The Secretary of the Treasury, in a communication to the House to day, says the six steamers employed on the lakes are not of the character best suited to the wants of the revenue, but their services are by no means unimportant or valueless. He does not feel at liberty to recommend the sale of them unless they can be disposed of without sacrifice. He suggests that if Congress shall deem it advisable to dispose of them, that in the bill authorizing their sale, the minimum for 8162. On the gaze of them the sale of the minimum for 8162.
