ANOTHER TREMPHETOR PHILADELPHIA.-It is an undisputed fact that Philadelphia leads every other city upon the continent, in the extent, variety and excellence of its manufactures. It is a matter of personal pride with all of our citizens, that whenever Philadelphia workmanching is brought into competition with that of other cities, our factories always carry off the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors, without any hesitation on the part of the honors and saddlery in this city. Besides all his previous triumplis, Mr. Phillips won the gold medals at the West Chester Fair, the Norristown State Fair, and at the late Fair in Mount Holly. N. J. And these prizes were not unjustly awarded. For durability, elegance of style, beauty of finish and profusion of ornamentation the fine harness displays made cannot be surpassed, and have not been in this country or in Europe. Mr. Phillips and an end of this city to the old world, and he is constantly in receipt of orders from Europe for his groods, which are recognized as superior to those of European manufacturers. The immense increase of business consequent upor this universal recognition of merit, has compelled an increase of facilities for manufacture and sale. Mr. Phillips, with commendable enterprise, has met the demand by erecting a magnificent store on Chestant street, above Twelfth, for his own accommodation. This superb building, one of the largest of its kind in this country, will contain the wholesale and retail rooms and the extensive workshops of the establishment, and will be fitted up in a style of uncqualled beauty. It is a matter for congratulation that our business men, while adding to the other city upon the continent, in the extent, vatablishment, and will be litted up in a style of unequalled beauty. It is a matter for congratulation that our business men, while adding to the reputation of the city as a manufacturing centre, also contribute to its attractiveness by creeting handsome edifices. Mr. Phillips is cutilled to all praise for his enterprise and liberality.

A FIRST-CLASS ESTABLISHMENT .-- It is only under certain circumstances that Franklin's proverb "Three removes are as bad as one fire" is true. An individual may shift his quarters and move into new quarters simply because he desires a change, or his business may increase to such an extent that he will be compelled to seek more change, or his business may increase to such an extent that he will be compelled to seek more ample accommodations, just as a man who grows too stout for his clothes seeks to procure othermore suitable to his proportions. This brings us to speak of the fact that the well-known merchant tailor, Mr. Edward P. Kelly, who for many years as our readers are aware, has been located at No. 612 Chestnut street, has been compelled by the enormous increase of his business, and the consequent demand for larger salesrooms and workshops, to remove to the southeast corner of Seventh and Chestnut streets, where the desired accommodations were to be found. Here Mr. Kelly, after altering and refitting the entire building, has constructed and arranged what may justly be termed a first-class tailoring establishment, capable of meeting even the immense and increasing demands apon its resources. Mr. Kelly has purchased a large stocked of the finest cloths, cassimeres and overcoatings of the latest, styles, which, he is prepared to offer to the public at prices very much below those which rule in the trade generally, and as he makes a specialty of accurate fitting, and cuts his cloth in accordance with the very latest fashions, the public can rely upon obtaining from him garments which will fulfil the highest requirements of dress, in connort, elegance and finish. The central location of Mr. Kelly's new store cannot full to increase his business even to the extent that his enterprise merits. Kelly's new store cannot fail to increase his business even to the extent that his enterprise merits,

SPECIAL SALE OF ELEGANT IMPORTED ARTI-CLES .- Mr. B. Scott, Jr., will sell on Thursday and Friday mornings next, at the Art Gallery, No. 1020 Chestnut street, a large and elegant assortment of alabaster vasus and ornaments, for sortment of alabaster vases and ornaments, for halls, parlors, drawing-rooms and mantels; verde antique; groups and statuettes. French bronzes Bohemian glass. Also, three valuable pieces of Italian marble statuary. An the importation of Messrs. Viti Brothers (late Vito Viti & Sons). The collection will be ready for examination to

