The Bulletin, a few days since, had an article upon the subject of railroads crossing each other at grade, and dilating upon the constant danger of collisions from this defect in railroad building. There was no intention of applying the rule laid down in the article to ordinary street railways; but there was a scene enacted this morning, upon one of the up town streets, that proved that collisions will occur in the best regulated city railway families. As the incident was a blending of the thrilling with the ridiculous,

A Street Scene.

it is worth narrating. Car No. 71 of the Union Passenger Railway was coming down Franklin street, well filled with people who were making their way to their places of business. There was the usual variety of substantial merchants, eager shop-keepers, the inevitable stout lady with a market basket, working girls, hard-fisted mechanics, school misses, boys bent upon a skating expedition, and one "Knight of the Pen, Paste-pot and Scissors." The car was not only full, but it was well packed, not only every seat being occupied. but standing room even being at a premium. The driver, no doubt, felt the importance of getting all this load of humanity down town promptly, and he accordingly imitated that "Jehu, the son of Nimshi," who never let the grass grow beneath his horses' hoofs. All went on smoothly and well until Green street was reached, when the passengers who enjoyed the privilege of standing up near the front of the car, saw that trouble was brewing. A young Lochinvar of a driver of a camphene wagon was urging his fleet steed down the street last named, and he suddenly wheeled into Franklin street. Lochinvar, at the rate both were going, would evidently take Jehu in the flank, and whether the collision would result in a general smash-up. or in slight damage, was for a moment uncertain. Jehu put down brakes, but not soon enough, and Lochinvar was tardy in reversing his engine by pulling his horse backward with might and main. There was a moment of doubt, but in an instant the expected crash came, one of the shafts of the camphene wagon being plunged violently through the front window of the car

for a distance of about eighteen inches, scattering the glass in all directions, barely grazing the head of a boy, who occupied the front seat, and awkening him from a sound

map in a most ludicrous manner. There was much alarm among the passengers;

grazing his nose making a most comical figure in the scene by his inability clearly to comprehend the situation. There was the usual scolding between the two drivers, Jehu remarking in the bland way peculiar ogentlemen of his persussion, that Lochinvar was driving too fast; while the latter gently intimated that the fault lay with the other party. But the climax of the absurd side of the affair was reached when the car had proceeded down to Spring Garden street, a square below the scene of he smash-up. At this point it is the duty of the conductor to call out "Change cars for Fairmount!" The conductor, who had taken part in the wrangle between the two drivers, and who had become greatly excited, shouted out, "Change fares for Carmount!" The roar of laughter that followed this slip put everybody in a good humor, except the agitated conductor, who failed to ee the point of the joke. No place like a city railway car for seeing life.

Madame Ristori. The drama of Deborah, better known in this country as Leah, the Forsaken, was produced last evening at the Academy of Music; but the curiosity to see the great Italian actress in such pieces does not appear to be great; for the audience was not large, when compared with the crowds that attend the performance of such plays as Mary Stuart and Elisabetta. But in the more affecting and exciting parts of Deborah, Mme. Ristori is surpassingly fine, and in the grand scene of the malediction, at the end of the third act, she was magnificent. The applause and the calls before the curtain were enthusiastic, and there were many bouquets thrown to the great artist.

Deborah was extremely well put upon the stage, and the other parts of the play were admirably acted. Mlle. Glech, as "Anna," was particularly graceful, natural and pleasing, and Virginia Casati, as "Martha," made a capital old woman. Little Miss Glech, as the child of Albert and Anna, in the last scene, acted with uncommon intelligence and received a fair share of applause, Mme. Ristori leading the child out with her at the call after the fall of the curtain. The parts of "Lorenzo," the Schoolmaster, the Pastor, "Reuben" and "Abraham" were all very well sustained. Indeed it is rare to see a play so well done in all its parts on an American stage.

This evening Mme. Ristori repeats her great part of "Mary Stuart," in the play of hat name, and to-morrow evening she will ppear as "Lady Macbeth."

Scott's Art Sales. Mr. A. d'Huyvetter's third sale in Philadelphia of choice pictures by living artists in Belgium, Holland, Germany and France, will commence to-morrow evening, at the Art Gallery of Mr. B. Scott, Jr., No. 1020 (hestnut street. It will be continued on Thursday and Friday evenings. To prevent too great a crowd, tickets of admission will be issued, which can be obtained gratiutiously from the auctioneer.

