The testimony of Doctor Romes could not but satisfy the jury that the President's death ensued as the result of the shooting by Booth, and this settles the second proposition: that the wound the deceased received caused his death. The third proposition is: Does it appear that the assault and death were the result of a conspiracy, f which the prisoner at the bar was member, and that is the great question. for if it appears that the death was the result of a conspiracy, no matter for what other purposes that onspiracy was formed, then was it murder, and God grant that the day will never come when an American or English judge will ever decide that such an act is not murder. But suppose Weichman was an accomplice? If he turned and repented, that was his conciliation. During this conspiracy Weichman met the officers face to face. He told them all he knew. He pursued the prisoner, and, like a true Amerian citizen, he comes here and testifies against 5 103 k him. It must be remembered that Weichman remonstrated with Mrs. Surratt, and she replied that John was with this party, and Booth was crazy upon one subject. But has Weichman been contradicted in any one material point? He (Mr. Carrington) defied the defence to point to one prominent fact wherein Weichman has been contradicted by any credible witness in behalf of the prisoner.

Mr. Carrington read from Greenleaf to show that if a man is an accomplice and repents during the conspiracy, he is relieved from all reponsibility, but being not connected with it. and giving information, shows that he had no connection with the conspiracy. He gives all information as soon as possible. The defence has, finally, failed to prove that Weichman was placed under arrest. In relation to the conversation at the theatre, he is confirmed by Miss Fitzpatrick. Weichman's testimony in relation to Payne and Surratt practising with bowie knives was here read, and Mr. Carrington said this was also uncontradicted. Again, when Weichman received a mysterious telegram from Booth, and asked Surratt what it meant, he is told not to be o inquisitive, and is given no satisfaction. Couple this with the fact of Surratt's immediate visit to the Herndon House, and it shows that Surratt and Booth were endeavoring to secure a hiding-place for Louis Payne.
