NEW JERSEY MATTERS.

CAMDEN ELECTION.—The election in Camden CAMBEN ELECTION.—The election in Caunden passed off more quietly than usual, and a full vote was polled. The Union Republicans have carried the entire city by a handsome majority over last year. They have nearly all the Ward officers. The election is a complete repudiation of the Democracy and their principles. The Republican tievet in Camden is elected by about 75 majority. The Democratic majority last fall was loft, making a Republican gain of 233. Both parties worked with a zeal and determination to win, but having indorsed and adopted Andrew Johnson as hear representative principle, the Copperheads had too great a load to carry, and wore, crushed. The Union League deserve praise for the work performed through it, the members toiling with a vigorous determination to discharge their whole daty. The true fixures of each Ward have not yet been made out, but enough is known of the result to make the Democrats cower back into obscurity. All hail Camdon!

The Building Skason.—The breaking up of winter has given an increased stimulae to the progressive spirit in Camdon, and arrangements are making to push winter head states.—Into breaking up of swinter head strength of the progressive spirit in Camden, and arrangements are making to push forward many very inportant improvements. Besides a targe miniber of private and elegant dwelling houses, there are several very fine public buildings to be erected:

Allogether the indications are that the coning coason with be a lively one for all kinds of mechanics and improvements.

The Canal Froncer.—The project of constituting a canal from Camden to some point on the Multicae or Little Egg Harbor rivers has not yet reached logistive action, although the proper logal stops were taken in the preliminary notice of application. Most likely, however, the charter will be granted before the Legislature adjourns. The agitation of this improvement creates a strong scattlinent in its favor, and it is thought that as soon as the preliminary organizations are perfected, the stock necessary for building it will be at once taken by parties, deeply interested.

Attempted Murder in Chicago—A Man Tries to Kill his Wife with a bar of Iron.

(From the Chicago Republican, March 8th.)
On Saturday evening a fellow named Teddy Byrne committed a brutal assault upon his wife,
and to such an extent that fears are entertained of her death. Byrne is a shoemaker by occupation, and resides on the corner of West Lake and Robey streets. A few days ago he brought a woman to his house whose character was that of the lowest kind in this city. His wife objected to her entering the house, whereupon he became quite angry, and, probably, with the view of ending any lature altercations, he struck his wife over the head with a heavy bar of iron. The blow re-[From the Chicago Republican, March 9th.] head with a heavy bar of iron. The blow re-sulted in a fracture of the skull, and with a cry of agony the wounded wife rushed from the house. Hardly knowing where to go, she sought refuge in a neighboring grocery. The moment she had crossed the threshold she fell fainting to the floor, and remained in a heavy swoon for nearly floor, and remained in a heavy swoon for hearly an hour. The blood flowed profusely from the ghastly wound, and but for the timely attendance of Dr. Houghton, the woman would undoubtedly have bled to death. After the wound had been carefully dressed, and upon application of restoratives, she gradually revived, sufficiently to advertise the text of the provided where the issues of the provided where the issues of the provided where the issues to be registered where the issues of the provided where the issues to be registered where the issues to be registered where the issues of the provided where the provided w mit of her transfer to her residence, where she is lying in a very critical condition.
