The November number of the Atlantic Monthly is full of good things. "The Guardian Angel," by Dr. Holmes, advances to a new period, and becomes more interesting. A Phi Beta Kappa poem, also by him, is clever and ingenious. The econd parts of "The Rose Rollins" and the 'Autobiography of a Quack" (said to be by a Philadelphia physician) are good. "Busy Brains" is a pleasant paper on the habits of authors; and here are good things in the "Opinions of Dr.

Nott." Prof. Lowell, in "A Great Public Character," gives an excellent essay on the late Josiah

Quincy. "The Conspiracy at Washington" gives a severe but just account of President Johnson's wicked and silly proceedings. Mr. Robert P. Nevin contributes a very agreeable article on the late "Stephen C. Foster and Negro Minstrelsy."

There is a touching poem, called "Are the Children at Home?" Several shorter articles and the literary notices keep up well the character of the ing for the Verdict." In the articles "Grotesque

Sonys," "Journalism as a Profession," "Concerning Kissing," and in Mr. Richard Grant White's new instalment on "Words and their Uses," there is useful as well as entertaining reading. "Chromatic Aberration" is a very amusing illustration of the malady of Color-

Blindness. "Our Doctors in the Rebellion," by derived from documents issued from the Surgeon General's office. The poetry and other short felicities of thought and style which have made Miss Thackeray so popular with all intelligent readers. She is manifestly worthy to inherit her father's name, This number of Every Saturday has, besides, interesting sketches of "Charles Baueducation of the orphans of soldiers and sailors who died in the service of the United States, will be ready to commence operations in a month or two. It is located at Riverside, formerly known

MONTEVIDEO, August 29th.—The Provincial Government is forming a plan of colonization of public waste lands west of Buenos Ayres. A treaty in regard to naturalization is about to be formed by the Government of Uruguay with Spain, by virtue of which those Spanish subjects who have resided for ten years in the Depublic, without returning to their home, are entitled to citizenship, and Spain will have no more claim

The construction of a railroad has been authorized by the Emperor of Brazil, and the plan will at once be carried out. The road will have its terminus in the city of Rio Grande de Sul, and is expected to reach the coal regions of Candiota, in the province of San Pedro. The steamship North American, from New York, has landed one hundred and forty-eight emigrants in Montevideo, and five hundred more are expected from Mobile. The American steamship Brooklyn arrived in Bahia on the 6th instant, on her way to the United States. The new monitor Rio Grande was launched at Rio Janeiro on the 17th instant. The Paraguayans had 150 men killed and a great many wounded; an officer and about 20 soldiers have been taken prisoners. The passage of Guru-paity has been forced; the squadron has effected the passage without being injured by the numer-ous torpedoes, which the skill of the pilots has avoided. The Alleged Defalcation in Troy.

Thoy, Oct. 18, 1857.—In the matter of alleged dedictions in the ex-Computoller's accounts in the Chamberiancy of this city, it appears that two additional experts have been comployed by the Mayor of the city to assist the two already appointed in the investigation of the bihance sheets of the office. At this writing those four iscal proficients are engaged upon an elaborate review of the books from the time the ex-Chamberian took office, some four years ago, to that when he vacated it a few days since. It is understood that Mr. Brewer claims his right to retain the interest accrains on the deposits of the Banover Bank, of New York city, on the ground of precedent in all signilar offices, and cites as instances in hand that of the Comptroller of New York city and the various County Treasurers, Surrogates and other fiduciary officers inclusive throughout the state. In addition to this, the examination so far given the subject by counsel to the city would seem to legally bear out this proposition. At all events, it is asserted that there is color of law in its sustainment. Mr. Brewer himself still carnestly protests that he committed no office in this branch of the alleged dedicits either against the law or his bondemen, and a large and inducatial portion of the citzens here are disposed to concur in his judgment upon general principles.

Mr. Detrick Lane, appointed to be Mr. Brewer's auc cessor in the office, has not yet been sworn in by reason of a slight informality in the matter of his bondsmen, consisting of two sureties, who, though wealthy and entirely reaponsible, are partners in business, and this fact is held to invalidate the bonds under the law. [From the St. Louis Democrat, Oct. 16.]

