Mr. Fraley, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee, closed the debate, and said that listening to all that had been set forth in the committee room and during the discussion had the committee room and during the discussion had strengthened his opinion that the report covered almost the sentiment of the country upon the subjects considered. There were times, of course, when it was necessary to suspend specie payments, but he believed the time had now come when it was the duty of the country to resume specie payments, as specility as could safely be done. The wars of the Revolution, of 1812 and of our recent rebellion had necessitated assepancies of species payments, and in the two former cases the resumption without national dishonor or individual bankruptcy; and he believed this desirable result could be brought about by the adoption of the measures which had been presented in the report.

A gradual process was contemplated by the report, and such a process was confirmed to the two low to be that the safeption of this report would reduce the premium on gold by the confidence it would inspire, and that the people do not propose to shrink from that duty. The general government had sent, Corona to reconcile the difficulty, but before a settlement was effected, Corona was recalled to Guadalajara, as a check on Losado, whereupon Mariliner declared the election unconstitutional, and assumed the command ad interim. Immediately after the reading of the journal, the House went into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, Mr. Dawes, of Massachusetts, in the chaff, for general depate on the President's annual message. Mr. HUNTER, of Indiana, addressed the House on the financial question. He argued that the true cause of the present depression in business arose, first, from a partial failure of the crous; second, from the contraction policy of the Sconstary of the Tressury, and third, from the action of the Democratic party in delaying the reconstruction of the Second States. He believed that repudiation was not only the desire but the intention of the Democratic party, if it carried the next election. His own remedy for the dafficulty was as follows: Business Cards. First. That only taxes enough should be levied to pay the interest on the public debt and the current expenses, leaving the payment of the principal until the country should be in a prosperous condition.

Second. These taxes should not be levied so as to make every man pay according to his wealth, but exchange the prosperous condition.

A Certain Cure for

CELEBRATED OINTMENT

Scalds, Burns, Cuts, Wounds, &c.

PRILADELPHIA. March 16, 1868.

FRIEND BROWN: It gives me great pleasure to say to you, that your Ointment is such an article that there can be but praises bestowed upon it, when used and it hecomes known. For you well recollect how dreaffully I was scaled in both legs by steam and hot water, so much so that the flesh came off at least one-half inch in thickness; and by the use of your Ointment, and that alone, in a few weeks I was entirely restored, and am now as well as ever; not a muscle or leader contracted, and hardly a scar is left. There is no telling the amount of suffering it would relieve, if it was freely used in scales or burns of any kind. By referring persons to me, I can give them ample satisfaction of the truthfulness of its qualities.

Kespectfully, your friend,

John P. Levey. Hospectfully, your friend,
