PHILADELPHIA June 21st, 1867.—To the kind courtesy of the Principal of the School, perhaps the connection I bear to one of the young ladies, who is a pupil of it. I am indebted for an invitation to one of the most delightful days of recreation I ever remember to have enjoyed; and I gladly avail myself of this opportunity to express my gratification, as also my appreciation, of the merits of the institution.

Pic-nics, as they are called, are generally wearisome days, if not wasted ones, where a few hours and a large quantity of edibles are consumed, and a large quanto of contract which we return to our respective homes, with worn-out bodies, soiled, if not rent, dresses and tempers, often a little the worse for the day's wear, scarcely able to recall a single circumstance wear, scarcely able to recall a single circumstance to mark the day or the occasion.

In contrast to this, let me describe to you the occurrences of Thursday, the 20th, at the Pic-nic of the Bristol Boarding School. A loveller day never dawned, and a more delightful location than the woods of Bloomsdale (the property of Mr. David Landreth) could not have been selected; the scene they presented as we drove in merits, at least, a description. A short drive through the woods brought us to an opening of perhaps 50 feet square, one side of which was occupied by a platform, a foot or two from the ground, and 15 feet in size, neatly carpeted, upon which were chairs, a table with books, bouquets, &c., on it, and around it benches arranged quets, &c., on it, and around it benches arranged in a semi-circle, that probably accommodated 200 persons or more. This, of course, was sur-rounded with forest trees; but immediately be-hind this platform were two beautiful trees, similar in size and form, to which were attached large flags, most gracefully arranged, ornamented with mottoes, and festooned with wreaths of evergreens, so as to form an entire back-ground to what might be called the entire back-ground to what might be called the stage. At a short distance from this, was another clearing, sufficiently large to accommodate three extensive tables, the central one probably 40 feet long; at each end, at right angles, was another, attached so as to form a Roman capital I. This was most bountiful as well as beautifully set. The centra-piece was a bandsome twenty pound cake. centre-pièce was a handsome twenty pound cake, frosted and ornamented with a Chinese Pagoda, presented to the school by one of its patrons and presented to the sensol by one of its patrons and warmest admirers. Pyramids of oranges, bananas, &c., occupied prominent positions at the various ends; innumerable cakes of various kinds and sizes were interspersed over the table; mounds if not mountains of rolls, biscuit and canditables, applicant to food hundrades hard sandwiches, sufficient to feed hundreds; hams, sandwiches, summent to reed nundreus; hains, tongues, pickles and preserves, all had their places, and fruits and flowers in abundance. So much for the scene, and the promise it gave that our physical wants were all anticipated; not only was there plenty, but great abundance.

But far more interesting and worthy of narra-on was the intellectual treat in store for us; and I scarcely can tell which predominated, surprise or pleasure, as I listened to the various iterary productions of the young ladies of the institution. The exercises commenced at eleven o'clock with a song of greeting by the whole school. Dr. Peirce, who officiated as chairman, then introduced to the audience Mr. Purvis, who made the opening address. I can only say of him, and of it, the one indicated the polished gentleman, the other, the accomplished scholar. Having been introduced to him on a previous occasion, I was not tardy in claiming his recognition. One of the graduating class was then in-troduced—Miss Mary Seamen of Long Island, the subject of whose essay was "Change." As she announced her subject, the thought crossed my mind, "What can a young lady say upon this nything but what is trite or common-place?" I listened for ten minutes to an article that would have done credit to one twice her age, and which indicated considerable literary research, with carnestness of thought and feeling. After another song and chorus Miss Maria Abbott, of Crosswicks, N. J., was introduced. Her theme was "The Influence of Woman," and most earnestly and impressively did she point out her duties and her privileges; did she point out her duties and her privileges; and you felt as you looked at her calm, serious, though youthful face, that she felt all she said, and would live up to it. Next came Miss Mulford, of Millville, N. J. Her subject was a noble one—"Life;" and nobly did she estimate it—not "as a tragedy full of sad sights and sore catastrophies," but rather as a graduated scale, measuring its worth for Heaven not by years but by deeds. She felt that "Life is real,"—"Life is earnest." I could have said as I looked on those fair young girls.

fair young girls,
"Life is before ye—and as now ye stand, Eager to spring upon the promised land,
Fair smiles the way where yet your feet have trod
But few light steps upon a flowery sod;
Round ye are youth's green bowers—and to your eyes

The horizon's line but joints the earth and skies; Daring and triumph, pleasure, fame and joy, Friendship unwavering, love without alloy— Brave thoughts of noble deeds, and glory won, Like angels, beckon ye to venture on

Miss Gertrude Y. White, of Salem, N. J., was introduced, and delivered the yaledictory. She briefly reviewed the years passed at school, the privileges and pleasures all had enjoyed, gratefully acknowledging the kind instruction so faithfully and so ably imparted, hoped that the seed had not fallen on barren soll, as future fruit would testify, bidding a graceful and affectionate farewell to teachers and scholars, and most touchingly alluding to the scholars, and most touchingly alluding to the venerable heads of the family of which she had so long been a member. All acquitted themselves admirably. Dr. Peirce then addressed to the graduating class a few appropriate remarks, in his usual happy manner. Their diplomas were presented by Miss Peirce, the Principal of the presented by Miss Peirce, the Principal of the school, after which the graduates sang a parting song, to which the under-graduates responded, all joining in the chorus of "Farewell." This was to have concluded the exercises, but some few remarks were afterwards made by appreciative guests. We then obeyed the summons to the feast prepared for us, and ample justice was done to it. The afternoon was spent in music, conversation, &c., and a most beautiful recitation of "Barbara Freitchie," by a young lady who was present. Thave heard it often before, but never so exquisitely rendered.