Yesterday morning, a little before 10 o'clock. Peter Chrisman, the murderer of Edward Ross and his son in Columbia Bottom, last May, was arraigned at the bar of the Griminal Court for sentence, which was that he be hanged on Friday, the 6th day of December next. In his remarks to the condemned, Judge Primm reminded him that throughout the trial the had seemed indifferent to his fate, and entreated him to consider that his days were numbered. The circumstances of the murder the Judge stated as follows:

"The prisoner is 20 years of age, of athletic frame, and has all the appearance of having constantly enjoyed robust health. There is nothing about him to denote insanity in any form. In the month of May of the present year he killed Edward Ross and his infant boy while they were asleep, the child reposing on his father's sun. The instrument of death was an axe, with which he brained them both. After the homicide, the prisoner ransacked Ross's premises, took his trunk, clothing wagon and houses and made his escape. Some two days a terne was arrested as the perpetrator of the deed, and being charged with its commission, clearly, and explicitly avowed it. When he was arraigned before the Cynicity avowed it. When he was arraigned before the Cynicity avowed it. When der, preferred sgalnat him by the Grand Jury, and asked to say whether he was guilty or not guilty. This Court refused to receive the pless, on the ground that possibly he was not aware of its consequences, and directed a plea of not guilty to be entered. The horid nature of the homicide and the apparent want of motive for its; commission at once indicated insanity as the only defence. This plea was accordingly set up, and although backed up by an instrument of the charge of the homicide and the apparent want of motive for its; commission at once indicated insanity as the only defence. This plea divided into three apartments, intended for a although the law governing the case was clearly and favorably presented to the jury by the Court in its instructions, yet the prisoner, by the verdict, was declared to have been fully conscious of his designs and onds at the count itting of the act, and to be guilty of marder in the first dearce, the penalty of which crime is death."

During the delivery of the sentence the boy-marderer manifested not a particle of feeling but was as stolid as a block of wood. His eyes were fixed upon the Judge, but there was no expression in them, and his countenance never changed in the slighest degree. When taken back to the jail he answered an inquiry of the jailor by calluly saying he supposed he would have to die at some time. His indifference could not have been assumed, for he appeared totally unconscious of his fearful position.

(From the Nashville Union and Dispatch, Oct. 18.]

A private letter informs us that a noted desperado, by the name of Bill Sizemore, was killed in Regerabile, on the 18th inst, where he has been in extraordinary one. At the breaking out of the rebellion he joined the Confederate army, but soon threw off all discipline, and became a sort of independent scout, harrassing the Union people terribly, and he is reported to have killed seventeen Union men during the forasy made into the northern portion of upper East Tennessee. Seeing that the Federals were saming possession of East Tennessee, and that they would soon control the whole of that section, he deserted and joined the Federal army. Here again he managed to give his bad passions full away in the capacity of a bush whacker. His persecution of Southern sympathizers was more releatiless and inhuman than of the Union men, and he is said to have merdered twenty of them in cold blood. During the last two months he shot down two nen in the streets of Regerabile. The last one of these was a Federal soldier by the name of Webster, whose only offence was that he had declared himself a Conservative. He was arrected for the last mucher and bound over to the Circuit Court for trial, some Radicals bailing him to keep him out of Jail. On the 11th instant, a Union solder shot him dead within ten steps of where he had killed poor Webster only a few weeks ago. No attempt was made to arrest Willis, for every one felt that he had performed a praiseworthy act in ridding the country of the desperado. Sizemore's body lay in the street nearly an hour before any one would go to the assistance of his wife to take it to his late home. All is man Sizemore was a terror to the people of Hawkind country, and it will be alwayer of murder. Killing of a Desperado in Tennessee.

Arrest of Counterfeiters in Northern New York.

Theor, Oct. 18.—I have been officially advised of the haul of a band of counterfeiters in the northern part of the State, somewhere in the vicinity of Plattaburg. My informant saw the official telegram announcing the arrest, but was instructed to be revient on the subject, though himself at U. S. officer. It appears that the government's detective have long been on the track of the band, and in addition to taking them into custody have also secured a large amount of dies, presses and other illegal paraphernalia of the business. A telegram from Platoburg, in response to one sent by me from this city, indicate that the officers have not permitted the facts of this evidently important arrest to transpire in or about that point; but owing to the high source of my information, while for the reason above given I cannot transmit the details, there is every reason to believe that a huge band of counterfeiting maranders has been successfully broken up.

