Nine years are a long time in the life of a nation that grows as ours does. In that pariod we shall expect to see harmony fully re-estab-lished between all sections of the country; industry of all kinds flourishing at the South as well as the North; population growing as it has never before grown; railroads bringing the graduation growing as the graduation the Bacific and the Atlantic coasts as close as the Delaware and the Ohio once were; and above all, the bitterness engendered by the late civil war wholly gone. Then the cen-tenary of Independence will be celebrated over a territory whose area no one will now dare to estimate. For are there not visions of the annexation of Mexico and of British America, which may be fulfilled before the year 1876 arrives?

It is enough, however, now to know that, on the Fourth of July, 1867, the Republic is even greater than it was a year ago; that a mock empire, which was an insult and a menace to us on our Southern border, has been destroyed; and that on our Northern even greater that in the source of the press feederal Republic. bein the great Federal Republic. bein the penitentiary. bei federal system, which may facilitate a futureabsorption into the great Ecderal Republic.That all who read this and rejoice with us atthe ever-advancing and triamphant progressof real Republican principles, may celebratethe one hundredth Fourth of Jaly, and a greatmany beside, is our hearty wish, on this evethe counsel that all in the witness room shouldbe in the penitentiary.That all in the witness room shouldbe in the penitentiary.That all who read this and rejoice with us atthe ever-advancing and triamphant progressof real Republican principles, may celebratethe one hundredth Fourth of Jaly, and a greatmany beside, is our hearty wish, on this eveTo this Mr. Merrick responded that he feltit due to say that his remark was not intendedbighest respect for General Grant and Mr.Seward, but he apprehended that the witSeward, but he apprehended that the witterms dread was whow to whom the remarkMCALLAS NEW HAT STORE, NORTHEASTMCALLAS NEW HAT STORE, NORTHEASTSeward, but he apprehended that the witSeward, but he apprehended that the witSeward, but he apprehended that the witHOYS' STRAW HATS -THE LARGEST VA-Seward, but he apprehended that the witHOYS' STRAW HATS -THE LARGEST VA-Seward, but he apprehended that the witHOYS' STRAW HATS -THE LARGEST VA-Seward, but he apprehended that the witHOYS' STRAW HATS -THE LARGEST VA-HATS -THE ARGEST VA-HATS -THE ARGE

POLICEMAN STABLED.—A man hamed Pat. For rest, halling from New York, was arrested last evening by Policeman C.C. Matthews, at Sixth and evening by Policeman C.C. Mathews, at Sixin and Spring Garden streets, for drunkenness. The prisoner proceeded along Spring Garden street very quictly until he reached Twelfth street, when he suddenly plunged a knife into the right shoulder of Matthews, causing a wound about three inches in length. The officer fell upon re-ceiving the injury, but the prisoner was at once seized by two citizens and was taken to the Eighth District Police Station. This morning Forrest had a hearing before Alderman Massey, and was committed in default of $1,500 bail to answer at Court.
