The trial at New Albany, Ind., of McKimey for the murder of the Woodward family, has ex-cited great interest in the portion of the State in The trial at New Albany, Ind., of McKimey for the murder of the Woodward family, has ex-cited great interest in the portion of the state in the trial at a compute of the atrocions which it occurred, on account of the atrocious character of the crime alleged—being no less than the murder of David Woodward, his wife and a foolish sister, and the scrious stabbing of Mrs. Woodward. The New Albany Coninercial publiebes a long and interesting account. Cutsinger, a witness, had sworn directly that he saw Mc-Kimey commit the murders. We quote the fol-lowing from the Commercial: After the meeting of the Court in the afternoon he crowd had largely increased, and a great dea of excitement was apparent upon the faces of present. The prosecuting witness was l, and as he took his seat he remarked that the was now going to tell the truth. His stolid conntenance was lighted up by a sort of ghastly smile, and for the first time during the trial he ventured to lift his eyes to the face of the prisoner at the bar, Mablon McKimey. A short conference with him satisfied the prosecuting attorney that his witness had dete mintd to recent and make a full confession the part he had been hired to play in the terribl drama. Mr. Carlton then arose and address the court. He said that ever since last June 1 ad firmly believed that the man who was now before them was the murderer. He believed that that he was the murderer of the Wood ward family olitary and alone, and that he had attompted t his miscrable duplicity to fasten the guilt upon an innocent person. His re-marks were very bitter, and as a pointed toward the miserable crouching witnes e stigmatized his course in the most witherin In gauge. He closed by declaring he dismissed the prosecution against McKimey. The words had hardly been uttered when the wast concourse rose to their feet and gave one loud and prolonged cheer. But immediately was heard from a hun-dred volces the startling words, "hang him," "hang bim," which were uttered by excited men, with chenched fists and eyes flashing fire. Colonel Heffron immediately sprang to his feet. and called upon the people to listen to wiser counsels, that the man before them was but the tool of Sanders, and if anybody was to be hung let it be him. The poor creature who had testi fied before them was mercly a scapegoat of the real scoundrel. He said that he regretted that the trial had not been permitted to go on so as to enable him to show the depth of the guilt of that man Sarders, who, it would have been proved had agreed to give him $300 for his affiday and appearing at the preliminary examination, and $1,000 for seeing the case safe through Court. During his remarks the crowd kept shouting "Hang him! hang him!" and pushing their way During his remarks the crowd kept shouting "Hang him ! hang him !" and pushing their way toward the platform where Cutshinger was stand-ing. Gen. Spicely and Major Tucker sprang for-ward and told the maddened mob that it could, not be done, but their voices were drowned the people to let the law take its course. Al people to let the law take its course. Al the members of the bar, Sheriff, constal bles and other officers of the Court, formed a line n front of the frenzied mass, while behind them sneaked away the mean, contemptible Cutsinger, showing more emotion than we thought him cairembled from head to foot with terror. It was some time before the appeals of Spicely, Heffron, Tucker and others had any effect ipon the mob, but at length some of the leaders were induced to go down stairs, where they again collected, in the hope that Cutsinger would at-stand collected in the hope that Cutsinger would at-stand collected in the hope that Cutsinger would at-

Jennessee Radical State Conventio Letter from Goy, Browalow. Letter from Gov. Brownlow. The Tennessee Radical State Convention was held in Nashville, on the 22nd inst., for the pur-pose of organizing and hppointing delegates to the National Convention at Chicago. Hon. J. S. Fowler presided. The Committee on Resolutions made a report, which was read and accepted. The material points of this report are as follows: "We, the Union Republicans of Tennessee, in Corvention assembled, declare and will endeavor to maintain the principles following, viz.: "An unaltraible and unconditional adherence to and support of the American Union, established by our fathers in the blood of one great war, and defended by ourselves in the blood of another and greater war. and greater war. "The Government ought of right to be adminishim as expressed by as in a former convention, but inasmuch as he has peremptorily declined the use of his name in connection with the Presilency of the United States, we recommended t that responsible office Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. "Under his administration we feel assured o the ascendancy of Union principles and Unio men, to the exclusion from the positions of honor and trust of rebel principles and rebel men; of full protection abroad and athome, of all American citizens, native or naturalized; of a wise, prudent and economical policy; of a re-duction of taxation to the least practicable point consistent with the maintenance inviolate of the national faith to the public creditors, to the sol-national faith to the public creditors, to the sol-in Canal stocks the tendency was upward, and Lehigh Newtonion advanced to 2007 2014 a rise of 26. honor and trust of rebel principles, and rediere, whose pay and bounty are still in arrear, to the pensioner and to the honest, loyal claim-In Bank shares there was no change. ants, for supplies furnished and losses sustaine during the war; of a national currency uniforn