As to the reveral cases of the counterfeiters Webb, Morrison and Fitzpatrick, who, it will be remembered, were arrested in the latter part of May and early in June 1set, and which were postponed at the Canandaigua term of the United States Circuit Court in June to the term of the United States Circuit Court in June to the term af the Court held at Albany the second Tue-day of this month, they have been brought before the Court, Judge N. K. Ball presiding. Upon motion the cases were put over upon the same ball to the November term of the United States Court, to be held at Auburn, before the same Justice.—N. J. Herald.

"This system might pass current among the pothouse politicians of New York city, but is diagraceful at the National Capital. The President's View of the Elections.

(From the Charleston Courier.)

Washington, Saturday, Oct. 12, 1867.—The President and his Cablinet, including Jen. Grant, fairly understand and appreciate the meaning of the late elections. They view the result as the want of the great conservative interests of the country, which demand peace, stability and justice under a Constitutional Union. The elections were gained by Conservative men, and not by the Democrata, as a distinct party. These elections are only a prelude to a general uprising of Conservative young men throughout the North and West, the results of which we shall see in the November elections, and more decidedly still in the election for Congress and for the Presidency in November of Inext year.

The fact is, the country is in the hands of a generation of young men who have sprung up within the last six or seven years, and the first thing they will do is to brush off the old and effect and prejudiced leaders of the Radical party everywhere. The old Democratic chiefs of the Buchanan school will fare no better with them. They are not going back to past times or to old dogmas, but will take things as they find them in this their own generation. The President has expressed views of the situation in a manner showing that he comprehends it. It is not his triumph, though he has contributed to it. Hosays, however, that it puts an end to the impeachment project, and will give him an opportunity, peacefully and with less obstruction than was expected, to sustain the Executive Department with its constitutional rights, in opposition to the factions and despotic action of Congress.

The Conservative Repubblicans, and especially the old Clay and Webster Whigs, are gratified by the result, and will evidently support the onward movement. Many held back from the pulls at the late elections because they would not act with their old sponents, the Democrate. They will have no scrupe hereafter on that move.

The President will not, in readjusting his Cabinet, compose it of De The President's View of the Elections, Dispersion of Brigands---The Govern-ment Finances---Commercial Facili-ties---The Burial of Soulouque.

Advices from Port-an-Prince to the 28th of September have been received here.

The insurgents in the North, known as Caces, had been completely dispersed by the Government troops. On the 19th of September, Fort Biasson, in which they had intended themselves, was taken by assault. These who escaped field into the Dominican territory, but the Dominican Government, in accordance with the treaty just concluded with Hayti, caused their arrest. President Sanave Issued a proclamation announcing the dispersion of the Caces, and constantiating the country that peace rigned throughout the whole Republic.

The finances of the country were assuming a healthy aspect. A payment had been under to the French Charge d'Affaires of the sum of 48,500 francs, toward the liquidation of the national debt to France. All the engagements of the government had been unet by the ordinary receipts of the treasury. Gold had fallen considerably. Exclauge was twenty-eight Haytlen dollars to one Spanish dollar. Business prospects were improving. The coffee crop, which is very large this year, was finding its way to market, and there were free deliveries. Owing to numerous arrivals, foreign merchandisc of all kinds was declining in price.

A'debate had taken place in the National Assembly on iority.

The omicial visces of the Government has published the text of a circular feated by the Government to the Haytien Legations at Washington, Paris, Madrid and London.

The circular says that the present Government will use its best endeavors to strengthen and make profitable the important commercial relations existing between Hayti and England, France, Northern Germany and the United States.

The Journal of Mining says: "Mr. C. W. Siemen has patented in England a process for producing cast-steel and iron directly from the ore by exposing the ore, in a finely divided state, to the surface action of intense heat, while currents of rich hydrocarbons percolate through the mass of ore in a transverse direction towards the heated surface. By the passage of the gases the ore is reduced and carbonized, and the melting surface of the mass being enveloped in an atmosphere of reducing gas or liame the reoxydation of the reduced metal is prevented."
