DARING BURGLARY.

One of the heaviest burglaries ever perpetrated in this city, occurred last night, at the store of Messrs. W. S. Cochran & Co., Wine merchants, No. 324 Walnut street.

During the night the premises were entered and the fire-proof safe, which is built into the wall in the ordinary way was entered, not by picking or blowing open the lock, but by breaking through the solid brick wall, an operation which must have required an hour or two of hard work.

The boxes, drawers, &c., containing the valuable property of the firm, were carried into the store, broken open, and their contents thoroughly overhauled, and the robbers made their escape with booty amounting to about $100,000. The principal part of the plunder consisted of coupon bonds, and railroad and other stocks, Most of these securities were enclosed in envelopes on which the numbers were endorsed. and the burglars, whose work was otherwise done with all the deliberation of old and experienced hands, seem to have overlooked this most important clue to the recovery of the property.

Amongst the stolen securities are:

Six $1,000 six per cent. Delaware Division bonds, numbered 70, 73, 79, 530, 531, and 532.

$5,000 in Union Canal bonds, and $4,000 in City sixes.

$11,000 in ten per cent. coupon bonds of the North Pennsylvania Railroad.

$14,000 in seven per cent. bonds of the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad.

Four six per cent. $1,000 bonds of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, endorsed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and numbered 112, 1,048, 1,319 and 432.

About $50,000 in Pennsylvania and Reading stocks and $5,000 in Schuylkill Navigation Loan.

A large portion of the stolen property is not in negotiable form, and there is little doubt but that the skill of the detective force will secure the arrest of the audacious burglars and the recovery of the greater portion of their inconvenient plunder.

The burglars helped themselves plentifully from the fine wines and cigars of the Messrs. Cochran, and from the quantity of liquor apparently consumed the police may be able to form some idea of the number of hands engaged in this daring and successful robbery.
