UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA, DEPART MENT OF ARTS. MENT OF ARTS.

SEPTEMBER 4, 1887.

The Trustees of the University have authorized the Faculty of Arts to make certain changes in the course of set dies required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This will emable all, who desire such a liberal education as will fit them, whether for professional or other pursuits, to secure it, under a plan of elective studies, which will offer to the student all the advantages either of the system which formerly obtained, or of that generally regarded as the more practical.

fudent all the savantages of a thorough scientific and formerly obtained, or of that generally regarded as the more practical.

While all the advantages of a thorough scientific and classical course will be continued, as heretofore, to those who desire it, the new plan provides that the student, at the beginning of the junior year, may elect, in the place of advanced Greek and Latin studies and the higher branches of Mathematics and Physical Science, a more extended course in the English language and its Literature, in History, Belegice apapplied to the useful arts, and in the French, German, Italian, and Spanish languages.

The object of the Trustees in making these changes in the College course, is to provide in the University full and complete opportunities for acquiring an education that will either, on the one hand, satisfy those whose tastes dead them to the highest cultivation of the ancient languages and their literature, of physical science, and pure mathematics; or, on the other, to meet the wishes of those who desire to be fitted, by a thorough practical education, for an earlier entrance into active business slife.

Two Southern Letters Urging Compli-ance with the Requirements of Con-

Gen. Rufus Barringer, late an officer in the Confederate army, publishes a letter in the Charlotte (N. C.) News, explaining why he does not resent being called a Radical, saying that he has been no sudden convert. He says that for two years he has breasted the odium of negro suffrage as a logical result of the war, and he now believes had his views been heeded, the South would be better off. From April to August, 1865, he was at the North a prisoner of war, and while there he made it a special object to study the tone and temper of the Northern people. The conclusions he came to were: first, that the masses here of all classes are disposed to treat the South kindly, and even liberally if the people and especially the leaders is ome up fairly and squarely to the great results of the war; secondly, that no sane man could doubt that negro suffrage was destined to grens. could doubt that negro suffrage was destined to come in some form, which was, after all, only point he says: This great party embraced the live men of the This great party embraced the live men of the North. It, was the principles and policy of that organization, in some form or other, that had built up that section and made an empire in a day. They had managed to combine with consummate ability, the liberal theories of Jefferson, with the solid strength and plastic vigor of Hamilton. It was the vitalizing influence of this party that had brought the war to a successful classe, and thus saved their people, preserved the Union, maintained the Government and shed lustre and renown on the Northern name. It would be monstrous for these same people suddenly to turn their backs on the men and measures of this triumphant party, and commit the honor of this trium hant party, and commit the honor of their cause, the fate of their colored allies, the safety of Southern Unionists, the hopes of the rejoicing millions of Europe, and their three thousand millions of national debt

The yery existence of the South required her to acquiesce in, if she could not sanction, the policy of this victorious party, as the best representative of the conquering power. But for myself. I came to the conclusion, after all reflection, that the highest interests of the South would be promoted by her both the power and will to control the whole question of reconstruction. We now understand what is required of us as conditions precedent to our full restoration to our position in the Union and the protection in the Constitution. I think we should promptly accept the terms proposed and render the Military Bill "inoperative in said State." All who are allowed a vote should vote "for a Convention," and the best men they can get as delegates to that Convention, "who will appreciate our condition, and do for us the best that circumstances surrounding them at the time will permit." By pursuing this course, our political affairs will soon be quiet, capitat and skilled labor will come into our state, and ere long Georgia will again be properly designated as an "Empire State." Our people, thus becoming prosperous, will have the means to reward labor as it deserves, and they will cheerfully do so. They can establish a system which will enable our active population to receive the benefit of a common school education. Such would be a "consummation devoutly to be wished." I hope the time is not far distant when every citizen of Georgia will possess the means of pro-curing the rudiments of a good English education. It is the duty of the whites to facilitate the education of the colored; and the duty of all is to cultivate relations of amity and friendship, as neighbors having a common interest and common destiny. The legislation which will benefit the white man will benefit the colored, and rice versa. By acting upon the true theory that we are all one people in interest, peace and harmony will prevail, the laborer will be amply rewarded for his toils, and the country will b

The Water-Spout at New Castle. The Wilmington Commercial, of yesterday, has the following account of the water-spout that poured over New Castle on Thursday last:

