MANDARIN BUBLINGAME. Wankee aggressiveness never had a Riustration than that given in the fact that a Yankee has been chosen by the Emperor o China as an Ambassador to the principal governments of Europe. The new Yankee fundarin, who is to represent the celestial flowery kingdom among the outside bar-(barians, is no less a person than Hon. Anson Burlingame, the handsome, genial gentlenan, and the sound radical Republican, who used to represent a Massachusetts district in the House of Representatives at Washington; who, in 1860, made many a good speech in Pennsylvania and elsewhere in favor of the election of Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency, and who was afterwards honored by the President and Senate with the appointnent of Envoy Extraordinary and Minister lenipotentiary to the Chinese Empire.

The gentleman from Massachusetts seems to have made excellent use of his time, and to have driven Yankee notions into Chinese heads with great energy. As early as the year 1863 he got the imperial government to order a translation into Chinese of a Yankee work-Wheaton's treatise on International Law. The chief reason for their consenting was that the work would be useful to future Chinese ambassadors to foreign countries. It may easily be conceived that after this important step, Mr. Burlingame found i von the love and confidence of the government, that he has been chosen, as before stated, * as a special Envoy to the European Powers.... • to have a citizen of the hated and dreaded Western Republic coming to them as the great Eastern Empire.

The gentleman from Massachusetts, transsurrender his dignity of United States Min- Vicksburg, and Corinth, and Lookout Mounleter to Peking; but that does not involve a forsweating of his allegiance as an Ameris can citizen, speaking broken China, shaving Whis head and wearing a pig-tail and a skullcap, with a little round button at the top. Those that know Mr. Burlingame well, know that his Yankeeism and his Republicanism, It translated into Chinese, will be as sound and effective as they were in the plain Euglish he Eighth. used to utter in Congress and on the stump. But will he not make a sensation when he nonsense in the speech of last night, but it is visits London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, St. not particularly note-worthy. A New Steamer Project. Special Despatch to the Philadelphia Evening Bullotin.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.-An extensive scheme is on foot here to pass a bill, establishing a line of steamers between the cities of New York and to get a subsidy bill through Congress, having this Government to guarantee bonds issued by the Company. The Company proposes to con-nect themselves with the Emigrant Society at Rremen, for transporting emigrants to the United Rremen, for transporting emigrants to the United Reference in the transport of the transport at its sector. States, then furnish them with transportation directly to certain points in the extreme West, and there locating them upon lands owned by this Company, in which many Senators and Congressmen have large amounts of stock. It is not believed, however, that the bill can t passed, at least at the present session of Congrees.
