Fifth—The Union Pacific Railroad bonds can be issued only as the road progresses, and therefore can never be was a rehearsal at Teutonia Hall, and that there only as the road progresses, and therefore can never be in the market unless they represent a bona fide property.

Sixth—Their amount is strictly limited by law to a sum equal to what is granted by the United States Government, and for which it takes a second lien as its security. This amount upon the first 517 miles west from Omaha is only $\frac{1}{2}$ All the angle $\frac{1}{2}$ were round tables there, and in this Vanderpool is corroborated.

Mr. Pierrepont then referred to the testimony of John Lee, who swears he recognized Surratt on April 14th, and he says Surratt had then no appropriate the control of the amount upon the first 517 miles west from Omana is only $15,000 per mile.

Strenth—The fact that the United States Government considers a second lieu upon the road a good investment, and that some of the shrewdest railroad builders of the country have already paid in five million dollars upon the stock (which is to them a third lien), may well inspire is not positive, but he thinks the prisoner is the man.
