Another Raid on Richmond-Seizure of Stills. Worms, &c. In accordance with instructions from Washington, another raid was made upon the Whisky Distilleries in Richmond, in the Fifth Collection District, this morning. The expedition was organized by Col. Peter C. Ellmaker, the United States Marshal, and Revenue Agent John Miller. The officers engaged in it assembled at different points, at half-past seven o'clock. They were divided into three squads, and each party made and in a different direction.

One party was composed of Deputy Marshals Hanline, Lafferty and Burns, and Revenue Inspectors J. G. Donnelly and H. L. Taggart. The premises, southeast corner of Edgemont and Richmond streets, were first visited. There a copper still of three hundred gallons capacity, a worm, a copper head, and a barrel of whisky were found and were confiscated. Twenty hogshead of mash were also found, but were not destroyed. The second party was under Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Fonkrod, Deputy Marshal Wippey and Revenue Inspector Brodkead. No. 1028 Somerset street was the first place on which a descent was made. A tin still, a half barrel of whicky and twelve hogsheads of mash were found. The still and whisky were removed by the officers. At No. 1516 Spring street, the copper head of a still, a worm and eighteen hogsheads of mash were feund. At No. 1826 Clifton street, the still had been removed, but there were twenty-four hogsheads of mash upon the premises: At Lehigh avenue and Newkirk street, twenty-four hogsheads of mash upon the premises: At Lehigh avenue and Newkirk street, there was no still, but eighteen hogsheads of mash were discovered. At Spring and William streets, two barrels of whisky were captured. Thirty-six hogsheads of mash were found, but no still. On Howson street, in the fourth house west of Thompson, twenty hogsheads of mash were found. There was no still visible.

The expedition caused quite a commotion among the residents in the neighborhoods visited, and nearly everybody appeared to have turned out into the streets. A large crowd, composed of mer, women and children, followed the officers from place to place and watched their operations. from place to place and watched their operations. Some of the women made ugly remarks, but no attempts were made to do violence to the raiders. The spectators were generally in an exceedingly good humor and many funny scenes occurred.

Lieut. Murray and Sergeant Lentz, with twenty-six men of the Eighteenth District Police, were judiciously distributed, in order to protect the U. S. officials in case of need, but it was not

Unexpectedly, and with but a few days' notice, Unexpectedly, and with but a few days' notice, he appeared before his audience to congratulate the gentlemen upon the completion of their collegiate studies. It is within but a short period that we have had a college for the teaching of the profession of dentistry. It was usually taught by private preceptors, and the medical branch of it was acquired by attendance in the medical colleges. In the dental colleges as they are now constituted, every branch is taught, and the student is not only theoretically but practically prepared. is not only theoretically but practically prepared, upon graduating, to enter upon the field of their duties. In addition to the attendance upon lecture the stretch during the stretch tures the students devote four hour each day of the session to operating in the clinic and labora-

Without wishing to draw an invidious distinct tion between the medical colleges—being a graduate of a medical college myself—I would yet call your attention to one point. The medical student upon graduating, if able, in place of entering upon the practice of his profession, seeks to complete his education by examining into the practice of the great hospitals of Edinburgh, Paris, London, Vienna, and other cities, but our branch of the profession sends to Europe repre-sentatives who rank first among the practitioners there, and in addition to this, students of dentistry come from England, Germany, Cuba, and other foreign countries to be educated in our Dental Colleges, as this evening's exercises have proved. Philadelphia is undoubtedly the centre of medical instruction in America. More stu-dents of medicine and dentistry receive their education here than in any other city, and it is the manufacturing city of the world, so far as dental articles are concerned.

Gentlemen graduates, I will not attempt to lead you into error, as I might do by stopping here, sending you away with the thought that your education is completed. By no means, it has just commenced. There are many and graye responsibilities resting upon you; you must be considerate, attentive and faithful to your patients, and, besides the claims that they have upon you, the profession's claims must not be overlooked, and it is your duty to throw whatever additional light you can upon the profession, and add to its literature. He then referred to Dentists who had made important discoveries To John Tomes, of London, whose microscopic investigations are quoted by every work on anatomy or physiology in the world; also to the discovery of Amesthesia, and hoped the day would come when the claims of Horace Wells would be

The practitioner of medicine has no time that he can properly call his own; but it is different with you. As practitioners of dentistry you have certain hours that can be devoted to practice, and certain hours to give to study or rest. It is for you to say whether your hours of leisure shall be devoted to sensual gratification or in the acquirement of knowledge and the advancement of the

He then enforced upon the graduates the importance of having regular hours set apart for specific purposes, and in illustration read from the daily routine laid down by Franklin, and though he admitted that many unlooked-for clrains. cumstances would necessarily interfere with a rigid carrying out of arbitrary rules, yet he maintaided that one who endeavored to follow out such rules would accomplish much more than one who had no settled plan of action. The necessity of exercise and rest was dwelt upon. The longing which many persons experience of being relieved from the daily cares of life, was touched upon and met by quotation from Goethe: Rest! is not quiting the busy career;

"Rest! is not quiting the busy career;
Rest! is the fitting of self to its sphere—
The loving, the serving, the highest, the best;
Still onward, still upward, and this is true rest."
He then concluded by wishing the students success and prosperity, and tendered his best wishes for their future usefulness.

