M. C. McClurky purchased the receipt of him some tem years ago; he has since that time given it a perfect trial amough his periodal friends and the aristocratic circles of Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, Booton, New Orleans, St. Louis, Savannah, Charleston, Wilminton, N. C., &c. They have used it with unqualified admiration, and would consider the tollet imperfect without this delightful and purely harmless preparation. Victoria Regia and Oscelha de Perria has given such entire satisfaction in every instance, that he is now compelled to offer it to the public. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever attempted, and is warranted. FIEL FROM ALL POISONOUS SUBSTANCES.

After using Oscelia de Perria and Victoria Regia for a short time, the skin will have a reft, eath like texture; if imparts a freshness, smoothness and refiness to the skinthat can only be produced by neing this valuable article. It presents no vulsar liquid or other compounds, and its increasing produced by heing this valuable article. The REMOVING TAN, FRECKLES, SUNBURN AND CUTANEOUS DISEASES FROM THE SKIN.

General Sewall reports that many of the agents, citizens, that were sent to Mississippi, were worthless, cence of the party. The gentleman who preceded me might be mistaken in his premises, and when the Attorney-General had heretofore expressed himself against the views of the gentleman, there could not hat be donbt as to what Mr. Trumbull advanced.

Jucge Sharkey, after Judge Black had concluded his argument, stated a few facts in the case which, he said, ought to have settled the question long ago. In Mississippi there were several persons under sentence of death, and they might be executed for ought he knew, and not only those age interested, but many others were in jail in Mississippi and others were in jail in Mississippi and others were in jail in Mississippi and others were in jail in Mississippi there were several persons under sentence the secretion of this case. He was sure there were more capital cases now depending, and urged the strong doubte as to the constitutionality of the law as another reason why this case should be advanced, and questions.

Judge Hughes, who appeared with Senator Trumbull for the government, remarked that the Attorney-General could not take part in this case, as he had the deferred to the Judge Hughes, who appeared with Senator Trumbull for the government, remarked that the Attorney-General could not take part in this case, as he had the might be missing the could be advanced.

Mr. Lengly introduced a resolution declaring that help will be provided and the public good required that the ideas of confiscation built for the government, remarked that the Attorney-General could not take part in this case, as he had the fact of the fact that it is asserted by well-informed and apparently reliable persons, that there is an organized and apparently reliable persons, that there is an organized and apparently determination on the part of the planters to force the negroes to work at lower rates of wages, and, if possible, to secure his labor for the same amount of compensation given him when in slavery, and that for this purpose the refusal to contract and threaten abandous mentot all agricultural pursuits is made. Ho could not find any evidence of such an organized plan or concert of action, but the evident desire manifested by the farmers of these States to compel the negro to work for only his subsistence points in that direction. Methods were forced in the power ment to issue a limited amount of rations in the reversal manifested plan of contract the parishes of Balon Rouge, West Feliciana, Ascenbion, Madison, Carroll, and Concordia. There is not much present or prospective destitution reported back from either of the rivers. The same condition of infairs exists in Mississippi and Arkansas. In the interior there is little or no cause for apprehension of suffering.

The principle in this case did not apply to McCardle alone, but extended to every portion of the country. It was important to know what the law was, in order that its execution might be fair. It should be known to everybody to be protected by the law, and it could not be denied that the Constitution of the United States guarantees to every person accused a fair and speedy trial in order to, determine the guilt or innocence of the party. FROM WASHINGTON.

The United States supreme Court room was crowded this aftermon with many of the most distinguished members of the bar now in Washington, to hear the argument in case No. 380, ex parte William II. McArdle, on appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Misslesippi. It will be recolsed that McArdle was arrested and imprisoned by order of General Ord, and ordered to be tried by a military commission on the charge of hindering reconstruction by certain publications in the paper at Vicksburg, of which he is the editor. The accused was held to ball in the sum of two thousand dollars to await further proceedings. The motion argued to day was a to giving an early hearing to all the principles involved.

Senator Trumbull appeared for the military authorities. He contended that this was not in any sense a political queetion, nor was it of such a criminal character as required the Court to give it preference; be ties. He contended that this was not in any sense a political question, nor was it of such a criminal character as required the Court to give it preference; besides, the accused being now at liberty, though under ball, was suffering no grievous hardship.

Judge Black took issue with Mr. Trumbull, and argued that the interests not only of McArdle but of all the citizens of the United States were involved in this question, and he insisted that the liberty of the citizen was the most precious of all blessings. He did not ask the early consideration of the case as a matter of the large number of employes that have been discharged by different branches of the government, together with the suspension of various industrial operations by reasons of the saverity of the saverity of the suspension of various industrial operations by reasons of the saverity of the saverity of the saverity of the citizens of the United States were involved in this question, and he insisted that the liberty of the citizen was the most precious of all blessings. question, and he insisted that the liberty of the citizen was the most precious of all bessings. He did not ask the early consideration of the case as matter of favor, but they asked it because the laws of the land, and immerial custom, and the ruises of this day, and immerial custom, and the ruises of this court, required that the case should be placed at the head of the docket, as it claimed immediate attention.

If the Court denied the motion, it might with as much propriety refuse to hear the case until all the civil cases on the docket shall have been disposed of Canses are heard here according to their characters. The petitioner was charged with a criminal oftense, and whether the proceedings were legal or lilegal, it was necessary that the Court shall be entitled to precedence over other case; but long before that act was passed there had not been an instance in which, any one had attempted to stave off a question of this character.
