American Toy-Makers. The tin toys used in this country are now For Boston---Steamship Line Direct. nearly all made in Meriden, Connecticut, mearly all made in Meriden, Connecticut, where large quantities of tin household goods are also manufactured. It occurred to the makers of these latter that their scraps could be advantageously used for toy objects, and with the advantage of labor-saving machinery, they have driven their German rivals from this market.

Wooden toys of the less fragile kinds are largely manufactured in several Connecticut towns. These consist of children's wheelbarrows, drums, rocking-horses, carriages, carts, blocks, railcars, hoops, sleefs, &c. Many of these objects are also made in this city and Philadelphia.

The new sensation toys, as the dancing negro of a few years back, and the present returning ball and Quaker popgun, are all made here. The patenties of these articles are said to have made fortunes. The railroad train and several other new toys, in great demand when first presented, have also been mines of wealth to those who patented them. The red india-rubber balloons are made in France, and filled here with gas. They are by no means strong, and the gas soon escents.

The stuffed bodies of dolls are made in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, as also the arms; but Germany still sends many.

The arms of stuffed dolls are an especial article of commerce. They are not, like the legs, attached to the bodies, but are sold separately. Families will often make the bodies and legs for their children, but buy the arms, on account of the difficulty of making fingers. The heads are likewise purchased, and are either of French porcelain and finely featured, of German china or papier matche. featured, of German china or papter maché of English wax, of American india rubber, or of a new imitation of papter maché lately patented in Philadelphia.
