IAMUSEMENTS.

ITALIAN OPERA .- There were two splendid audiences at the Academy on Saturday: one in the afternoon for La Traviata, and one in the evening for Faust. Mmc. Gazzaniga was superb at the matinee, and the Faust, in German, was very finely done. Miss Hauck was charming in many scenes, but she wants force and intensity for the more impussioned ones. Mr. Habelmann sang the part of "Faust" for the first time, after inadequate rehearsal and under other disadvaninadequate relears and ther other disatury as tages. But he sang perfectly, and his acting was, in general, very good. He will unquestionably but the best "Faust" in the country, after he feels more at home in the part. The "Mephisto-pheles" of Hermanns was grand and striking as pheles" of Hermanns was grand and striking as ever, and his noble voice did full justice to the difficult music. Mmc. Testa's "Slebel" was as good as the part could be made, and even the in-congruity of her singing in Italian rather gave piquancy to it. Wilhelm Formes was a very good "Valentine." The opera was well done, as a whole, and it made a brilliant finish to a very uccessful season.

But the season is not wholly finished, for an But the scason is not wholy infinited, for an extra performance is to be given at Horticultural Hall this crening, when the lively (not "lovely," as printed in a former notice) Cardinal of Venice. will be repeated. Many of the masquers from the ball at the Academy will be admitted in the carnival scene. There will also be scenes from several other operas. The performance at Horticultural Hall this evening will begin precisely at quarter to eight o'clock o'clock. LADY DON.—Lady Don begins the second week of her engagement at the Arch street thestre, this evening, in an entirely new burlesque upon Moore's famous Lallah Rookh. We embrace the opportunity to pay a merited tribute to the abil-ity, skill and good taste of this popular actress. Lady Don's forte is decidedly burlesque and light comedy, and she very wisely confines her efforts to parts of this character, instead of attempting heavier roles, as other artists often do, and sink to mediocrity in consequence. Lady Don has heavier roles, as other artists often do, and sink to medicerity in consequence. Lady Don has many natural advantages which help to make her performances excellent. Her person is attractive; she has a sweet, sympathetic voice, that is highly cultivated, and she sings the pretty ballads of her repertoire with an elegance and grace that never fail to charm andgratily her hearers. Her manner is sprightly and vivacious, and she onters into the spirit of the dramas in which she appears with a sense of hearty enjoyment, and keen appreciation of the fun, which has an imme-diate influence upon her audiences. Lady Don is not a great actress in the usual acceptation of that phrase, but she is very superior in her pecuthat phrase, but she is very superior in her pecu-liar line, and there is a certain delicacy and grace about all of her performances which cannot fail to please the most fastidious and sensitive. Lady Don is a refined and cultivated woman, and if this were not apparent from her manner, it would be sufficiently so from the fact that she avoids all coarseness and inelegance in a departavoids all coarseness and indequate in a departe-ment of the draina where the tendency to these faults is almost irresistible. She deserves from the play-goers of Philadelphia the tribute of crowded houses during her engagement.

MR. C. HENRY's BENKFIT .--- To those who have visited Tunison &  $C\alpha^{is}$ . Minstrels, it is unneces-sary to speak in praise of the gontleman whose name heads this notice; to those who have not we would state Mr. Henry is the tenor of this excellent troupe, and is one of the sweetest tenors we have in the ministrel business. On Thursday night next, the 23d inst., he will receive a benefit, and he has prepared for that occasion a very at-tractive bill, that should crowd the Seventh Street Opera House. The box office is open up to the day for securing seats.

THE THEATRES .- At the Chestnut this ovening Mr. John E. Owens will appear in the Cricket on the Hearth and in The Live Indian. Mr. Owens' the Hearth and in The Live Indian. Mr. Owens' engagement will surely be very successful. His "Caleb Plummer" is one of the most original and artistic conceptions upon the stage. Those who have not seen him in the character have missed a treat. Mr. Dickens never presented any of his creations with the skill exhibited by Mr. Owens in this. At the Walnut to-night Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams will appear in The Fairy Circle, The Rough Diamond and The Irish Tiger. At the Arch, Lady Don appears in a burlesque of Lallah Rockh, and in the comedy The Ludies' Club. The American offers a diversified enter-tainment. tainment.

ELEVENTH STREET OPERA HOUSE .- An entirely new burlesque entitled The Arrival of Dickens, will be given this evening. It is filled with laughable situations, local hits, humorous diaday, and the very superb mounting and costut-ing of the operas, serve to enable the direction to look back upon the season with feelings of the ivelicat pleasure and satisfaction.

