are, perhaps, the only one that never lost a battle, and in the government of armies and departments, never made mistakes.

There is something appropriate in the presentation of this medal to-day, and in this capital, on the anniversary of the battle of Nashville. two years ago to-day, at the head of a gallant army you were engaged in deadly conflict with the enemies of your country around this city, and two years ago to-morrow you closed that conflict by saving this city from ruin and sending out the hordes of treason howling into Dixie, away down South. The Dixie portion of the enemy remained to receive at your hands their long lost rights, the only right that traitors are entitled to-funeral rites. Trusting that you may never have occasion to command another army on the field of carnage, and that you may live long to enjoy the fruits of victory you have con-tributed to achieve, I hand this medal over o one who will never dishonor it."

As General Thomas received the gift the whole assemblage broke forth into tumul. tuous applause. He replied as follows :

"Governor Brownlow and Gentlemen the Senate and House of Representatives, of the Legislature of Tennessee-Profoundly sensible of the high honors you have this day conferred on me, I confess myself totally unable to thank you in appropriate terms. Be assured, however, of my sincere appreciation of these honors and particularly the compliments which have been awarded to the officers and soldiers who participated with me in defeat. ing the enemy, two years ago, this day, at Nashville. Some twenty years ago I received my diploma at the Military Academy, and soon after a commission in the army. On receiving that commission I took the oath to sustain the Constitution of the United States and Government; to obey all the officers of the Government placed over me. I have faithfully endeavored to keep that oath as a solemn pledge on my part to return to the Government some little service for the great benefit I had received in obtaining my education at the Academy. [Renewed applause.] While I cannot return to speak of myself without the fear of being accused of egotism, I can with pleasure and sincere pride speak of the brave soldiers and officers who, at the commencement of the late war, voluntarily came forth from the private walks of life and devoted their lives to the defence of the Government established by our fathers. [Applause.] It has been my pleasure on all occasions to witness the devotion of our army, and I to-day take pride in saying that no other country on earth over produced such another army as that which assembled to put down the rebellion. [Applause.] The events immediately preceding the battle of Nashville, were of such a nature that I am sure they would bear repeating, or least justify some allusion to cavalry commander, the enemy's left was entirely turned, and then by one of the most gallant assaults I have ever seen, the entire line of the enemy was swept from the left to the right. . [Applause.] So ended one of the strongest and most daring armies, the enemy ever equipped. [Renewed applause.] This army was pursued for two hundred and fifty miles and finally received its last blow at the hands of the cavalry commander. It is with the greatest pleasure that I avail myself to-day of the opportunity of speaking in praise of those gallant men and officers then under my command." As General Thomas concluded the Hall rang with applause, Several short speeches were then made by members of the General's staff, and the esemblage adjourned.

Gen. Thomas and staff returned to Louisville by to-day's noon train. Governor Brownlow and the East Tennessee members left for Knoxville this morning.

The Legislature adjourns to-morrow for the holidays.