Refreshments were then handed around, and with mutual expressions of pleasure and gratifiwith mutual expressions of pleasure and gratifi-cation, we bade farewell to friends and Blooms-

THE COURTS.

QUARTER SESSIONS-Judge Peirce.-Assault and battery cases were taken up in this court this morning, and a number disposed of. Most of them grew out of dispute between neighbors.

QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Ludlow.—The court did not meet until half-past eleven o'clock, Judge Ludlow being required to hold a Registers' Court at ten o'clock.

James Rogers was charged with entering counting-house at America and Master streets, with intent to rob. There was no testimony except that a man was seen in the doorway, and when saluted ran away. Subsequently the defeudant was found in a store yard in the neighborhood, but he was not identified as the man seen in the doorway. Verdict, not guilty.

A WATER-SPOUT.—A few days ago a water-spout of considerable magnitude passed over Elford, near Tamworth, England. Its course was marked by the destruction of boughs of trees, &c., and the top of a barn was carried off by it. In its spassage across the river there it took up a vast body of water, leaving the bed of the stream visible for a few moments.

The Cable.—Some of the proprietors of the Atlantic Telegraph stock in England are making efforts to obtain a weekly publication of the receipts by the Cable. They urge that the interests involved are considerable, and that the desired publication would tend very materially to assure those most concerned of the actual position of their securities.

COSTLY ORANGE TREES.—The Brussels papers report that the King of Belgium purchased at the Horticultural Exhibition of Paris twenty magnificent orange trees, which cost each, it is said four thousand francs. They have arrived at Lacken, and are intended to adorn the royal park.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE WALNUT .- Mr. Joseph Jefferson will appear again this evening in the musical extravaganza of Mazeppa, after which the farce of Lend Me Five Shillings will be presented, with Jefferson as "Golightly," and Miss Susan Denin as "Mrs. Major Phobbs."

THE ABOR.—The pantomime of Jack and Gill, which met with such remarkable success at this theatre some months ago, will be placed upon the stage again this evening. The mere announcement of this capital piece should fill the house."

CITY NOTICES.

NEVER was an enterprise more encouraged han that now being successfully carried out by the Washington Library Company for the benefit of the Riverside Institute of New Jersey. As soon as the necessary funds are forthcoming, and from present appearances the day is not far distant, the doors of the Institute will be thrown open to the orphans of our deceased soldiers and sailors throughout the country To every one who subscribes to the stock now being offered by the Washington Library Company, is not only awarded a very handsome and finely-executed steel-plate engraving, but a guarantee is made that with each share of stock a present will also be awarded when the great distribution takes place. Every one receives more than the amount invested, and may possibly become the lucky possessor of some of the very valuable prizes published in the schedule of

A CURIOUS LETTER FROM QUEEN VICTORIA AND LOUIS NAPOLEON TO MR. SEWARD.

Windson, June 18, 1867.

Dear Sir: It has come to our ears that a certain Maximilian, Emperor of your sister Republic, Mexico, s now in the hands of some insurgents of that tronblous empire. It is also rumored that there is a possibility of his being shot—a proceeding, it is needless to say, wholy repugnant to the refined feelings of a gentleman, connected, as he is, with some of the first courts of Europe. I, therefore, with my royal brother, Napoleon III., implore of you that you use the influence of your great Republic to have our royal brother Maximilian put into some Mexican Fortress Monroe for a season, instead of being shot! for, to a nature like his, this debasement-will be, if anything, greater punishment.

We feel the more confident in making this appli cation to you, as you have served one so whom your country and the world at one time thought a great

BALTIMORE IMPROVED BASE PARTIES FIRE-PLACE HEATER

MAGAZINE & LLUMINATING DOORS., The most Cheerini and Portest Heater in FIRE-PLACE or BASEMENT HEATERS are comparatively little known in this country, excepting in a few-cities, having been first introduced into BALTIMORE, some twelve years since, and, in their use, for some years confined mostly to that city and WASHING FON. Within the last six years, these BALTIMORE BASE BUINING FIRE-PLACE HEATERS have been extensively used in PHILADELP'IIA and vacinity, for leating moderate size houses, and they have proved to be the REST HEATER ever introduced in this market, for heating TWO, THREE or FOUR Rooms, connected with one chimney.

ing TWO, THREE or FOUR Rooms, connected with one chiomey.

They have a large illuminating Surface, which adds much to their beauty, giving them the advantages of an OPEN GRATE FIRE.

These HEATERS have a MAGAZINE or SUPPLY CHAMBER for coals, which insures a constant fire and even temperature, and sayes much trouble.

They are also a sperfect BASE BURNING HEATER. Are much more desirable than GRATES or STOVES, requiring less coal and attention.

They are equally as well suffed to the COUNTRY as CITY, placing them in the SITTING OF DINING ROOMS, and heating one or more rooms above.

These ministure FURNACES are set in the FIRE-PLACE, and the heat is conveyed through the chimney fluer to the PARLOR and CHAMBERS above, thus heating TWO or THREE ROOMS with one fire.

By adding coal overy TWELVE HOURS the fire may be kept for months; affording a pleasant and agreeable heat at a very low price.