Those who attended the sales of Mr.

d'Huyvetter's collections last spring, will need no assurance that these pictures are well-chosen. His taste, and his knowledge of the taste of American collectors, are both dmitted. He has gone through the studios of Brussels, Antwerp, Amsterdam, Berlin, the Hague and other cities, and has selected the best works he could procure. He has gems chosen from the easels of Robbe, Van Severdonck, Von Seben. Musin, the Koekkoeks, Verboeckhoven, Smets, Gerard, Krusemann, De Vos, Eck. hout, Schaep, Vaarberg, Lampe, and many other artists, and there is not, in the whole collection of two hundred and twenty-six pictures, one that would not do credit to any collection of contemporaneous art. The picthronged with admiring visitors. IMPORTANT SALE OF WORKS OF ART.-To morrow and Wednesday, Mr. B. Scott, Jr. will sell, at public sale, at Concert Hall Chestnut street, above Twelfth, a remark ably fine lot of french bronze vases, bisque sets and figures, highly decorated; gilt and ormolu clocks, alabaster vases, urns and azzas, verde antique groupes, Parisian fancy goods, &c. Being a special importation of Messrs. Viti Bros. The sale will begin at 11 o'clock, A. M., on each day, and the spacious stores will be arranged expressly for the sale. It will doubtless attract

Ford, formerly of McPherson's staff, has been appointed agent to collect subscriptions in this city, and he may be found at 127 South Fourth street. McPherson was one of the greatest soldiers of the war, and the people of Pennsylvania ought to contribute liberally to a monument in his honor.

FROM NEW YORK.

New York, Dec. 18.—The inquest on the bodies of the victims in the recent tenement house fire, on Second avenue, was continued yesterday by Coroner Gover. The evidence confirmed the previous suspicion of arson, and the Coroner decided to hold Shehan under arrest until the close of the case. The inquest will be resumed to-day at half-past two o'clock.

An investigation into the causes of the Compton House disaster was also held by Coroner Gover. Kate Flanigan, the head cook, who was injured by the explosion, died at Bellevue Hospital yesterday. No new facts were elicited in the investigation which, after the examination of two employee of the hotel was adjourned until this ployes of the hotel, was adjourned until this morning.

The Congressional Committee, of which Hon. Mr. Darling is chairman, appointed by the House of Representatives to conduct an investigation of the Revenue frauds perpetrated upon the Government in this city, commenced its sessions yesterday morning at the Astor House. Little was done beyond deciding mon the plan to be pursued in deciding upon the plan to be pursued in conducting the investigation. Witnesses in abundance are ready to give evidence re-garding the swindling operations of citizens as well as officials, and it is believed that sufficient testimony will be adduced to en-danger the heads of some of the Governdanger the heads. Of some of the Government agents, in whom the utmost confidence has been placed heretofore. It is well known that the tax on whisky alone has been evaded to the amount of thousands of dollars per day, and the evasion could not have been successfully made without the sanction of Collectors and Inspectors. The duty on tobacco and cigars has been evaded in a similar manner, involving a serious loss to the Government. As the meetings of the Committee will be held in secret, the public but it speedily subsided when the extent of the damage became known and it was understood that there was nobody hurt; the understood that there was nobody hurt; the will learn little of its transactions until a boy who had been awakened by the shaf final report is made.

In the United States Commissioner's Court, yesterday, before Commissioner Osborn, the charge egainst Messrs. Walsh and Mitchell, of having been engaged illicity in the distillation of spirits, at West Twenty-seventh atreet, was dismissed. The examination of Max Beringer, who is accused the state of the court of the of a similar offence, was continued. The detendant pleads that he is not a manufac-turer of whisky, but of burning fluid. The case has not yet been concluded.

Extensive frauds have been practised of late in the County Clerk's office of New York county, but the parties have been deteoted in every instance. In each case the initial middle letter was altered, which saved the parties from arrest and indictment for at this port yesterday, with four hundred and sixty passengers, and six cases of ship over among them. A fight occurred between four boys and three negroes, in Seventh avenue, on Sunday afternoon, when one of the negroes drew a knife and cut the throat of one of the forgery.

The ship Neckar, from Hamburg, arrived

drew a knife and cut the throat of one of the hoys and seriously, perhaps fatally, injured all the others. The negroes escaped, but are known to the police.

A meeting was held last evening at Tammany Hall, with a view to the sale of the building and the removal of the headquarters up town. It seems that a resolution was offered by Sheriff John Kelly, in behalf of the Council and Sachems, that the Hall he the Council and Sachems, that the Hall be sold at public auction, and the proceeds de-voted to the erection of a new building up town as a headquarters for the Democracy. A beautiful display of sparring was then vouchsafed to the assembled wisdom of Tammany. Mayor Hoffman agitated soberly for the removal, while Peter B. Sweeney and A. Oakey Hall then thundered like Atthenian demagogues to keep the Demo-cracy in their time-honored base of operations—the Fourth Ward. Several individuals had the audacity to assert that the title of the Tammany Hall property was not good, and that it could not find a purchaser. After a terrible struggle, the question, as proposed, was lost, and the Tammany Hall Democracy are still to remain in the con-censed atmosphere of the Fourth Ward.

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON A CHILD.-A German, named Adam Hufword, was before Alderman Allen this morning, upon the charge of committing an aggravated assault and battery on a little girl, 5 years of age, a daughter of Mrs. Repplier, residing at Fortieth and Ludiow streets.
