Letter from Mr. Adams. The Imperial Review says:

lovers made happy. The following letter from the leader of the American colonists at Jaffa is published in he Washington Chronicle, and is of interest lling their property, and yet they begged step toward progression in this down-trodden We are at peace with all the patives. The Latins, Greeks, Armeniaus, Maronites, Turks, Arabs and Mohammedana are all friendly to us. So also with the local offlcers and all the foreign consuls. No one seceder is left in the Holy Land to send his venom to the United States. We, the colony, now stand free from every government on carth, and, as was our father Abraham, are strangers and pilgrims and sojourners on the The consuls, in seeking our destruction, gravely told us that if we would not re-Government would give us their protection no longer. This was no doubt said to induce us i to leave our besutiful homes: but we told in assistance or protection from the United States authorities here, and signed a paper to that could be called to a specie on cifict. Thus we stand extirpated from our twenty dye handred in uthful statement of our present condition | debt. Aost truly and succerely yours,
G. J. Adams. Mow Englishmen Offer Themselves, a We have a suspicion that Englishmen make their proposals of marriage more awkwardly than any other race of creatures under the sun. Hence, there is a notion among us-most unfounded of course-that proposals are not unfrequently made for them by the very objects of their affections. This. we feel quite sure, is a gross slander upon both the parties concerned. Still, it serves to show the public estimate of the average masculine capacity for "speaking out" when the time really arrives for doing so; and it may, at any rate, safely be said, that there are no two things most Englishmen hold in greater dread than having to make a speech and having to make a downright declaration and hampers them. A false feeling of shame, we suppose, holds them back, and they are too honest to go about afterward and brag of the magnificent way in which they passed very worst and most unintelligible public speech ends, amid the loud cheers of indulotherwise; so, if a proposal made in seclusion is only followed up by public signs of acceptance, no one is, or perhaps should be, too curious to inquire how the result has been brought about. Women are certainly not dead to the charms of eloquence, but we must conclude that eloquence, on certain occasions, at least, is not the most. gent spectators, everybody feels that no harm must conclude that eloquence, on certain occasions, at least, is not the most persuasive of weapons with them. Perhaps they agree with Demosthenes, that the first, second

American colonists at Jaina is published in the Washington Chronicle, and is of interest as giving his statement of the condition and prospects of an enterprise which has been severely criticised by many persons:

JAFFA, Oct. 22, 1867.—William Stick-racy, Esq.—Dear Sie and Finend: Your kind letter dated Liverpool, the 2d instant, has been duly received, and I proceed to answer forthwith. You are right in saying the reports published in the American papers are too full of bitterness and venom to carry, conviction to an honest man. The colony and enjoy.
