

CRIME. HIGHWAY ROBBERIES. A Series of Crimes Near Cleveland, Ohio. Singular Audacity of the Robbers.

From the Cleveland Herald, Jan. 15. We published yesterday an account of the shooting of William Fuller, Esq., on Brighton, by highway and daring robberies committed by them on Monday evening. There were two or three parties of robbers in the vicinity of Brighton on Monday evening, although whether they were all 'pals' belonging to the same gang and acting in concert, cannot, of course, be known.

had been insulted by his friend, and he at once sought out Mr. Pemberton and charged him with the offence; a quarrel ensued between them, but they were soon separated by the health committee, and there, at the time the matter rested. On the following morning, however, Deblieux wrote to Pemberton demanding an apology. This the latter declined to give, whereupon Mr. Deblieux, who is a Southerner by birth, sent a friend to Pemberton challenging him to fight him, or in case of refusal to prepare for consequences which must result at their first meeting.

ABRIST OF A SWINDLER. A Career of Crime. From the Boston Herald, Jan. 16th. Some weeks since a middle-aged man named William E. Betz, who is said to belong in New York, made his appearance among our traders and purchased bills of goods valuing all the way from $50 to $1,000, ostensibly for parties in New York, and for which he tendered in payment what purported to be checks on some New York banking house, but which, when too late to save the goods, were rejected as worthless. Betz received the cash balance resulting from a difference between the face of the check and the value of the goods purchased.

SALE OF LANDS. Another chapter in the eventful history of Belle Boyd, now living in the Shenandoah Valley during the campaign in Virginia, closed yesterday, when Judge Carlow, at Supreme Court Chambers, rendered his decision in the case of Belle Boyd vs. Samuel W. Harding. At the close of her career, which rendered her name historic in connection with some of the events of the late rebellion, Belle went to England and made her debut as an actress at one of the London theatres. While in the exercise of her new vocation she became acquainted with the late colonel and Miss Bell, and subsequently, on the 25th of August, 1864, was married to him in that city at St. James's church, Piccadilly.

THE SOUTHERN SPY DIVORCED FROM HER. ELOPEMENT IN NEW JERSEY. A Wife Absconds with Her Husband's Funds. From the Trenton American, Jan. 16. On Tuesday afternoon Detective Burt, employed by the Morris and Essex Railroad, was tipped, at present sojourning at Newton, requesting him to arrest his wife on the arrival of the afternoon mail train, as she had been seen with a large amount of money. The despatch described the woman minutely, and when the train arrived at Newark, Officer Burt had no difficulty in picking her out. She was accompanied by two passengers. She was accompanied by her two children—a boy of five years and a girl of three, and when arrested she seemed quite willing to accompany the officer into the ladies' room of the depot, where she was detained until her husband arrived by the Easton train, which arrives about 9 P. M. She had with her some $4,000, $500 of which was in gold. One young assistant who had deserted her husband and stolen his money, she said he had become attached to a young woman belonging to the tribe, and fearing he would elope with her, taking the money himself, she thought she would put it out of his power to take from her and the children the money that had been accumulated by their joint efforts. On the arrival of the husband a reconciliation took place, and the woman returned to Newton tonight morning.

STALKING WIDOWS. At half-past twelve o'clock, three men were observed rolling two barrels along Thompson street, near Pathehorp. When accosted by a couple of the Teah District police, the men ran away and left their barrels and went to take refuge in a liquor store, at Pathehorp and Thompson streets. One was empty, and the other two were half full of whisky. The prisoner, who gave his name as Shuemaker, was committed by Alderman.

CITY NOTICES. WIDOW MONTAGUE writes for Tom Hood's lady: To cheer the widow's heart in her distress, Let her be a Christian's duty, and none should Reat the heart appeal of Widow-Hood. And the precept has nobly been carried out by those who lent their aid to the foundation andowment of the Riverside Institute. This benevolent Institution will probably be ready for occupancy about the middle of the next month.

AN AFFAIR OF HONOR. Duol Near Paterson, N. J.—A New York Merchant and His Former Shot in the Head. From the New York Times. Yesterday morning an affair of honor—nowadays rare an occurrence, especially in our northern latitude, with the weather cold enough to freeze the hot blood—came off in the neighborhood of Paterson, N. J. Two participants in the duel were gentlemen of this city—one a Mr. C. X. Pemberton, an importing merchant, the other a Mr. Deblieux, a Wall street bank clerk. The duel ended with single exchange of shots, Mr. Pemberton's ball striking a tree close by, that of Mr. Deblieux, being better aimed, struck his antagonist in the forehead, inflicting a serious wound. The quarrel, it is told, originated in this way. A short time since the parties concerned attended a ball at Irving Hall. Mr. Pemberton accompanied the sister of Mr. Deblieux, who was seated next to the one of the evening the latter learned that his sister

had been insulted by his friend, and he at once sought out Mr. Pemberton and charged him with the offence; a quarrel ensued between them, but they were soon separated by the health committee, and there, at the time the matter rested. On the following morning, however, Deblieux wrote to Pemberton demanding an apology. This the latter declined to give, whereupon Mr. Deblieux, who is a Southerner by birth, sent a friend to Pemberton challenging him to fight him, or in case of refusal to prepare for consequences which must result at their first meeting.

There are Perfumes, as there are needles, that seem not merely to delight in sense, but to charm the soul. Supreme and matured among these is Parfumerie's 'Night Blooming Jasmine.' It cannot be described, for the words in the realm of fragrance like it. The floral kingdom has never before yielded the equal.
