ENGLAND. LIVERPOOL, Dec. 8.—Fenian arrests continue all over Ireland. A house in Liver pool has been searched on information being received that Stephens was secreted therein, but it proved a hoax. Geo. Stroud & Co., of Sterling, engaged in New Orleans trade, has suspended. Their liabilities will amount to 100,000 pounds sterling. The assets are largely in excess The conclusion of the trial of Lamirande had revived the protests, in English journals, against the illegality of his extradition in Canada. It is true that he con-Lessed his guilt fully, but exception is nevertheless taken to the irregularity attending his arrest. It is supposed that the matter will receive attention when Parliament meets, and that the Government will be called into account. FRANCE.

XXXIXth Congress-Second Session. To the U.S. Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. SENATE. — Mr. Williams (Oregon) said that the report which he had made from the Committee on Finance on the subject of inreased compensation to the clerks, had been greatly misunderstood. The petition from which the committee asked to be dis-charged was one presented at the last sesfrom the female clerks, and had nothing to do with the petition presented at this session from clerks generally. In consequence of the misunderstanding.

he had a large number of letters from the Clerks, some complaining and some abusive. He had always thought that the rate of com-pensation to the Clerks was too low, and he would not even be influenced in the matter, from the fact that many of these Clerks had belonged to the departmental clubs formed last 'session' in the interests of the Presi-He would, however, inform these Clerks that they were not advancing their cause by writing anonymous letters to members of Congress full of scurrility and 8 COND EDITION. the United States Senate, has been appointed Superintendent of Exports at the pointed Superintendent of Exports at the port of Philadelphia.

THIRD EDITION. The United States Senate, has been appointed Superintendent of Exports at the considered semi-officially connected with the senate. The occasion for this attack was a decision of the Court in regard to the legality of military tribunals. The honor and patriotism of the Judges of the Supreme Court were too high to be impugned. They had no remedy but a suit for alander, but it was not to be supposed that the day, would ever come when they would resort to such a remedy.

Mr. Grimes (Iowa) offered an order to repeal the 48th standing rule of the Senate which excludes from the floor of the Senate all but certain persons named.

Mr. Grimessaid it was formerly not con-sidered Senatorial to introduce unprincipled persons on the floor, but every day now some Senators would introduce their friends bere, and if the rule was not observed in regard to one, it should not be observed for all. The order was laid over.

The joint resolution introduced by Mr. Ross, to provide a republican government for the rebel States, was taken up.
Mr. Ross addressed the Senate at length on the subject: The resolution was then referred to the Joint Committee on Reconstruction.

Mr. Stewart, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported favorably the resolution to print 5,000 copies of the last report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in the German, French and Swedish languages, to be distributed under the di-rection of the Secretary of State at the Paris Exposition, and 5,000 copies for the use of the Senate. Laid over.

Mr. Wilson (Mass.) offered a joint resolution authorizing the President of the United States to prevent the infliction of corporeal punishment. The President was requested to inform the Senate whether any U.S. troops have been sent to the interior of Missouri since the first of December, 1866, and if so, whether any request has been made for their presence by the Executive or Legislature of The Nebraska bill was then taken up, when Mr. Edmunds (Vt.) addressed the House.—Mr. Spaulding (Ohio), rose to a personal explanation, and called attention to an article which appeared in the Chronicle f the 19th, relative to a resolution purporting to have been introduced by him (Mr. paulding). Mr. Spaulding said he had introduced no such resolution as that attributed to him. All he had introdued was a resolution instructing the Committee on the Judiciary to inquire into the expediency of adopting measures for the admission of the Southern members, upon their acceptance of the Constitutional Amendments: If Mr. s, had introduced the measure attributed to him by the Chronicle, he would have been guilty of deliberate stultification, and he desired now to say for the benefit of the cditor and all others that he adhered to the Constitutional Amend ment, and he thought that if it were ratified by three-fourths of the States represented, it would become part of the Constitution of the land. Yet be would have the so-called Legislature of the rebel States adopt it as an earnest of loyalty. If it were possible for the amendment to be ratified by all but one of the loyal States sufficient to make the number two-thirds and a sufficient number of the late disloyal States voted, so as to make the number two-thirds, he, Mr. S., desired to say plainly, that he would not consider the dment legally ratified until a specified act of Congress were passed to meet the case, for he could not recognize the late rebel-communities as States of this Union. [To the New York Associated Press.]

Mr. Stevens (Pa.), at a subsequent stage of the proceedings, said that he had intended, perhaps irregularly, to say a word in reference to the position of Mr. Spalding. He would only say now that he thought the argument of the editor altogether the better of the two, and perfectly con-clusive. While he would not charge the gentleman (Mr. Spalding) with being the author of the resolution, he thought the doctrine implied in it was the most pernicious that could possibly be brought to obstruct the final free reconstruction of the Govern-ment, but he would not go into the argument now, as the gentleman (Mr. Spalding) was not in his seat. He had only thought it proper to say so much in favor of the argument of one who could not appear here himself, and which he deemed conclu-sive and entirely more satisfactory than that of the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. Williams (Pa.), from the Committee on the Judiciary, read a report in the case of the arrest and detention under civil proess of Charles D. Culver, Representative from the Twentieth District of Pennsylvania, proving by reference to Parliamen-tary history and precedents, that such arrest and detention was a breach of privilege, and closing with a reso-lution directing the Speaker to issue bis warrant to the Sergeant-at-Arms, com-manding him to deliver forthwith the Hon. Charles V. Culver, detained in a civil suit from the custody of the sheriff or jailors o Venango county, or any other person or persons presuming to hold or detain him. and to make return to the House of such warrant, with the manner of its execution.

The resolution was adopted.
Mr. Delano, on leave, introduced a joint resolution, directing, that until otherwise ordered it should be unlawful for any officer. account, claim, or demand against the Go vernment, carin, or demand against the Government, accruing prior to April 10th, 1861, in favor of any person who promoted, encouraged, or in any way sustained the late rebellion. sny way sustained the face receiving, or in favor of any person who, during such rebellion, was not known to be opposed thereto and distinctly in favor of its suppression. The joint resolution was read three times and passed.

Mr. Stevens offered the following: Resolved. That a committee of seven be appointed to report a bill to establish a system of free common schools in the District of Columbia, from which no child six years old or more residing in said district shall be excluded, except for improper conduct. The schools are to be supported by taxes impartially levied on the assessable property of the District, together with such fixed annual appropriations as Congress may grant. Adopted.
On motion of Mr. Donnelly (Minn.) the Secretary of War was requested to communicate the report of Major General Warren, of the surveys made under his super during the past season, of the Upper Mississippi river and its tributaries, including the Minnesota, Connor and Zambro rivers, with a view to the improvement of the navigation of the same. Mr. Morrill, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported back the Senate inint resolution in relation to the settlement of the accounts of W. P. Wingate, collector of the port of Bangor, Maine. Read three times and passed.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the State of Union, Mr. Welker, in the chair, on the President's annual Mr. Hise (Ky) resumed his argument against the power of Congress to territorialize the lately rebellious States.