The audience was then dismissed with a benediction

A REPLY PROM DR. WOLGOTT To D. C. Miller, M. D .- DRAB Sin : Your outspoken letter of the 25th, requesting an agency for removing pain free of cost, for those calling at your drug store at 1,335 Third avenue, by the application of PAIN PAINT, has been received, and the agency granted. Your place will be duly noticed in my advertisements. PAIN PAINT has attracted the attention of physicians to a greater extent than any remedy ever offered to the public. I have had many applications of the same nature from them and leading retail druggists. Some physicians, as you say, are jealous, in consequence of the introduction of PAIN PAINT, but their opposition is useless. I have recommendations from the most prominent medical men, certilying that PAIN PAINT is more sure and permanent in its effects, quickest in operation, and safer in its application, under the most delicate circumstances, than any remedial agent they have ever known. Therefore, all half-made doc tors and conservative quacks, who live by the unnatural practice of cramming medicine down the stomach of their victims, are welcome to rant and rave, because their customers desert them, and use PAIN PAINT instead of their worn Very truly, out postrums.

Bold Express Robbery—A Messenger Knocked Down in His Car and $10,-000 Stolen. [From the Cacinnati Commercial, March 12th.]

At about 2.45 last evening, as the express train of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road, due here at 10 o'clock, was leaving. Glendale, a man entered the express car in which a messenger of the American Express Company was standing man entered the express car in which a messenger of the American Express Company was standing before his open safe, making up his money for clincinnati. This messenger, Mr. S. B. Haymen. entirely unsuspicious of any danger, had no warning of the attack that was about to be made upon him, for, almost simultaneous with his first glimpse of the man, as he instinctively felt his presence, he was felled to the floor, senseless, by a heavy blow as of a pistol or metal knuckles—a blow that cut his head and drew a profuse-stream of blood, while it entirely deprofuse stream of blood, while it entirely de prived him of consciousness. Having done this part of the work, the bold robber kneeled down by the side of the messenger, and hurriedly examined the packages of eash, bonds and valuable papers. Having secured all the money ne could find, estimated at from $10,000 to $15,000, the secundrel pulled the bell-rope, checked the train, sprang from it into the darkness, and made his escape, near Lockland. A brakeman saw him jump from the car, but did not suspect what his object was. The robbery was not discovered until the train The robbery was not discovered that the train was near the city, and then it was first noticed by the baggage-master, who, upon entering the car, found the messenger lying there as if dead, with the papers scattered all around. When revived so as to be able to talk, the wounded man became delirious. He lives in Newport, but was taken, last night, to the house of one of his relatives in this city. Up to midnight he was still unable to converse sufficiently to tell anything save that, as soon as he discovered the man hing save that, as soon as he discovered the man he blow came, and he fell. There is no clue whatever to the identity of the robber. He is, doubtless, a professional "cross-man"—one who has experience and nerve. It seems rather strange that he should have attempted it alone, for messengers generally have a revolver conveniently at hand. This is the second heavy robbery that we have noted as having occurred in this vicinity yesterday, making the total of booty over $20,000.

Heavy Burglary in Cincinnati—$5,500 in Bonds Stolen.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, 12th.] At about 1 o'clock, yesterday morning, a party of burglars entered Dr. Richardson's residence, on the old road, opposite the Work-house. The loise they made in prying open the window shutter, and in entering through the window, awakened some members of the family, but did not alarm them, as they attributed it to the kicking of a horse in the stable close by. The bur-clars made a thorough search of the lower part of the house, and collected together about $300 worth of silverware. In the hall stood a small afe, the door of which they found conveniently open. Mrs. Richardson, upon retiring for the night, had failed to lock this door, and, through some inadvertency, it had been left unlocked by her husband. In this they found $5,500 in United States bonds, which they secured and took safely away with them, together with the silverware.

The family did not discover the loss until they

The family did not discover the loss until they arose in the morning, and then all efforts to trace up any clue to the "crossmen," or the direction they had taken in escaping, proved unavailing. The burglars are doubtless men who have served a term at the Work-house, and "spotted" the house as a convenient "crib" to "crack."

Railroad Accident Near Lebanon Pa Last evening about half-past 11 o'clock, as the lincinnati express train westward, on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, which was running very rapidly to make up time, reached a point bree miles west of Lebanon, one of the rails broke, throwing three of the cars—including a sleeper—off the track, breaking and damaging the cars, and injuring a number of the passengers. The following is the list of wounded: Mrs. Knighton, from Ireland, Injured in the spine; Dr. Luther, of Reading, cut in the chin; Captain Geo. W. Dost, of the Fourth United States Infantry, on his way to join his regiment on the plains, injured in the head; another person had an ankle crushed, and three or four others were injured, whose names we could not ascertain up to the hour of going to press. The roof of the sleeping car was loosened, and several of the scats considerably broken. Lukily there was no embankment where the accident occurred, or the list of injured might have been much larger. We have obtained the above facis from a passenger who witnessed the accident .- Harrisburg Tele