Yesterday, about 1 o'clock, the people of our into serious alarm by the advent of a most extraordinary visitor, which came very suddenly from the clouds. It was first observed, as an intelligent eye-witness informs us, opposite the town, on the New Jersey side of the river. From the surface of the water there arose an enormous cone of cloud of from forty to sixty teet in diameter at the base, very dense, very dark. From an overhanging surcharged thunder cloud in the sky there depended a similar cone and the apexes of the two met. The sky at the time was not clear, the run was obscured, but there was no rain falling nor any general shower. The water in the two cones was violently in motion whiting round.

nor any general shower. The water in the two cones was violently in motion whirling round and round with the greatest rapidily, and making a loud-noise. It appeared to be caught up from the river in great volume, and portions which fell back in spray, shone and sparkled brightly; making the whole spectacle most beautiful, though terrifying to the beholder.

The spout moved rapidly across the river, taking, perhaps, some ten or fifteen minutes to reach this side. It entered the town of New Castle on the upper side, and struck first a frame dwelling on the river bank, occupied by acclored family. The force of the shock was tremendous, yet the column of water did not envelop the bouse, but rather brushed against it. The weather-boarding was torn off, every window bursted, and boarding was torn off, every window bursted, and the frame studding of the building wrenched out of place. The fence around was torn loose and carried away. After this exploit it passed on, across the lots, towards the shops of Mr. John Churnside, tearing up fences and everything that come in its way; fortunately for Mr. Churnside, it passed to the north of his shops, thereby escapling a very heavy loss of property and perhaps life; the edge of the Maelstrom, however, reached some wagons, drills and mowing machines, standing at the end of the shop. A two-horse express wagon was picked up, carried several rode, and after being tossed about in every conceivable manner was through out of the rooting. ccivable manner was thrown out of the roaring vortex, broken almost to atoms.

Another dearborn was drawn in and torn to Another dearborn was drawn in and torn to pieces. A large heavy grain drill was gathered up and set down on the opposite side of the road. Near here, a little child was picked up and carried some distance—perhaps a hundred feet—over the fence into a neighboring yard, where it was set down uniquired. As it crossed the road immense clouds of dust and other matter ware has set down uninjured. As it crossed the road immense clouds of dust and other matter were caught up and whirled around with the water.

The hurricane—or whatever it might now be called—proceeded on its way up the meadow of Mr. Janvier, taking up everything that came in the way of its progress; horses and cattle making good time to get out of its way. The storm now appeared to be on the decrease. The cylindric funnel had almost disappeared, and yet while we stood and watched its progress up the meadow, a couple of trees which had withstood the tempests of ages were torn up by the roots and thrown aside.

FROM NEW YORK.

New York, September 7th.—On Thursday morning the ferrymen and others on the Jersey side of Courtlandt street ferry were startled by seeing a young woman leap overboard from the ferry bridge. Her object was doubtless to cut short a wretched existence, but the ferry hands rescued her. Her name is Phoebe A. Caddick, and she claims to be the wife of Professor Emil Darnstadt, whom she had caused to be agreeted that very day on a charge of bigto be arrested that very day on a charge of bigamy. The case is complicated, but the principal facts appear to be as follows: In March, 1866, Miss Caddick married the Professor. knowing at Miss Caddick married the Professor. knowing at the time, it is said, that he had a wife living in Europe. They dwelt together as husband and wife nearly 18 months, during which period she bore a daughter, of whom Herr Darnstadt is the reputed father. Suddenly, however, the Professor's first wife arrived in New York, and her unlooked-for advent was the beginning of trouble for wife number two; but the cup of her sorrows was filled to overflowing by the fickleness and infidelity of her husband; for he now sought to take advantage of the invalidity of his second marriage, and to cast off Phœbe, so that he might make room for a new rival named Miss Lizzie Fosselman. But Miss C. Pliebe, so that he might make room for a new rival named Miss Lizzie Fosselman. But Miss C. was not to be thus easily shuffled off. The moment she heard of the Professor's design, she determined to bafile him, by causing his arrest for bigamy. This case broke down, however, since Darnstadt was able to show that his first wife had some time before obtained a divorce from him. So he was liberated and left free to presents his guit was liberated and left free to prosecute his sui with the girl Fosselman. Phebe now threatened personal violence to Lizzie if she persisted in en tion made Phebe the aggressor, and so Miss Fos selman obtained a warrant for her arrest, on re ceiving intelligence of which she attempted suicide as above. Dr. Harris, the Registrar of Vital Statistics, ha sent a communication to the Board of Health urging them and our citizens to furnish money and aid promptly to the districts in the South in fected with yellow fever.