The season is especially indebted to the active personal exertions of impressario Max Marctzek, for his constant and untiring efforts to give the operas with finish, point and absolute excellence. More, the Direction desires especially to ex-More, the Direction desires especially to ex-press its appreciation of the very large and fashionable attendance, and of the many and continued expressions of approval, of satisfac-tion and pleasure, which have liberally met each successive stage of the season, and have followed the production of each of the operas. And most carnestly does it desire to warmly thank the very able musical critics of the press of this city for their articles, which, here coming largely from the hands of persons of experience and culture, have materially assisted in impressing the general public with the importance of the season. Thus cnumerating some of the points of satisfaction, and touching those omissions which may have and touching those omissions which may have been the subject of conjecture, it remains to sign itself, very devotedly, LENDARD GROVER, For the Direction.

DISAPPOINTED LOVE AND ATTEMPTED SUIGIDE. -A young German, named John Jacob Keichline, residing in Bodine street, near Columbia

ine, residing in Bodine street, near Columoia avenue, attempted to kill himself between one and two o'clock this morning. He is twenty-seven years of age, and came to this country in April last. He obtained employment as a weaver in a factory at Second street and Columbia avenue. Working at the next loom was a young woman of prepossessing appearance and attrac-tive manners. A friendship soon sprang up between the two, and this friendship riponed into love upon the part of Keichline. The young woman, however, did not seem to reciprocato woman, however, did not seem to reciprocate the tender feeling. But Kelchline continued to pay her delicate attentions, and visited her several times at her home. On Fri-day evening last he went there and asked her to marry him. She refused. He became frantic, and told her that if she did not become his wife that that would be the last time she would see him alive, as he would blow his brains out. She still refused to enter into the matrimonial alliance. The rejected lover then left. This morning, about one o'clock, he went to the house of the young woman, on Norris street, below Tullp, and rapped three times on the door, at the same time calling "Mary," the Christian name of the woman who had caused all the trouble upon his mind. Mary did not respond to his summons. The raps were repeated, but still there was no answer. Then Keichline unbuttoned his overcoat, drew from his pocket a five-barreled pistol, placed it over his heart and pulled the trigger. The weapon slipped, and the ball, instead of passing through the heart, entered the body, about an inch below. Keichline fell on the step, where he was found by Policeman Pollock, and was conveyed to the Eleventh District Police Station. A physician was summoned, but all efforts to extract the ball were in vain. The young man was found to be dargerously injured, and was taken to the St. Mary Hospital.

Grand Opera-Card of the Direction.

Editor of the Daily Evening Bulletin:-DEAR SIR:-In announcing the last and farowell per-formance of Grand Opera, the Direction takes consistent to congratulate the operatic public of this city upon the very brilliant, fashionable and eminently pleasing season which has transpired. During the past two years anticipations of finan-cial disaster have led, on this continent, to avoid ing great engagements, and seeking, as much as possible, by reduction of expense, to be prepared for a less flattering state of operatic prospects. This policy foreshadowed its own doom. Opera languished, musical interest sought to find vent in oratorios and concerts, which, if less expen-sive, wore, so far, the best of their class. Dis-astrons operatic seasons were the rule, and com-mentators even pronounced that grand opera in America had expired, with little or any chance of resurrection.

No sooner had the musical centres of the whole country settled down to this conclusion than the idea of combining and consolidating the chiefest result is patent to this public, and the polite amusement of the world is again as firmly planted in the esteem of the dilletanti of this city as at any former period since the inauguration of this any former period since the inauguration of this opera house. Indeed, few former seasons will bear comparison with the one which has just transpired. It is eminently a subject of con-gratulation, and now that the opportunity pre-sonts itself, this suggestion seems pertinent. It goes far to disabuse the public mind of that bar-barous idea that opera is a luxury which, upon the slightest indication of the approach of finan-cial stagnation, ought to be dispensed with. cial stagnation, ought to be dispensed with. Amusement is a necessity, and the more polite and refined the order of amusement, the more

Sectially is it a necessity. Many persons of narrow views entertain ideas opposite to opera upon the ground that the artistes are extravagantly paid, and draw com-parisons between their remuneration and that of ersons otherwise employed. But the extreme persons otherwise employed. But the extreme brevity of an artiste's career should be considered. And again, who ever heard of a wealthy artiste? The large sums paid are extravagantly and im-mediately expended, and the treasurer with his salary list becomes a sort of clearing house, where funds are merely transferred from the bank ac-count of fashion into the ordinary channels of trade-the hotels, the newspapers, and the maga-

The season just closed presented a very large number of recognized artistes and virtuosos-perhaps a larger number than the same longth of time has ever hitherto offered on this continent.
