I do not mean to assert that the Board of Return Judges can revise or correct what the Board of Return Judges whether the return presented is from the township or precinct, and not a more manufactured or bogus return. If the latter, it is their duty to discard it, and so here this should have been done. Every man knew, or ought to have known, I think, that the condition of things under which soldiers were allowed, by the act of 1864, to vote wherever they might be was long ago at an end. No such soldiers anywhere existed. It was, in my judgment, their duty to discard such a return. They were not to count them because they were certified by the Prohonotary of the Common Pleas, who perhaps hurifiely and inconsiderately certified them to the Return Judges from excluding any district or precinct returns when they appear sufficiently distinct to be computed, and the act allowing the return of soldiers votes, to be counted places them on the same sceneral footing; but in that, as in the other, the Return Judges must determine whether it be such a return as belongs to the jurisdiction they are exercising. Nay, more, they must look and see that it is a return of soldiers' votes, to be count a return of soldiers' votes. The return of soldiers' votes in the idea of the property of the Count of the Board.