ADVERTISING AGENCY .- A general advertising agency for the newspaper press of the whole country has just been opened in the Public Ledger country has just been opened in the Taute Taute Building. It is under the management of Messrs. Wetherill & Smith, who for the properties of a number of Philadelphia journals. Those who patronize papers outside of Philadelphia can secure at this office the names and advertising. rates of all the principal journals throughout the CHALLEN'S CIRCULATING LIBRARY.-Mr. Challen, the proprietor of this popular establishment, has succeeded in makin: one of the finest collections of entertaining and read the books to be found anywhere in the country. Any new volume can be procured here immediately upon its publication, thus affording readers an opportunity to indulge their tastes at a trifling expense, and to secure the most desirable books without delay.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Walnut.—The performance at this theatre last evening was of a thoroughly enjoyable character. Miss Charlotte Thompson appeared as "Anule," in the pleasing drama of Little Bareholt, and was exceedingly well supported by the members of the company. The character of "Amric" is one in which Miss Thompson has gained a well deserved reputation. The style of acting required for the successful personation of the artiess, but brave and true-hearted little barefooted girl is exactly suited to Miss Thompson's capabilities. She has evidently studied the character thoroughly, and in an appreciative spirit, and there has been nothing in this city for a long time in the way of a theatrical entertainment that is better cutitled to the patronage of those who admire genuinely natural and unaffected acting. Indeed, it is Miss Thompson's greatest excellence that she is natural, while at the same time her performances are marked by an case rad grae which belong only to the best style of art. The plot of the drama of Little Barginol is slight, and the chile interest centres in the heroine, who is a poor orphanglel, with a half-witted brother dependant in a great measure upon her care and protection. The aminable disposition, generosity, gooddless and beauty of "Araric" win for her the respect and esteem of a whomet her, and at length embles her to gain the honest affections of a man who is worthy of being her husband. The incidents of the drama are sufficiently interesting to ongage the attention of the audience, while the charming manner in which the "Little Barefoot" is represented secures the heartest applause. Last evening Miss Thompson was twice called before the curtain.

The repordinate characters were, for the most part, the curtain.

The subordinate characters were, for the most part, very well personated. Mr. Mordanni, as "Johannes," the lover, acted with more spirit and better effect than usus. Mr. Fawcett, as "Hans," the brother of "Annie," and Miss Lenn Prentice, as "Rose," acquitted themselves in a manner worthy of commendation.

The audience, aithough not so large as the fine performance deserved, was appreciative and heartly enjoyed the excellent acting. We sincerely hope there will be a fuller attendance during the remainder of Mist Thompson's craggement, as both her delineations of "Ann'e." in Little Bargeont, and "Fanchon," which is to be treduced this week, are well worthy of the wheeling of those playagers who can appreciate attention of those play-goers who can appreciat genuite merit.

The Christian, -Mr. James E. Murdoch will appear
this exting as "Alfred livelyn," in Bulwer's fine
concer of Memoja.

The Area, -Hand fallen will be repeated this evening, with Mr. Fallener and Miss Reignolds in the leading large.

Action of Meso.—The splendid speciacle of The Black Criek will remain but one week longer at the Academy. A number of neverties have been introduced in the shape of mechanical and scenic effects and their doubles. new dances.

THE AMERICAN.—A number of entertaining novelties are offered at the American this occurring. The whole ballet corps will appear with the combination troups. PHILADEL PHIA OPERA Hot ST.—This popular place of amusement offers a splendid bill for this week. Eph Horn and Frank Moran, together with the other Ethiopian stars of the troupe, will indulge in delineations and eccentricities, while songs, dances and burlesques will be produced in profusion.

lesques will be produced in profusion.

ELEVERH STEERT OPERA Hot set.—The great attraction for the present week will be the "Wonderfal Japs and Arabe," who will contort, evolute and flip-flap to an unprecedented extent. This is a most excellent and languable burlesque, and will have deserved popularity.

PHILADELPHIA CIPCIS,—This popular place of amusement, at Tenth and Callowhill streets, will open with a fine company of acrobate and equestrians on Thursday evening, October 17th.

Thursday evening, October 17th,