The Internal Revenue Department has received information of grave import regarding certain alleged heavy frauds in the whicky revenue in New York and Brooklyn, which implicates, among others, five internal revenue collectors. The safe arrival of the Right Rev. Bishop Lamy and party, who were falsely represented to have been massacred by the Indians, has already been announced. The following letter, printed in the Catholic Telegraph, gives an interesting account of their perilous journey:

Santa Fe, New Mexico, Aug. 19, 1867.—
Very Reverend Dear Brother: At last we have reached Santa Fe, after a tedlous, futiguing, hard and dangerous journey of 62 days across the Plains. During the first 150 miles we had rainy and stormy weather. Then for 200 miles the cholera raged, from which a great many died in almost every train; in the company with which we traveled ten were carried off by that dreadful plague.

We had also two attacks from the savages; in the second attack the fight lasted nearly three hours; the savages averaged, I suppose, about three hundred warriors, all well mounted, yelling and shooting at us as they passed at full gallop. We had in our company nearly one hundred men, well armed; we were protected on one side by the Arkansas river, and we had formed a circle the Arkansas river, and we had formed a circle with our 80 wagons or vehicles, which pass by the common name of corral, and makes a good rampart against an enemy. Though the balls fell like hall on our camp, sometimes for five minutes at a time, yet, owing to a special protection of God, we had nobody killed, some few wounded, but not dangerously. The savages lost six chiefs, who were carried away by their own warriors; no doubt many of them must have been wounded. The young Julius Mossett, a very promising young man, who was coming, with us to New Mexico, died of cholera while we were fighting with the Indians, on the 22d of July, and the youngest sister of the Loretto died on the 24th of the same month from fright, as I considered it, caused by the attack of as I considered it, caused by the attack of the savages. She was only 18 years old, well edu-cated, and a model of virtue. Thus Almighty God was pleased to send many trials, but we arrived on the evening of the 15th instant, and though it was muddy and raining at the time, more than 2,000 people came to meet us, and some came eight miles. All our sisters are well. Those I brought from the States are agreeably disappointed to find here flourishing establishments with more commodities than they ex-pected to see with adobe buildings. Adobes are large mud bricks, sun-dried; they are put in the wall with mud. Such is the material of our buildings here.

I hope the Most Reverend Archbishop will soon return, and in good health. Your devoted in Xt., Bishop of Santa Fe, N. M.

CITY BULLETIN.

HOUSE ROBBERY AND RECOVERY OF STOLEN PROPERTY.—Yesterday morning a citizen observed three men leaving a house at Thirty-third and Haverford streets, the occupants of which are absent from the city. The men had with them a lot of silverware, and the citizen, suspecting that all was not right, pursued them to the West Philadelphia Water Works, where they got penned in Policemen Osborn, of the Ninth District, was sent for, and arrested the fellows. The stolen silverware was found in their possession. The prisoners were taken before Ald. Hutchinson, but as there was no person to make a charge of robbery, they were held to keep the JUVENILE THIEF .- A boy named Gilmer was arrested a few days ago for malicious mischief in breaking shrubbery, trees &c., in a yard at Nineteenth and Locust streets, and was held to keep the peace. Yesterday the same youth sneaked into a store on Bank street, and carried off a box of suspenders. A policeman, who knew him, observed him carrying the box, and gave chase, but did not succeed in capturing him. The suspenders were recovered, having been thrown into a church yard at Fourth and Pine streets. Gilmer was arrested this morning will have a hearing at the Central Station this

The season at Cape May is at an end. The members of Hassler's bands have returned from their engagement at the Columbia House and Congress Hall. The season was brilliant and lively. The balls, concerts, and in fact all musical entertainments were excellently attended, this being mainly due to Mr. Hassler's good man-agement of amusements at the above-named hotels. Great credit is due him for the faithful per formance of the arduous duty—to keep two grand hotels in a continued blaze of life and hilarity—and it cannot be denied that he is a superior manager and also a very lucky one.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY .- About two o'clock this morning an attempt was made to break into the house of B. J. Leedom, at Bluffland, Germantown. The burglars tore the wire from the dining-room window, forced up the sash, and with a hickory pay (which they left upon the premises), broke the inside shutter, which was fastened with a bar. The fragments were scattered over the floor and made a loud noise, thus arousing the inmates. The fierce barking of a dog, which is always in the hall, scared the villains, who escaped without securing any booty.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.—Last evening, about six o'clock, a pedlar went into a house at Girard avenue and Shackamaxon street. He spread his goods on a table in order to allow an examinagoods on a table in order to anow an examina-tion. A man named James C. Lenning, who was present, commenced to scatter the articles on the floor. The pedlar remonstrated, when he was kicked by Lenning and severely injured. Len-ning, it is alleged, drew a pistol and threatened to blow out the pedlar's brains if he made any more fuss. He was arrested, and taken before Ald. Shoemaker, and was committed to prison.

