[From to-day's New York Tribunc.] Funeral of Julia Dean The funeral of Mrs. Julia Dean Cooper took place yesterday afternoon, at Christ (Episcopal) Church, corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-first street. The church was crowded actress, and by by the friends of the deceased actress, and by hundreds of the public, who had been admirers of her professional talents and private character, and who now came to pay a last tribute of resand who now came to pay a last tribute of respect to one whose death they sincerely mourned. The altar and lectern were draped in mourning. The funeral services were performed by the Rev. F. C. Ewer, rector of the Church, assisted by the Rev. T. McKee Brown, assistant rector. The services were according to the prescribed form of the Raglish Episcopal Church, of which Mrs. Cooper had been for several years a communicant. The glish Episcopal Church, of which Mrs. Cooper had been for several years a communicant. The remains were borne into the church, preceded by the two clergymen, repeating, "I am the resurrection and the life," etc. The lesson was read from the fifteenth chapter of the first Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians, beginning at the twentieth verse. The remains were inclosed in a handsome rosewood casket, richly mounted with silver, upon which were laid two beautiful wreaths and a floral cross, the gifts, respectively, of Mrs. W. A. Moore, Mrs. Eliza Logan Wood and Mrs. Barney Williams. The arrangements for the funeral were made under the care of Mr. Gilbert Redan, sexton of Christ Church. A silver plate on the coffin-lid bore the inscription, "Julia Dean Cooper. died March 6, 1868, aged 37 years." The coffin-lid bore the inscription, "Julia Dean Cooper, died March 6, 1868, aged 37 years." The body will be placed for the present in the receiving vault in Second street, preparatory to its removal to Dutchess county, where it will be interred by the side of Mrs. Cooper's mother.