STREET WALKERS ARRESTED .- Complaint having been made to the Mayor in relation to the disorderly women who promenade nightly on Tenth street, between Walnut and Spruce streets. last night Lieutenant Connelly sent a squad of men out, and fifteen females were captured be-tween Walnut and Locust streets. The prisoners were taken before Alderman Swift this morning. Five were committed for thirty days, and the others were held to bail to keep the peace. A SUNDAY SCHOOL Teachers' Institute, under Association, will be held at the West Arch Street Church, Rev. A. A. Willits, D. D., Pastor, beginning on Tuesday evening, September 10th, and continuing during Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings. Eminent and practical Sunday School men, both from this State and other States, will be present and take part in the proceedings.

A SAVAGE FELLOW .- An individual named Edward Jones was arrested last night at Frankford road and Hanover street, for being drunk. He turned upon and upset Officer Irwin. Officer O'Brien, who went to the assistance of Irwin, was also assaulted. After being locked up Jones destroyed all the woodwork in the cell, and this morning he was so violent that he had to be handcuffed and carried to the prison van.

HEAVY HAUL OF VALUE By order of the Mayor, the Second District Police made a raid through Baker, Bedford and Spafford streets, about one o'clock this morning. The vagrants found were all driven into a yard, and kept there until the arrival of the prison vans, when one hundred were sent to prison, and fifteen, who could not be accommodated in the wagons, were

BASE BALL MATCH .- The Union Base Ball Club. of Lansingburg, N. Y., will play a match game this afternoon with the Quaker City Club, on the grounds at Twenty-first and Jefferson streets. The New Yorkers have their headquarters at the American Hotel, opposite Independence Hall. They are not dismayed by their defeat by the Athletics yesterday afternoon, and feel confident of success to-day.

CAPE ISLAND.—The present month is one of the most desirable to spend on the sea-shore for those who seek for health. The rush being over. comfort can be secured at any of the hotels, and the temperature of the water at this season renders the bathing delightful. The Sunday train continues until the closing out of the season, leaving Market street 7 A. M., and returning, leaves the Island at 5 P. M.

RESIGNED.-Frank C. Hampton, Lieutenant of Police in the Second District, resigned his position this morning. He was on the force during almost the entire term of Mayor Henry, and was continued by Mayor McMichael. He has been a faithful officer, and has discharged his duties with entire satisfaction to the citizens of his district.

LARCENY.-Henry McKnight, colored, was arrested yesterday and taken before Alderman Morrow, on the charge of having stolen sixty vards of shirting from a box on the wharf of the Boston Steamship Company, at the foot of Pine street. He was seen to break open the box and carry off the goods. He was held in $1,000 ball to answer at Court.

House Robbery .- The dwelling of Hon. Leonard Myers, No. 604 North Sixth street, has been entered within the past few days by a back door and completely ransacked. It is supposed that many articles have been stolen. Mr. Myers is in Europe, and his family are not in the city.

RECKLESS DRIVING .- John Wagner, driver of furniture car, was arrested yesterday at Fourth and Brown streets, for He was taken before Alderman Shoemaker, was fined and held in $500 bail to keep the peace.

CAPE MAY.—The Columbia House at Cape May, will receive guests until Monday, September 9, upon which day the house will be closed for this season.

The Indianapolis Herald's prize-fight reporter says: "Take a half-brick, hurl it with all your might into the flank of an ox, and you have your might into the hand of the Oal and you have a fair representation of the 'thud' which followed one of McCoole's 'rib-roasters.'" He also re-marks: "McCoole preferred to fight in this State; marks: "McCoole preferred to fight in this state, hear Lawrenceburg. There is an on dif to the effect that the worthy Sheriff of Butler County tendered the party the freedom of his bailiwick, and told them they might fight in the court-house square, if they wanted to. All he asked was a front seat and a free ticket."
